CORONER URGED NOT TO MUDDLE MAYORAL RACE

Stay Out for Unity, Plea to Bundesen.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A certificate purporting to be the nomination of Coroner Bundesen as a candidate for mayor on the "People's Nonpartisan" ticket was filed at the offices of the election commission yesterday. Dr. Bundesen said he would immediately withdraw the nomination. Thousands of women during the day received letters signed by Dr. Bundesen asking them to sign and return pledge cards that were inclosed. The letters said he had decided to be a candidate. Asked about them, he said they were not to be considered an announcement of his candidacy.

Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, issued a public appeal to Dr. Bundesen urging him not to run as an independent. When he was asked about this, the coroner said he had nothing to say.

City Hall Hopes He'll Run.

The rapid fire sort of action in connection with a possible independent candidacy against Mayor Thompson and A. J. Cermak, chosen as the Republican and Democratic nominees respectively in Tuesday's primaries, had the politicians and the public here stirred up by far than the postmortems and aftermaths of the party vote.

It was reported that the Thompson camp followers were expressing the view that Bundesen would run. The anti-Thompson forces that supported Judge Lyle and Ald. Arthur F. Albert were, for the most part, at least, believing the chance of success for any independent. That was true, particularly of the Lyle generals, who laughed at reports that they might get behind a late starter.

Refuses to Be Interviewed.

It has been known that for several weeks friends of Dr. Bundesen have been circulating petitions for him, have been organizing groups for him, and have been collecting some funds for him. But so far as could be learned he has not yet determined to run. He has persistently refused to be interviewed on the subject.

That he still is in serious doubt about his plans was believed indicated by a statement in a newspaper which the politicians believe has been encouraging him to enter the race. According to that paper "friends of Dr. Bundesen say that his letter is not an actual announcement of his candidacy, but a movement to get an expression of opinion among voters as to whether a petition to place his name on the ballot should be filed."

The Randolph Appeal.

The first response to the wide distribution of the letters to women was the public appeal in the form of a statement issued in the name of Col. Randolph.

"Expressing his belief that entrance of the third candidate will only work to the disadvantage of those who are now endeavoring to change the present political complexion of Chicago," read this statement, "Col. Randolph sent the following letter to Dr. Bundesen. 'Without regard to your availability or eligibility for the office of mayor of Chicago, permit me to state that I believe that your candidacy will have the same effect of dividing the opposition and insuring the election of Thompson.'"

Merriam Opposes Third Entry.

Without mentioning Dr. Bundesen's name, Charles E. Merriam, Bull Moose veteran, former alderman, and a south side Republican leader who supported Ald. Arthur F. Albert in the primary issued a statement deploring any third candidacy at this time.

"Tuesday's election showed plainly that the people of Chicago want a change in the city hall," he said. "Two hundred ninety-six thousand want to continue things as they are, twice as many, 585,000, voted for a new deal, under Cermak, Lyle or Albert. If these 585,000 stand together in the April election they can name the next mayor beyond question.

"I have known Mr. Cermak for over twenty years and I am confident that he would give Chicago an administration decidedly better than we now have. It is to be hoped that no independent candidate will not be brought in as he can only confuse the issue and make possible what the overwhelming majority of the people of Chicago clearly do not want—namely: the reelection of Thompson."

Coroner Bundesen's Letter.

The Bundesen letter, said to have prompted these protests, read in part as follows:

6 Witnesses Heard by Jury.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Prosecutor John Underwood and his staff laid the foundation today in a murder case by which they expect a jury of Hoosier farmers to send Virgil Kirkland to the electric chair as the instigator and principal culprit in the rape of Arlene Draves by five Gary youths. The 18 year old Gary high school girl met a violent death during liquor party last Nov. 30 in a Gary home.

DR. R. O. WHARTON. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

Mr. Underwood said he would show that Arlene Draves and Kirkland, with seven other young couples, had attended a house party at which the host served alcohol cocktails and wine. The state, he said, would prove that Arlene, becoming dazed from liquor fumes, was taken on an automobile ride, ravished by Kirkland and the other four men, and brought by them to the home of a Gary physician, who pronounced her dead.

Defense to Claim Accident.

Opening for the defense Oscar B. Thiel of Gary contented himself with the brief assertion that the evidence would show that any relations occurring that night between Arlene and Kirkland were mutually voluntary and that her death resulted from an accidental fall.

More than 500 spectators, many of them former school chums of the defendant and the dead girl, were jammed in the seats and aisles of the musty courtroom and stood eight deep around the bench of Circuit Judge Grant Crumpacker. Another 200 filled the corridors outside.

During the day the state summoned and the defense rigorously cross-examined six witnesses. The witnesses, in testimony that was always formal and sometimes halting, suggested the manner in which, the state contends, Arlene met death in a struggle to preserve her virtue.

Six Witnesses Heard.

The witnesses in the order of the appearance were Chester A. Owens, deputy coroner of Lake county; George L. Garrett, Gary police photographer; Detectives George Harm and Obie Cross of the Gary police force; Dr. Russell Wharton, who pronounced Arlene dead; Dr. Wharton's wife, Florence, and Dr. Herbert Baitinger, the Draves family physician.

Through these witnesses Prosecutor Underwood paved the way for the introduction of four exhibits—photographs of Arlene's head and bust as she lay on a mortuary slab, the cushion covers of the sedan in which she rode, the torn party dress she wore and Kirkland's clothing. Overruling the persistent objections of his son, Attorney John Crumpacker of defense counsel, the judge permitted introduction o' the exhibits.

Jury Examines Exhibits.

Mr. Underwood handed the articles around among the jurors, whose faces seemed grim as they examined the pictures of the white face with the tresses of disarrayed hair and the bruises on the neck and forehead. Arlene's three sisters in the front of the courtroom began to sob as the jurors handled her flimsy frock and the defendant's mother, a stout and elderly woman in the front row, also dabbed her eyes. Kirkland sat unmoved.

The most telling testimony of the day, in Mr. Underwood's opinion, was that in which Dr. Wharton told how Kirkland and his comrades, having awakened him at 2:45 a. m. by telephone and carried Arlene into his home, took flight when he declared her dead. Barratt O'Hara of Chicago, one of defense counsel, spent twenty minutes in an effort to shake the physician's story and failed.

"I knew the hour from the bedroom clock in my room," Dr. Wharton said. "A voice on the phone told me there was a sick girl in a machine somewhere in town. I told them to bring her over.

"I was surprised when Kirkland and the other boys carried her in. I had assumed since she had been taken ill in a car that she would be able to

PASS BILL TO PAY HEIRS OF HANSON, DRY LAW VICTIM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The house tonight passed a bill to authorize payment of $5,000 to the survivors of Jacob D. Hanson, who was fatally shot by coast guardsmen looking for liquor smugglers at Niagara Falls, N. Y. The bill now goes to the senate.

Hanson was said in a committee report on the measure to be a well known and law abiding citizen who was on his way home by automobile when shot by coast guardsmen on May 6, 1928. The coast guardsmen were tried and acquitted.

Secretary Mellon, in a report to the house claims committee, did not express an opinion on the measure.

"At that time," he said, "this road was being used by the smuggling fraternity in high powered automobiles carrying contraband from the Canadian border."

THIS OUGHT TO EASE THE MIND OF MR. WALLIS

D. A. Wallis, of 4015 Avenue Q, Birmingham, Ala., invested in a long distance telephone call last night and got Sergt. Charles Kelly of the Chicago detective bureau on the other end of his line.

"Will you please find out for me what hospital Mrs. A. C. Hadley of 117 North Kilbourn avenue is in," he requested, "and wire me what her condition is."

Sergt. Kelly obliged. He had a policeman sent to the Hadley address. The policeman next went to the proper hospital, made inquiries and reported to Sergt. Kelly. Then the following telegram was sent to Mr. Wallis in the hope that his anxiety would be relived.

"Mrs. Hadley is in Illinois Masonic hospital, 834 Wellington avenue. Condition O. K. It's a nine pound boy."

CHICAGOAN SHOT BY ROBBERS ON NEW YORK VISIT

New York, Feb. 26 (Thursday).—[Special.]—Three gunmen held up a dozen patrons in a cafe at 246A West 48th street early today, robbed them of about $250, and escaped after one of the trio had shot and slightly wounded a patron who resisted them.

Harold Ripley, 5718 Winthrop avenue, Chicago, a salesman, who is a guest at the Hotel President, a few doors from the cafe, suffered a flesh wound in the left side of the face, for which he was treated by an ambulance surgeon.

One of the thugs took $120 from Ripley. The salesman expostulated with the gunmen in an effort to persuade them to let him keep $10. He was shot in the ensuing argument.

Bandits Take Posse; Hold 2 as Hostages

Hastings, Neb., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Four bandits, who early today robbed the First National bank of Hastings of $27,673, shot their way to freedom after being surrounded in a house early tonight. In the shooting affray Volcott Condit, son of a former state sheriff, was shot under the arm, but was not seriously wounded.

Force Six to Surrender.

After Condit had been wounded the bandits held a machine gun over him while they forced the six other officers to surrender. The bandits then kidnaped Frank Yettman and Bill Woods, Hastings police officers, and fled east in two autos.

Police Chief John S. Bramble said the bandit party included four men, one woman, and a baby. The robbers had one of the policemen in a machine operated by two of the bandits and the other officer in the other auto, occupied by two robbers, the woman, and baby.

Capture Man, Wife, Baby.

Late tonight a dispatch from Hebron, Neb., said that officers in Belvidere, near there, had captured a wounded man, his wife, and baby. They were in an automobile.

The trio were brought to a hospital here and doctors held little hope for the man's recovery. His wife and child were placed in the county jail.

Sheriff A. W. Geisler said both the man and the woman refused to reveal their names.

In a search of the house that followed the bandits' escape $900 of the stolen money was recovered.

EXCLUSIVE CLUB IN PHILADELPHIA RAIDED BY POLICE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26 (Thursday).—(AP)—The Philadelphia Manufacturers' club, one of the city's most exclusive institutions, was raided early today by a special liquor squad headed by Director of Public Safety Lemuel B. Scofield.

Policemen carrying axes rushed into the building and returned a few minutes later carrying boxes and packages said to contain liquor.

Director Schofield made the following statement:

"The only way to enforce the law is to arrest the big fellow along with the little fellow. Broad and Walnut streets [the club is centrally located] looks the same to me as any little speakeasy up an alley."

MAYOR DONS FALSE WHISKERS AND TRIES OUT RELIEF SERVICE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Unshaved and roughly dressed, wearing a bushy false mustache and sideburns and using a red bandana handkerchief, Mayor Mackey has been eating and sleeping frequently of late with the penniless, unemployed men at the shelter for homeless maintained by the committee for unemployment relief.

In the outfit of a hobo, the mayor, without the knowledge of the home's supervisors or inmates, has been mingling with the "down and outers" to learn their stories and see how they are treated. His secret was revealed today to a delegation of five workers who represented a crowd of "hunger marchers" holding a demonstration on city hall plaza outside the mayor's window.

William Simons, the delegation's leader, declared that food at the shelter was bad and that the alleged segregation of Negroes from whites was objectionable.

"I'm well acquainted with conditions at the shelter," the mayor retorted. "Don't you tell me anything about it. I go up there frequently and mingle with the men and sleep with them in disguise. I have been all through the place and seen things for myself and I have found the food satisfactory and the men contented."

Seize Wealthy Man; Threaten to Kill Him

Harry Kaplan, 1659 South Harding avenue, a wealthy retired cigar manufacturer, was kidnaped on the eve of his scheduled appearance as complaining witness against two men and two women who are charged with robbing him. He was held captive for a time and threatened with cremation in the boilers of an abandoned Terry Druggan brewery at West Roosevelt road and South Campbell avenue unless he paid $10,000 in ransom.

Kaplan escaped from the kidnapers yesterday morning when they took him to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, 231 South La Salle street, where he told a teller he wanted $5,000 in cash from his account to pay for ransom. The bank teller, by the use of a private bank signal, called out the bank's guards and Kaplan's kidnapers fled before they could be arrested.

Witness in Robbery Case.

The cigar manufacturer was scheduled to appear yesterday morning in Judge Peter Schwaba's Criminal court against Hans Bowman, Gilbert Tosch, Jessie Welch, and Mary Andrews on a charge of robbing him of $735 on Jan. 7.

The robbery charge grew out of a visit by Kaplan to the Welch woman's home at 3322 Michigan avenue to see the Andrews woman. He charges that Bowman and Tosch followed him from the flat, dragged him into a barn at 114 East 34th street, and robbed him of $735.

When the case was called for trial Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell asked for a continuance on the ground that the complaining witness did not respond to the subpoena. Attorney W. W. O'Brien, representing the defendants, demanded a trial, saying that he would be busy next week defending William J. (Three Fingered Jack) White in a murder case and could not afford to have this case continued. The judge granted the continuance until Friday.

Daughter Seeks Father.

About this time Kaplan's daughter, Mrs. Lena Bycher, 1659 South Harding avenue, rushed into court, inquiring about her father. She said she thought he had been kidnaped. While the authorities were scurrying about trying to find some trace of Kaplan word came from Sergt. Thomas O'Malley of the detective bureau announcing the escape of Kaplan from his kidnapers.

Kaplan said that on Tuesday night he left a street car at Roosevelt road and Fairfield avenue and that three men were waiting for him. They ordered him into a waiting automobile, he said, and drove him to the abandoned Druggan brewery.

The men demanded $10,000 and when Kaplan said that he could not pay they suggested that they might cremate him in the boilers.

Threaten Him with Death.

"We do not care whether you pay the money or not," said the spokesman of the gang. "We would just as soon burn you up in the boilers anyhow. This place is abandoned since the government closed it up and nobody would ever hear of you again."

Kapan said that he was frightened and asked for permission to communicate with some of his relatives. They agreed to drive him to the barber shop of Sam Bycher, 2754 West 16th street. The latter is a father-in-law of Kaplan's daughter.

The kidnapers would not allow Kaplan to leave the automobile, but they called Bycher out to the sidewalk and allowed him to talk with Kaplan. The latter asked Bycher to lend him $1,000 at once. Bycher said he did not have the money on hand. This cut the conversation short, and the men drove away with their victim.

Another Plea Fails.

Kaplan then asked permission to visit one more friend and his captors took him to Sam Marcus' garage at 1417 West Van Buren street. Marcus too said that he did not have the amount demanded.

The kidnapers then drove to the Crystal hotel, 72 West Randolph street, and held Kaplan captive all night when he promised to get the money as soon as the banks opened. The price in the meantime had been reduced from $10,000 to $5,000, he said. Two of the men registered at the hotel under the names of Joseph Schwartzman and Joseph Cohen.

Kaplan told Chief of Detectives John Norton that one of the men sat up all night and watched him so that he had no chance to escape. Then yesterday morning they took him to the bank.

Weds Employer, Divorced, Now Sues for Work Done

Franklin, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—On Sept. 15, 1928, Miss Victoria Tarnowski employed Stephen Samol to repair her house. Feb. 2, 1929, they were married. In September, 1930, they were divorced. Today Samol sued his former wife for $1,354 which he claims for doing repair work on the house from Feb. 24 to Aug. 13, in 1928,

U. S. WITNESSES SAY GANG CHIEF ATTENDED RACES

The government concluded its contempt of court case yesterday against Alphonse Capone, Chicago's foremost public enemy, with a trial that brought thrills for every clerk and stenographer in the federal building and disappointment to thousands who were turned away at the street entrances. Federal Judge Wilkerson, who sentenced Al's brother, Ralph, to three years in the penitentiary, is hearing the case. The defense began late in the day and will be concluded today.

EDWARD NIRMARRER. [Aviator who testifies against Capone.]

The government accuses Capone of contempt of court by feigning illness to avoid a federal grand jury summons. Against the contention of the defense that Capone was telling the truth when he swore he was "a dangerously sick man" in March, 1929, and could not have come from Florida to testify before the grand jury without endangering his life, the government built up a weighty case.

Active During His "Illness."

Witnesses testified that during the period he was supposedly dangerously ill Capone attended the Hialeah races regularly, took airplane and steamer trips, and was a spectator at the Sharkey-Stribling fight.

Sleek and well groomed, the respondent appeared little perturbed by the proceedings. He settled his porcine bulk—235 pounds—in his chair at the counsel table and presented the complacency of a milk fattened shoat lolling in a mud puddle. A platinum watch chain, studded with diamonds, crossed his waist coat, and pearl gray spats and a white silk handkerchief in his coat pocket set off his rich, blue suit.

Surrenders to Police.

At the close of the morning session, as he left the courtroom, Capone surrendered on a vagrancy warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle. The warrant was served by Police Sergeants Edward Tyrrell and Joseph Hacksaw. Capone was hurried to the detective bureau, escorted and guarded by several squads of policemen under Lieut. William McCarthy.

After being finger printed and photographed, he was questioned briefly by Chief of Detectives Norton and given coffee and sandwiches. He told the detective chief that he was in the real estate business.

Before Capone's arrest his lawyers had obtained approval of a $10,000 real estate bond on the vagrancy charge from Judge Thomas Green. Property valued at $50,000, at 4629 North Albany avenue, was scheduled by Michael Schwigel, and Capone was freed within a few minutes. He is scheduled to be arraigned in Felony court today, but he will be so busy in federal court that he may ask a continuance on the state charge.

Given Police Guard.

The police guard took the gang chief back to the federal building for the afternoon session, and after the adjournment of court the police escorted him to 18th street and Wabash avenue. This was on instructions of Acting Commissioner Alcock, who said: "We don't want Capone killed in Chicago."

When Capone's taxicab stopped at Van Buren and Dearborn streets for a red light as he was leaving the federal building, a swarthy man ran up to the cab. Lieut. McCarthy jumped from his squad car, shoved the man over to the sidewalk, and searched him for a gun.

"I'm only a bondsman trying to drum up some trade," said the frightened suspect.

U. S. Well Represented.

Not only police but all branches of the government turned out for the Capone trial—the secret service, deputy marshals, special intelligence men from the revenue department, who are interested in Capone's income tax affairs; postal inspectors, prohibition agents, operatives from the bureau of investigation, justice department, and fifteen assistant United States attorneys, who crowded the counsel tables.

During the day the hundreds of girls in the federal service stole up to the sixth floor and into the courtroom, to be jostled out by harassed bailiffs, but not before getting a glimpse of Scarface Al.

Strict precautions were taken to prevent suspicious characters from entering the federal building, and only newspaper men, attorneys, witnesses and federal officials were permitted to attend the contempt hearing.

Talks Freely to Reporters.

To reporters Capone chatted amiably, declaring he arrived in Chicago last Friday, refusing to state by what route.

He laughed derisively when asked whether he contributed $150,000 to the Thompson campaign fund.

"What do you think of the election?" he was asked.

"Lyle tried to make me an issue and the public has given its answer," was the reply.

"No, I'm not going into the movies," Capone said in reply to another question. "Neither am I going to write my autobiography. It probably would make me a lot of money. I have been offered as high as $2,000,000, including movie, serial, and book rights. But I am not going into the literary business."

Where Capone stayed last night was not learned, but it did not matter to the authorities. The vagrancy warrant has been served.

Florida Policeman Testifies.

John M. Coroneas, a policeman from Hialeah City, was the first government witness to combat Capone's illness plea. An affidavit from Capone's physician, Dr. Kenneth Philips, which gained a stay for the grand jury appearance from March 12 to March 20, stated that Capone was convalescing from "broncho-pneumonial pleurisy, with fluid effusions in the chest." Dr. Philips first attended Capone on Jan. 13.

"When did you first see Capone?" Coroneas was asked by Prosecutor Jacob Grossman.

"On the first or the second day of the opening of the Hialeah races. They opened on Jan. 17, 1929," said Coroneas.

Q.—Which was it, the first or the second day? A.—The second. I was patrolling the grounds and I saw a big yellow car pull up in a space reserved for the sheriff. I started towards the driver, but somebody said that was Al Capone, so I gave him service.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—I walked over to the ticket office and waited for him. I said "Hello, Al," and he said, "Hello," handing me a $10 bill, which he peeled off a roll he took out, to buy the tickets with.

Seen Frequently at Races.

Q.—Did you see him after that? A.—I saw him frequently until the closing of the races, March 9.

Q.—How many times did you see him. A.—About fifteen or twenty times.

Q.—How did he look? Did he appear in good health? A.—He was the picture of health, always smiling and in good spirits.

Q.—[By the court] Did you talk to him about his health? A.—No, judge. I just saluted, like this, and said "Hello, Al."

Gives Cop a $10 Tip.

James T. Wood and W. R. Foster, two other policemen from Hialeah City, corroborated Coroneas' testimony, saying the latter pointed out Al Capone as the man who gave him a $10 tip.

Charles W. Clark, of the special intelligence unit, revenue bureau, Miami, Fla., who accompanied a deputy marshal to the Capone estate at Palm Island to serve the grand jury subpoena on Feb. 27, 1929, said he talked with Capone for five or ten minutes.

Q.—Where was he, in bed? A.—No, he was standing out on the porch with several other men.

Q.—How was he dressed? A.—In gray flannel trousers and a camel's hair coat.

Woman Tells of Interview.

Miss Ruth Gaskin, secretary to Robert R. Taylor, former solicitor of Dade county, Florida, who questioned Capone on Feb. 14, 1929, told of the interview.

Q.—How did he appear then, sick or in good health? A.—He didn't look any different from the way he does now.

Q.—Did he say anything about being sick? A.—Not that I knew of.

The airplane trip to Bimini, on Feb. 2, when Capone was "confined to bed" and convalescing from his "desperate illness" of Jan. 13, was described by Edward Nirmarrer, the pilot.

Q.—Did you ever see Al Capone? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you see him here in the courtroom? A.—(After searching the crowded room for a full minute)—There he is.

Took Pictures of Estate.

Q.—Tell us about the first time you saw him. A.—It was in January, 1929, at his estate at Palm Island, about two weeks before. I took him on a trip to Bimini. I had taken a photographer on a flight over the J. C. Penney estate, where Mr. Hoover was going to stay, to get pictures. We made some pictures of Capone's estate and the photographer asked me to go there and try to sell some of them.

Q.—Did you go there? A.—Yes, I gave him some of the prints and told him where he could get some more. Incidentally, I took one of his friends for a ride.

Taken on Airplane Ride.

Q.—What was Capone doing? A.—He was sitting around in a dressing gown.

Q.—When did you next see him?

A.—On Feb. 2, when I took him to Bimini and back to Miami.

Q.—How did you go—in an open plane? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long did it take? A.—About 45 minutes each way.

Q.—How long were you in Bimini? A.—About three hours.

Prosecutor Grossman at this point introduced the manifest supplied immigration officials, which gave his passenger list as Alphonse Capone, Nicholas Circella, Tony Clarke, and Philip D'Andrea.

A steamship trip to Nassau was not described, but the records of Capone's arrival and departure from Miami with his young brother, Alfred, were introduced through identification of immigration authorities and J. W. Cooper, agent for the Munson lines, who said he booked Capone for the passage on Feb. 8. The return manifest was dated Feb. 13.

Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson, who represented the government when Capone appeared before the grand jury investigating booze conditions in Chicago Heights, took the stand for the government, and a spirited colloquy between counsel as to whether Capone addressed a letter to "Hon. James H. Wilkerson" ensued.

Wanted to Avoid Contempt.

The government contended in the opening statement that Capone sent a letter with the affidavit of Dr. Philips, stating that he did not wish to be in contempt of court, but desired a continuance on the advice of his physicians. A continuance was granted by Judge Wilkerson on the 11th of March and Capone appeared on the 20th.

Attorney Epstein insisted that the letter, which the prosecution claimed it could not find, and which the defense did not produce, was addressed to him and Attorney Waugh, retaining them as counsel.

The controversy over the addressing of the letter resulted in the introduction of a part of Capone's testimony when he finally appeared before the grand jury, wherein the respondent admitted that he wrote Judge Wilkerson a letter and gave contradictory testimony as to his confinement to bed in Florida.

What Is "Sick in Bed."

The question of what is meant by the term 'confined to bed" figured prominently in the testimony of Dr. Philips, who was the only defense witness introduced before court adjourned yesterday.

Q.—When were you called to the home of Capone at Palm Island? A.—On Jan. 13, 1929.

Q.—What was his condition then? A.—I found him acutely ill, talking incessantly, with a temperature of 104 and a pulse rate of 140. He was suffering stabbing pains from pleurisy in the left side and bronchial pneumonia in both lungs.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I ordered a night nurse immediately. He only had a day nurse. Then I began treating him.

Q.—Did you give him the regular treatment for pneumonia? A.—No, this individual is a heavy man and he had to have the extreme treatment.

Judge Wilkerson interposed to inquire if Capone was "dangerously ill." "In my opinion, he was," said the physician.

Q.—[By the court]—How long was he confined to his bed? A.—Five or six weeks.

Could Get Out of Bed.

Q.—(By counsel). State what you mean, professionally speaking, when you said he was confined to his bed five or six weeks. A.—Well, by being confined to his bed I don't mean that he couldn't get up at times, go to the bathroom, sit up a while, or even be carried to an automobile for a little ride.

Q.—You mean that he was restrained from his activities? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you examine the respondent on March 5, 1929? (This was the date of the affidavit.) A.—I examined him the night before. He was still coughing and had effusions of fluid in the chest cavity. I advised him that to go to Chicago, where the climate was considerably colder, would be dangerous.

Capone's nurses will testify for him today, and the hearing is expected to be concluded during the day. The punishment for contempt is within the discretion of federal judges, but the courts have usually limited prison terms for contempt to one year.

SCHOOLS TRANSFER FUNDS TO SECURE CASH FOR PAY ROLL

The school board yesterday authorized the transfer of $75,000 from the building fund to the playground fund, which was reported to be too depleted to pay the salaries of 125 playground instructors. Harry H. Brackett, auditor, said that only $15,000 remained in the playground fund and was insufficient to meet three pay rolls of $25,000 each, which fall due on March 2 and 17 and on April 2. The money is to be replaced in the building fund through the sale of tax anticipation warrants, members of the board said.

THIRD MAYORAL CANDIDATE NEVER WON IN CHICAGO

Records of Past Elections All Tell Same Story.

Discussion of the possibility of an independent candidate stepping into the Chicago mayoralty fight led yesterday to a study of the luck which third party aspirants have had in mayoralty and Illinois senatorial contests. The record has been gloomy for these entrants, not one having been successful.

The most recent example of this Illinois political truism dates back only to the election of last November, when Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for United States senator, polled less than 100,000 votes against James Hamliton Lewis and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the regular party nominees. In Cook county Mrs. O'Neill got only 23,823 of the 1,044,903 votes cast.

Election of 1927 Recalled.

In the 1926 senatorial election Frank L. Smith, Republican, and George E. Brennan, Democratic leader, were the regular party candidates. Hugh Magill ran independently. Illinois voters cast 1,773,461 ballots in that election, and their distribution was as follows:

| | Smith. | Brennan. | Magill. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Downstate | 307,089 | 357,585 | 74,011 |
| Cook | 335,184 | 417,390 | 82,234 |
| Totals | 642,273 | 774,943 | 156,245 |

The Chicago mayoralty election of 1919 is another example. Thompson was running for his second term and was opposed by the present county clerk, Robert M. Sweitzer, Democrat. Maclay Hoyne, then state's attorney, entered the race as an independent, and a fourth candidate was John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Same Story Over Again.

The story was the same; the independents pushed themselves out of the picture and Sweitzer faded with them. The vote was: Thompson, 259,828; Sweitzer, 238,206; Hoyne, 110,851, and Fitzpatrick, 55,990.

In the 1914 senatorial contest Raymond Robins, Progressive, ran against Roger C. Sullivan, Democrat, and Lawrence Y. Sherman, Republican. This race, coming but two years after the Bull Moose uprising, closed with Sherman winning with 390,661 votes. Sullivan polled 373,403, and the third candidate, Robins, got 203,027.

In 1912 another Progressive candidate, Frank H. Funk of Bloomington, was a defeated third party entrant in the governorship race. Edward F. Dunne was the Democratic candidate and Charles S. Deneen was running for reelection. The voters gave Dunne, 443,120; Deneen, 318,469, and Funk, 303,401.

In 1899 the story was repeated. Carter H. Harrison Jr. was the Democratic mayoralty standard bearer against Zina R. Carter, Republican. John P. Altgeld was the Independent candidate and got 47,169 votes. Harrison won with 148,496 and Carter was second with 107,437.

Harlan Beaten in 1897.

John M. Harlan was another third party candidate to meet defeat. In 1897 he ran for mayor as an independent Republican against the party candidate, Nathaniel C. Sears, and the Democratic nominee, Carter H. Harrison Jr. Harlan polled more votes than Sears, but he was far behind Harrison. This vote stood: Harrison, 148,800; Harlan, 69,730, and Sears, 59,542.

Six years before this Carter H. Harrison Sr. learned the futility of independent candidacy. He was the third party entrant in the mayoralty contest against Dewitt C. Cregier, Democrat, and Hempstead Washburne, Republican. Harrison polled 42,931 votes; Cregier, 46,588, and Washburne, 46,957.

In 1876 J. J. McGrath was an independent candidate for mayor against Mark Kimball, Democrat, and Monroe Heath, Republican. Heath won, Kimball was second, and McGrath was third.

Urge City to Let Jobless Men Do Work of Machines

As a means to relieve employment the city council yesterday directed department heads to provide in contracts that work shall be done by manual labor whenever it is practicable instead of by the use of machinery or labor saving devices. The resolution calling for this action was drafted by Ald. John Toman [23d].

COUNTY BOARD VOTES $15,500 FOR MENTAL CLINIC AT THE JAIL

An appropriation of $15,500 for the support of a mental behavior clinic at the county jail was approved as one of the items in the county budget yesterday by the board of commissioners.

The clinic would have a resident psychiatrist at the jail and every prisoner would be examined as to his sanity when he enters. The American Bar association has approved such institutions in principle. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court has received from Dr. W. A. Guild, 185 North Wabash avenue, a communication stating that the medical profession also is in favor of some such system.

The commissioners voted to retain in the budget a $250,000 item for printing of ballots for the city election last November, although the county's legal forces have advised that the city and not the county should pay. Such payments have been made by the county for thirty years.

URGE BUNDESEN NOT TO MUDDLE MAYORAL RACE

have urged me to run for the office of mayor.

"The urgent requests that I take this step have been insistent, have come from men and women in every walk of life, and are from every section of the city.

"I have decided to be a candidate on the People's Nonpartisan ticket, and I am thoroughly aware of the great responsibility.

"Has Decided to Run."

"I have decided to run because I believe that by running independently, with no political debts to pay, I can do a real service for Chicago—particularly to the mothers—by exerting every ounce of energy in my body to make Chicago a better place to rear our children.

"As the first step toward this great objective I should like to feel that I have the support of the home makers of Chicago—the mothers and fathers.

"For that reason I am inclosing a postcard (which requires no stamp) giving you the opportunity to pledge me your vote and your influence. Would you also kindly have a neighbor, relative, or friend sign and mail the extra card?"

Regular Democratic headquarters—backing Cermak—announced that it had been deluged with these cards with appeals written across them urging the leaders of the party to persuade Dr. Bundesen not to run.

Dr. Bundesen said that the filing of the certificate of his nomination was without his knowledge or consent.

Some time ago an alleged Bundesen headquarters was opened in the Ashland block. In charge was Charles C. Roe, a former assistant state's attorney, former editor of a paper called the Chicago Republican, who was indicted in 1927 on charges of operating a confidence game. He had been charged with soliciting campaign contributions for men who had not authorized him to represent them.

Roe Uses "Nonpartisan" Label.

Dr. Bundesen chose to ignore the unauthorized headquarters, but Roe's move yesterday was embarrassing, politicians said, since he used in his filing with the election commissioners the name of the "People's Nonpartisan ticket" which Dr. Bundesen mentioned in his letters to women voters as the label under which he had chosen to run.

The Bundesen incident took the spotlight temporarily off the mayoralty winners in the primary, but both were showered with congratulations during the day. Thompson announced that he will leave soon for Washington to make a flood control and waterway speech and then go back to Mount Clemens, Mich., for further treatment for rheumatism.

President Cermak received the following telegram from Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York:

"Cordial congratulations on your nomination as standard bearer of the Democratic party in Chicago. Certainly I wish you every success. A Democratic administration is what Chicago needs."

Cermak headquarters also made public a statement by Dr. Otto L. Schmidt protesting against the "Tony" song that Thompson and his friends were singing in celebration of the primary.

"I believe," the statement read, "that I speak the sentiments of thousands of German, Irish, Swedish, Polish, French, Lithuanian, Italian, Danish, Bohemian, Jewish, and other citizens of Chicago who trace their ancestry to other lands, when I protest against the insult given to every man and woman whose name might have any foreign extraction."

HUNDREDS RAID GROCERY STORE AND STEAL FOOD

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Several hundred men and women in an unemployment demonstration late today stormed a grocery and meat market in the Gateway district, at the edge of downtown, smashed plate glass windows, and helped themselves to bacon and ham, fruit and canned goods.

One of the owners of the store suffered a broken arm when he was attacked as he drew a revolver and attempted to keep out the first to enter.

One hundred policemen were sent to the district and seven persons were arrested as among the leaders. Police had to use their clubs to aid in dispersing the crowd which had been augmented by hundreds of curious.

11 VEST POCKET WARDS DO TRICK FOR THOMPSON

Democratic Districts Pile Up His Plurality.

Analysis of the vote in the Republican primary Tuesday revealed yesterday that eleven wards—all but one of them on the near south and west sides—furnished Mayor Thompson with more than the number of votes he required for a plurality. Five of these eleven wards are known officially as Democratic territory and the others are usually regarded as Democratic.

Political analysis of the eleven wards—small in territory, but populous and with a voting strength lower in proportion to population than most of the other wards—divides itself into three groups.

The first group is composed of the four south side wards, 1 to 4 inclusive. The First ward is the home of Michael Kenna, former alderman, and of John J. Coughlin, Democrats, who generally deliver it to Democratic candidates on election day, but often split out their Republican friends on primary day.

Capone-Serritella Influence.

In the primary election of Tuesday these "Republican friends" were Al Capone and his lieutenant, the titular leader in the ward, Dan Serritella, Capone member and member of Thompson's cabinet. They managed to roll up 4,438 votes for Thompson, whose plurality was 3,438. The ward gave A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee, 5,186 votes, a fraction of its Democratic total.

Of the other three wards in the first group the Second and Third wards are almost entirely inhabited by colored people and the vote of the Fourth ward is 60 per cent colored. Judge F. Harding tried to carry these wards for Judge Lyle, but the colored leaders were with Thompson. He won the Second with a 11,983 plurality, the Third was 12,507, and the Fourth with 8,350. Thompson's total plurality in this group of four wards was 36,278.

Bridgeport Wards for Mayor.

The second group of wards is composed of two, the Eleventh and Twelfth—grouped under the general designation of "Bridgeport" and adjoining the stock yards and the drainage canal. Both are normally strongly Democratic, but the Thompson vote in the 11th on Tuesday exceeded the Cermak vote and the 12th was not far behind.

The vote in these wards is generally classified as "deliverable." Thompson's pluralities in these wards were: Eleventh, 3,697; Twelfth, 3,022—a total of 6,719 in the two.

The first of the group is the Twenty-first ward, the home of City Collector Charles Eller and the scene of the murder of Octavius Granady, colored candidate for ward committeeman, on a primary day. Originally the ward, this ward now has a large colored population.

25th Is Ward of Murders.

Adjoining the Twentieth is the Twenty-fifth ward, formerly the Deadly Nineteenth," where a half dozen murders were the result of the Democratic candidacy of Tony D'Andrea. When "Diamond Joe" Esposito was boss of the ward it was anti-Thompson, but since he was slain there has been practically no opposition to Thompsonism, and the ward gave him a plurality of 2,738.

The 24th, neighbor of the 20th and 25th, followed their example and rolled up a 5,578 Thompson plurality under the leadership of James Curren, superintendent of the Bridewell.

The banner Thompson ward in this territory, however, was the 27th, the Loop house ward just west of the river, where Homer K. Galpin refused to take charge of the old west side organization forces and roll up a Thompson lead of 8,609 in a ward which used to go Democratic by as large a figure. The last ward in this river group is the Thirty-first, generally Democratic. There, too, the vote is known to be "deliverable," and the Thompson forces rolled up a 4,039 plurality. The total of the Thompson pluralities in these five wards was 25,847.

Plurality Won in 11 Wards.

Summarizing the pluralities by groups, the Thompson pluralities were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Four south side | 35,278 |
| Bridgeport | 6,719 |
| Five west side | 25,847 |
| Total | 68,844 |

On the other hand, Judge Lyle's strength was found in the residential wards. In the combined vote of 39 wards Judge Lyle had a plurality over Thompson and the total vote of Lyle, Albert, and Schmidt in these wards exceeded that cast for Thompson.

The only north side ward in which Thompson had a majority of the vote was the Forty-fifth.

Judge Lyle carried the Forty-fourth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-second, and Fiftieth wards.

In the west side the only outlying residential district in which Thompson had a majority was the Thirtieth ward, where Ald. John S. Clark was the Democratic leader and was generally understood to be friendly with the Thompsonites.

On the south side Lyle carried the Fifth, the old village of Hyde Park; the Seventh, the south shore ward; the Eighth and the Ninth, including Roseland, Pullman, Kensington, and other communities where workingmen and their families live.

On the Far South Side.

Judge Lyle also carried the Seventeenth, Eighteenth, and Nineteenth in the old Englewood-Morgan Park territory. Lyle, Albert, and Schmidt together got more votes than Thompson in the Tenth, the South Chicago ward.

On the west side Lyle carried the Twenty-first ward, the home of Charles V. Barrett, and the Lawndale ward, the Twenty-second, the home of Mr. Cermak.

He also carried the Thirty-seventh, the old Austin-Cragin ward, where there are thousands of small homes—and the Fortieth and Forty-first in the old town of Jefferson, where the population is largely composed of workingmen and their families. In the Twenty-fourth, the Douglas park ward, and in the Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, and Thirty-ninth, northwest side residential wards, Lyle and Albert together had more votes than Thompson.

Albert did not carry a single ward. He led Lyle in only five wards—the Twelfth, where the vote was Thompson, 5,277; Lyle, 2,229; Albert, 2,255; the Thirteenth, where it was Thompson, 2,219; Lyle, 496; Albert, 955; the Thirty-first, where it was Thompson, 4,665; Lyle, 496; Albert, 626; the Thirty-second, where it was Thompson, 3,070; Lyle, 1,066; Albert, 1,183; and in Albert's own ward, the Forty-third, where it was Thompson, 3,984; Lyle, 3081; Albert, 3,754.

A Lesson in City's Political Geography

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, L. I., Feb. 25.—Speaking editorially, the Marion [Ohio] Star says, "Will Rogers and Calvin Coolidge are telegraphing daily comments to the press, and now Ring Lardner has started a similar feature. Isn't this carrying a thing too far?"

The undersigned thinks the Star is perfectly right and can see no reason why Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Rogers should be so doggoned persistent.

GUERNSEY BALKS VOTE ON BONDS AT APRIL POLLS

The submission of city bond issues totaling $14,750,000 to the voters at the April 7 mayoralty election was blocked by Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th] at yesterday's council meeting by withholding unanimous consent for their consideration. The bonds had to be approved yesterday to meet the requirement of the law, which calls for certification of the bonds 40 days before an election.

Among the proposed bonds was an issue for the acquisition of land for the construction of a viaduct over the Illinois Central railroad tracks at 43d street. The viaduct is desired by the World's Fair managers as an entrance to the fair grounds. The other bond issues were for bridges and street widening.

ALCOCK DRAFTS CHARGES AGAINST TEN POLICEMEN

Continues in Refusal to Suspend Accused Cops.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, in a letter to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller yesterday, announced that he was preparing charges against 10 policemen to be filed with the civil service commission. Those named include the seven policemen of the Englewood district who refused to sign immunity waivers and appear before the grand jury for questioning regarding testimony that they had been accepting graft. Policeman Ernest Dallege of the Englewood station and James J. Best and Joseph J. Hogan of the Wabash avenue station are the other three.

Suspension of 7 Asked.

The suspension of the seven Englewood policemen accused of taking graft was recommended by Mueller and the special grand jury which is investigating charges of police corruption. Alcock said he would notify Mueller of the date of the trial before the civil service board, "so you may be present to prosecute." Mueller said that, although it is not ordinarily the duty of the state's attorney's office to prosecute before the police trial board, he would accept the task.

Alcock, in an interview, said that in many instances it is unjust to suspend a policeman when charges are filed against him, although such has been the custom. He made it plain that he will not suspend the accused men.

The commissioner said he also would file charges against Capt. Joseph Palczynski, Lieut. Daniel O'Hara, and Sergts. James Coleman, Peter Bernacchi, and Jack Herdegen. Of these, Palczynski and Herdegen are under suspension. Coleman and Bernacchi were suspended, but were restored to duty the day before the primary.

Jury Blames Captain.

No charge had been made against Lieut. O'Hara and Prosecutor Mueller said he had not recommended action against the lieutenant. O'Hara was on duty when three men were arrested on charges of rape, but the next day the charges were changed to disorderly conduct. Mueller and the grand jury held that Capt. Palczynski was responsible and recommended that he be taken before the police trial board.

The prosecutor and the jurors had recommended the suspension of Coleman and Bernacchi, Mueller said, because their names appeared on the records of Dennis Cooney, an agent of Capone in the operation of south side vice resorts.

GEN. J. E. STUART SERIOUSLY ILL IN WEST SIDE HOME

Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart, veteran of the civil, Spanish-American, and world wars, is ill in his home at 3144 West Monroe street. The general, who is 89 years old, has been in bed for two weeks with a complication of infirmities. Dr. Frank A. Chapman, attending physician, said yesterday that while his condition is not critical it is serious.

Gen. Stuart served throughout the civil war, enlisting at the age of 20 at Oshkosh, Wis.

In private life Gen. Stuart was for forty-seven years a postal employé. He was retired as chief postal inspector at Chicago in 1920.

Election Assures City Council of Fourteen New Aldermen

At least fourteen new faces will be seen in the city council when that body reorganizes in April, the returns of Tuesday's aldermanic election show. Six of the new aldermen were elected outright. In eight of the 21 wards where there will be runoff elections because none of the candidates received a majority of all votes cast there are no sitting aldermen in the races. Thirteen sitting aldermen, five of whom are Thompson adherents, will enter the supplementary election in April.

Among the six new members elected Tuesday is Thomas D. Terrell of the 29th ward. Terrell had the support of A. J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, for the seat that Horan vacated when he was elected to the court bffice. Terrell is in the plumbing and heating business and during the Dever administration he served as a member of the board of examiners of plumbers.

Waller Succeeds Albert.

In the 43d ward James B. Waller, with the support of many welfare and civic organizations, succeeded to the seat of Ald. Arthur C. Albert. Waller conducts a real estate management business, publishes a community newspaper, and devotes some of his time to the maintenance of a free employment bureau and relief headquarters.

Two state representatives, both Democrats, are among the new councilmen. Ending a bitter fight in the 14th ward, Representative Thomas J. O'Grady captured the council chair from Ald. William R. O'Toole. O'Grady, although a Democrat, is known to be friendly to Thompson. Then in the 34th ward, where the sitting alderman, Edward J. Kaindl, received the Democratic nomination for city treasurer, Thomas P. Keane, who is serving his fifth term as a representative, was named alderman.

Congressman Is Winner.

Thomas A. Doyle, who is ending his fourth term as representative of the 4th Illinois district in congress, was elected to the seat vacated by Joseph B. McDonough when the latter was elected county treasurer. Doyle, a Democrat, previously had been an alderman and a member of the state legislature.

In the 21st ward John J. Lagodny, a clerk of the County court for 19 years, won the seat vacated by Sanitary Trustee Dennis A. Horan. In his campaign Lagodny had the backing of the Democratic organization headed by Trustee Horan.

GIRL FILES NEW CHARGE AGAINST D. W. GRIFFITH

Says He Promised Her an Allowance.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Fern Setril, blonde, divorced 22 year old motion picture extra, who yesterday filed a suit demanding $601,000 damages from D. W. Griffith, alleging criminal attack, today substituted an amended complaint for her original papers filed 24 hours ago.

While this legal maneuver was coming to light, the exchanges of divorce papers between Mrs. Setril and her former husband, Frank X. Setril, also came to attention here.

The divorce papers show that Mrs. Setril won two divorce decrees from her husband, one by default on grounds of cruelty, and another, later after Setril had filed a cross suit which accused his wife of consorting with an unknown and generous "John Doe" during 1929.

Miss Setril's amended action against Griffith followed telegraphed denials from Griffith, now in New York, that the film producer knew or was even acquainted with the name of the suing blonde.

The amended complaint makes no mention of Mrs. Setril's charges, voiced yesterday, that Griffith promised to star her in his recent motion picture, "Abraham Lincoln," but merely state that Griffith lured her to an apartment.

The original bill accused Griffith of inviting her to an apartment in June, 1929, on promise of the Lincoln picture film rôle, but Griffith, in New York, wired that he had completed making the picture in June, 1920.

Appearing at offices of Attorney J. Widoff, Mrs. Setril today said she studied voice and dramatics under Griffith's urging, that he told her she resembled Lillian Gish and that when out of Hollywood he wired her a series of telegrams all signed "I. D. O.," which, in their lopers' code, meant, "I do love you." She said she gave Griffith a heart shaped pin engraved "I. D. O." for Christmas, 1929.

Griffith handed her $40 in offices of Attorney Loyd Wright here, she said, and promised her $20 weekly thereafter, but "he never paid me a cent."

PASSAGE OF BOND ISSUES TO SPEED LAKE DRIVE LINK

Provides Money to Build Randolph St. Viaduct.

With funds for the Randolph street viaduct project assured by the voters at Tuesday's election, south park board officials yesterday promised speedy progress toward the completion of the entire downtown lake front development program, including the new outer drive bridge.

The south park board's share of the bridge work has been delayed by negotiations with the federal government, Supt. George T. Donoghue explained, but a war department permit allowing it to go forward is expected within a few days. Approval of the $3,500,000 viaduct bond issue, Mr. Donoghue said, insures construction of the traffic links connecting the span with Michigan avenue and Field boulevard.

Work to Start in Three Months.

"Our part of the bridge should be under construction within three months and our part of the viaduct within six months," Mr. Donoghue said. "Everything will be finished before the World's Fair.

The viaduct will include the structure now being built by the Illinois Central railroad at Michigan avenue and will extend east to the outer drive.

Statements similar to Mr. Donoghue's came yesterday from officials of the sanitary district, Lincoln park, and the city, each of which has a share in the $54,600,000 public improvement bond program approved by large majorities at the polls. In most instances the fresh supply of bond money will be spent in whole or part this year, furnishing employment to 50,000 to 75,000 men.

$54,600,000 Bonds Approved.

The voters approved one city issue of $2,500,000 for the widening of North State street, one Lincoln park issue of $3,000,000 for lake front work, four sanitary district issues totaling $36,600,000 for sewage treatment plants, and thirteen south park projects aggregating $13,100,000 for various park improvements, including the Randolph street viaduct.

Bond issues of $5,000,000 each were made available to the Lincoln and south park boards two years ago for the outer drive bridge which will link the lake shore boulevards at the mouth of the Chicago river.

The Lincoln park commissioners have proceeded with construction of the north approach to the bridge, but no construction has yet been started on the south side, due to the legal difficulties.

Believe Obstacles Overcome.

The south approach plaza of the bridge, as planned, extends beyond the government harbor line. Bills were first introduced in congress to give the park board control of the entire harbor. These measures were opposed by the naval reserve unit on the ground that access to the reserve property would be cut off. A modified plan whereby a narrow strip of the harbor would be ceded to the board then was agreed on.

Public hearings on the latter plan were held by the resident army engineer and, according to Mr. Donoghue, his favorable recommendation has gone to Washington.

Specifications for the bridge now are in the printer's hands and, barring further difficulties with the government, bids will be advertised for the latter part of March. This would allow contracts to be let by May 1 and construction would then start at once. It will require about a year and a half to finish the bridge proper, thus allowing time for completion of the south approach and the Randolph street viaduct.

Other South Park Projects.

Meanwhile the south park commissioners will proceed with the new bond issue improvements in other sections of the park district.

These projects include extension of the lake front improvement from Jackson park southward at an initial cost of $2,610,000, rehabilitation of the piers in Jackson park, costing $475,000; improvements to small parks costing $1,915,000, and three boulevard improvements at an aggregate cost of $4,600,000.

Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the sanitary district finance committee, said that every effort will be made to expedite work on the four sewage treatment plants provided for by the new bond issues. Sites for two of these must be acquired and negotiations already have started, he said. It is planned to complete all four of the plants before the end of 1932.

Condemnation proceedings on the city's North State street widening project are now in court and a large part of the bond issue money will be used to meet the judgments to property owners. The street will be widened from the river to Chicago avenue to make way for construction of a four track subway.

Warren Wright, president of the Lincoln park board, said that approval of the single Lincoln park bond issue promises employment for several thousand men in addition to those now being furnished work by the two previous bond issues of $3,000,000 each.

Contracts are to be let this month for work costing approximately $5,000,000 between Montrose avenue and Ainslie street. This program includes filling in of land, construction of a boat harbor at Montrose avenue, and a new beach at Wilson avenue, and extension of the outer drive with grade separations at Wilson and Lawrence avenues similar to the one at Montrose avenue.

The $3,000,000 voted Tuesday will pay for filling in new land from Ainslie street to Foster avenue, for further extension of the outer drive, and for sites for small parks at the western edge of the park district.

Seventy minor public improvements to be constructed at a cost of $1,250,000 were approved by the city board of local improvements yesterday at a public hearing.

WOMEN BANKERS MEET

Women Bankers Hear Appeal for Financiers with Culture

Culture was pointed out to women bank executives last night as something which American bankers might do well to cultivate, in a talk by Eugene M. Stevens, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. He spoke at the dinner meeting of the mid-year conference of the Lake division of the Association of Bank Women, held in the Drake hotel.

Mr. Stevens said banking should be more of a profession, "a profession for cultured men of trained minds." He described experiences with bankers of England and Europe, "who are invariably cultured."

Need World-wide Knowledge.

"Throughout Germany bankers are possessors of Ph. D. degrees," said Mr. Stevens. "In Germany, not only the presidents of banks, but all their directors, are men of world-wide knowledge and trained minds. One of England's greatest bankers was a learned student of Greek.

"I am trying to point out to you women that cultured minds and knowledge of world-wide economics are needed in banking. Now, I hate to be disloyal to my country, but you all know that following the world war we thought of ourselves as world conquerors. We sent out emissaries to do the banking of the world, and we met with some distressing experiences. We sent out emissaries to do the trading of the world, and we met with more distressing experiences.

"The trouble with us in this country is that we've been provincial. We have been too self-sufficient in our isolation. We bankers have been bounded in our vision by the four walls of our banks. Never before was there such a need of the profession of banking.

"There is something wrong, and no one knows exactly what, in the demand and the supply situation, when farmers are deserting their lands because they can't sell their food products, and thousands in Chicago are being fed by charity; millions in China are starving to death.

Says Bankers Must Lead.

"The world is crying for leadership. America, with 40 per cent of the world's gold, must lead in finding the way out of the depression, and bankers must lead America. All these social, political, and economic problems resolve themselves almost entirely to a question of financing."

Miss Emma E. Claus of Gary, Ind., regional vice president of the Lake division, presided at the dinner.

Miss Grace Stoermer, assistant vice president of the Bank of Italy of Los Angeles, in a talk at the luncheon meeting in the Palmer house, urged the women bank executives to be less conscientious about details in business. It is partly their own fault that men leave all the jobs that they don't like to do for the women, she said. What women need to do is to use their initiative and go out and get new business, make contacts, and prove their worth to their institutions.

AGREE ON PLANS FOR VIADUCT TO OPEN 103D ST.

Settlement of the controversy over the opening of 103d street by the construction of viaducts over the Nickel Plate and Chicago and Western Indiana railroads was indicated yesterday when attorneys and engineers representing the city and railroads involved agreed on a 42 foot roadway with 6 foot sidewalks on each side as a workable plan. The approximate cost of the structure, $750,000, is to be borne equally by the city and the railroads.

Representatives of several civic organizations thronged the hearing rooms of the Illinois commerce commission when the plans were discussed. The only objection voiced was that the proposed viaducts would not provide sufficient room for expansion of street railway service. The objection was stilled by the engineers with the explanation that the plans provided for widening. At 10 o'clock this morning the commission will view the plans for approval.

ARREST MAN WHO TOLD RELATIVES HE SLEW WOMAN

Find Body in Mysterious Murder Travelogue.

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—William Frazer of Rahway, N. J., was arrested today in Raleigh, N. C., on a charge of murder made by the police of Raleigh "on information and belief" that he may have killed Mrs. Phoebe Stader of Rahway, whose nude body was found last Sunday in a thicket, off the Washington-Richmond road, near Bowling Green, Va. The body was identified at Bowling Green by Philip Stader, the dead woman's husband.

But, even with the identification and the arrest of Frazer, the officials of Union county, N. J., have yet to learn just when and where Mrs. Stader was killed. They have witnesses who maintain they saw the body in Frazer's car in Rahway last Wednesday morning, and they have statements from Frazer's wife and his cousin that he admitted he killed the woman; but, so far as is known, nothing more.

Relatives Say He Admitted Slaying.

Frazer was picked up at the Raleigh postoffice when he asked for his mail, addressed to H. G. Devlin. Frazer acknowledged his identity and admitted he knew Mrs. Stader, but when informed that he was wanted on a charge of murder flatly denied the charge.

Prosecutor Abe David of Union county was immediately notified of the arrest.

According to statements made to Mr. David by Mrs. Hilda Frazer, wife of the prisoner, and by Frazer's cousin, Ira Jensen, both of Rahway, Frazer told them last Wednesday morning that he had killed Mrs. Stader and that he did not know what to do with the body. He did not tell them where he had shot her, nor why, according to their story.

Mrs. Frazer told Thomas F. Huestion, assistant to Mr. David, that Frazer drove Mrs. Stader to the home of her sister, a Mrs. Fred McLaughlin of Walden, N. Y., on Feb. 16; that he returned to Rahway the following day and then met her again on Tuesday in New York City. The last person who saw Mrs. Stader alive apparently was her sister, who told the authorities she left Walden on Tuesday, saying she was going to New York.

Identifies Wife's Body.

At 2 o'clock Wednesday morning Jensen was awakened in his Rahway home by Frazer and was taken out to the street to where Frazer's car was parked. The body of a dead woman was propped up in the front seat, Jensen told the authorities later, and Frazer shifted it to the back seat, covered it with a blanket and then drove away.

When Mr. David first heard this story he thought it too fantastic to be true. With the information from the south today that Stader, a welder out of work, had identified his wife's body and that Frazer was under arrest, however, the story could no longer be doubted.

Frazer is 31 years old, a former cashier and buyer for a New York restaurant. He has been married twelve years and has two children. Two years ago he inherited more than $20,000 which he squandered on Mrs. Stader, according to his wife.

WEIL'S IN JAIL AS PROFESSOR OF FARO GAME

He still has all his customary aplomb, his yellow gloves, his smoked glasses with the black ribbon, and his tailored clothes. But when the Yellow Kid was taken into custody on a complaint that he taught three farmers who live near Dyer, Ind., who don't read the papers very closely, the same kind of faro that Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge learned a few weeks ago in Springfield, he had only a $1 bill and a box of eye salve in his pockets.

The Hammond police assert that the Yellow Kid is the same old deceiver. They recalled that when Mrs. Blacklidge lost $50,000 of Edward R. Litzinger's money to faro sharpers, Mr. Weil, who was just then in a jail at Rockford, asserted that the faro racket was so old that no con man with the traditions of his craft at his finger tips could expect to try it. And then he did.

The New Weil Story.

As the story goes, the dapper Mr. Weil went into the Dyer neighborhood a week or so back and represented that he was inclined to buy large tracts of land. His reasons were vague and he intimated that he was acting for big people.

With the alleged assistance of three associates, who are with him in the Hammond jailhouse, Mr. Weil persuaded three of the well-to-do farmers to discuss the matter of the sales in Chicago. And somewhere in the metropolis the trio of agriculturists fell for the old faro gag, and are now poorer by $20,000. They are said to have demonstrated to the Yellow Kid and his partners that they could have paid off that much if they had lost, which, indeed, they did, if the police have the correct story.

Victims' Names Withheld.

The names of the victims were withheld by the police. The men with Mr. Weil gave the names Elmer Whitley, Arthur Bourbon, and Max Hoppe. All are being held without formal charges, but the Hammond police assert that they are to be booked for fraud. One of the victims says he lost $4,500 when the Yellow Kid became convinced that Old Man Faro's resurrection was real.

Fred Buckminster, a Weil lieutenant for many years, was arrested in Chicago on Tuesday for an alleged $200 swindle. But the police of Decatur wanted him first and a deputy sheriff took him to that city last night.

Youthful Burglar Shot by Police as He Flees

Michael Sikora, 17 years old, 1933 South Clifton Park avenue, was shot in the left leg as he fled last night from a grocery at 2753 West 16th street, into which he and two companions had broken. The trio were surprised and fired on by Policemen Muehlbrandt, Mallon, and McGrath of the Lawndale flivver squad, who had been notified of their presence through a police radio alarm. Sikora's companions escaped.

COMBINE RADIO AND TYPEWRITER WITH NEW DEVICE

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The Watsongraph, a combination mechanical and radio apparatus whereby written messages may be sent by radio and received on the typewritten form at any distance from the sender, with no limit in speed of sending and receiving except the limit of the sending typist, theoretically 1,200 letters a minute, was demonstrated here today by the inventor, Glen W. Watson of Detroit.

Representatives of the federal government, the Michigan state police, and the press watched a bank of typewriter keys operated in one room while a typewriter, electrically operated in another room, put the message on paper, with radio waves the only means of communication between the two rooms.

The essentials of the mechanism are two identical revolving contact arms, electrically driven and synchronized, each passing in revolution over insulated segments.

Each segment of the sending mechanism is connected with a key of the sending typewriter, and a similar connection is made of the segments at the receiving end with the receiving typewriter.

Contacts on the sending segments release short wave radio impulses through the usual radio apparatus and these impulses, picked up by the receiving radio apparatus, are converted into battery impulses strong enough to operate the receiving typewriter.

Synchronization of the revolving contacts, or switches, is automatically controlled, and with the multiple variations in short wave radio impulses every owner of a sending and receiving apparatus can be independent of all others.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL BED.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisted the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

Rally to Support Stone Nepotism Bill.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Things have come to such a pass in the clerical insurrection against congressional nepotism that it will be a miracle if the shedding of blood, hair and cuticle is avoided.

Reports tonight from the front of the embattled clerks, massed behind Representative U. S. Stone [Rep. Okla.], and his bill forbidding senators and representatives to appoint relatives to jobs in their offices, are decidedly threatening.

The clerks are demanding a hearing on the Stone bill by the committee on expenditures in the executive departments to which it was referred. In letters received by Mr. Stone, the clerks have promised to enliven such a hearing with revelations of the drudgery they perform for a pittance, while the greater part of the $5,000 annual clerk hire allowance for a congressman and $10,000 for a senator is drawn by the legislators' wives, sons, daughters and other relatives who never go near the office.

Other Side Ready, Too.

On the other hand, the camp of the wives, sons, daughters and other relatives is breathing wrath and vengeance.

"The nepotism cry makes me sick," exclaimed Mrs. Elsie W. Schafer, wife of Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], who draws $3,500 as a clerk in his office. "I am a qualified secretary and I do a secretary's work in this office every day. But I have never received a penny for my work. Every cent of the $3,500 I receive is immediately paid out to other clerks. This procedure is compelled in any office requiring more than two clerks by the peculiar provisions of the law which limits to two the number of clerks receiving the $5,000 allowance. We need four clerks—two in Washington and two in Wisconsin. By redistributing $3,500 of the allowance paid to me we are able to provide altogether for four clerks."

Unable to Get a Hearing.

Congressman Stone has been unable up to date to induce Representative William Williamson [Rep., S. D.], chairman of the committee, to grant a hearing on his bill. Mr. Williamson has no stomach for the measure. It is noised about that he is one of the members whom it would hit in the solar plexus. The report of the clerk of the house shows that one C. D. Williamson is receiving $1,260 annually as clerk to a congressman. The South Dakota congressman admits that C. D. Williamson is on the rolls as his clerk, but declines to say whether the clerk is his relative. His wife's name is Clara Dice Williamson.

List of Senate Nepotists.

Following is a list of senators and their wives, sons, daughters and other relatives recorded as clerks and the salaries they receive, according to the last report of the secretary of the senate:

Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.]—David M. Barkley, $3,900; L. L. Barkley, $1,800.

Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.]—Dorothy Fess, $2,200.

Lynn J. Frazier, [Rep., N. D.]—Vernor A. Frazier, $1,800.

Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.]—John L. Wheeler, $1,800.

House Has Long List.

It is said that fully half of the 435 members of the house have relatives drawing clerical pay. Some of these relatives do the work, some make no pretense of doing any. Following is a list of members in the central states and their wives, sons, daughters, and other relatives who are on the pay roll as clerks, together with the rate of annual pay shown by the last report of the clerk of the house:

ILLINOIS.

Richard Yates [Rep.]—Helen W. Yates, clerk ..... $3,500

John C. Schafer [Rep.]—Elsie W. Schafer, clerk ..... 3,500
Merlin Hull [Rep.]—Lois M. Hull, clerk ..... 3,200
Edward E. Browne [Rep.]—Tom A. Browne, clerk ..... 1,440
Hubert H. Peavey [Rep.]—Ella S. Peavey clerk ..... 2,900

Congressman Stone has been deluged with letters telling how the clerk hire allowance is manipulated to add to the legislator's $10,000 salary. A common practice of the senator or congressman is to put a clerk on the roll at a stated salary but to compel the clerk to refund a certain portion each month.

DRY AGENT SHOOTS MAN; HIS SUPERIOR ASKS SUSPENSION

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Prohibition Administrator W. G. Walker telegraphed the department of justice tonight for permission to suspend W. A. Long, federal under cover agent, pending investigation of a charge that Long shot a soft drink parlor operator in the back.

He also asked that George Taylor, special prohibition investigator now in Los Angeles, be sent here to make the investigation.

The request followed continuance of a preliminary hearing on an assault charge against Long. Manuel E. Perry, the man who was shot, was reported in a critical condition. He was shot yesterday when Long attempted to purchase liquor at his place. Long said he was attacked. He was set free on $500 bail.

Japanese Leaps Twice to End Life and Succeeds

Clad only in a bathing suit, N. Kashiwa, a Japanese, 36 years old, attempted to commit suicide by leaping from a second story window in the Venus hotel at 1230 West Madison street Tuesday. The attempt was unsuccessful, Kashiwa striking on a fire escape only a few feet below the window. He was taken to the Jefferson Park hospital, where, yesterday afternoon, he leaped from a third floor window, suffering injuries that caused his death early today. The police learned that he was a student in an electrical school.

PASTOR MAY GET 90 DAY TERM IN CONTEMPT CASE

He Refuses to Testify in Divorce Action.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—A Lutheran minister of Minneapolis will be sentenced in Hennepin county District court tomorrow for contempt of court for refusing to testify as to information given him, voluntarily and in confidence, by a member of his church. The maximum penalty under the law is 90 days in the workhouse.

The minister is the Rev. Emil Swenson, pastor of Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church. Judge Paul W. Guilford adjudged him guilty of contempt of court. The case in which Mr. Swenson was to testify was that of Mrs. Gladys Sundseth, seeking a divorce from Arnold C. Sundseth, wealthy undertaker.

The trial of the case, as decreed by Judge Guilford, is private, with the public barred and only relatives and witnesses admitted to the courtroom. Some information as to the stand taken by Mr. Swenson and the decision of Judge Guilford was available in the court house corridors late today, however.

Asked to Reveal Conversation.

Mr. Swenson was called as a witness for the plaintiff, Mrs. Sundseth. He was asked by her lawyers to tell the court about a conversation which had to do with the divorce plea or events leading up to it. In other words, the clergyman was asked to reveal what Mr. Sundseth had told him in confidence about his matrimonial difficulties.

Placed on the witness stand, Mr. Swenson refused to relate the conversation. He stated boldly that his talk with Mr. Sundseth was entirely a confidential matter between themselves. He explained that Mr. Sundseth, a member of his congregation, had sought his advice as a minister and a friend, on a matter which, in effect, was nobody else's business.

Judge Guilford differed with Mr. Swenson. He ruled that if the matters disclosed to Mr. Swenson by Mr. Sundseth had anything to do with the divorce proceedings, they must be revealed to the court.

Held in Contempt.

The judge finally put an end to the debate by ruling that Mr. Swenson, persisting in his refusal to testify, was in contempt of court and subject to punishment under the laws of Minnesota.

Judge Guilford admitted the circumstances to be unusual. He said there are very few cases on record with citations for guidance in making a decision on so delicate a matter. The law is clear and specific on the point at issue, he said. It is so plain, he said, that no citation or precedents are needed.

He referred the attorneys to section No. 3, paragraph 9814, in chapter 92, general statutes of the state of Minnesota dealing with witnesses and evidence in court cases.

This reads:

"A clergyman or other minister of any religion shall not, without the consent of the party making the confession, be allowed to disclose a confession made to him in his professional character, in the course of discipline enjoined by the rules or practice of the religious body to which he belongs."

The working of this clause in the statute is significant, in view of Mr. Swenson's explanation that Mr. Sundseth had sought his friendly advice, entirely of his own volition. Judge Guilford explained. He pointed out that Mr. Sundseth in no way was obligated or required by any rule or custom of the Lutheran church to undertake any sort of confession to his pastor or to offer him information to be sacred or even confidential.

The circumstances were entirely different from those under which a member of the Catholic church is obliged to make confessions to a priest, judge Guilford said.

HOOVER VETO ON BONUS LOANS IS EXPECTED TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—President Hoover's veto of the veterans' bonus loan bill is scheduled to go to congress tomorrow. The final draft of the veto message was sent to the printer tonight.

Passage of the bill over the President's veto seems assured. Whether the house will act tomorrow is uncertain. It is likely that both the house and senate will vote on the bill before the end of the week.

The President's veto message is understood to include a mass of data furnished by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon showing financing difficulties confronting the treasury which will be aggravated by the bonus loans and also new estimates by Administrator of Veterans' Affairs Frank T. Hines as to the number of veterans who will apply for loans.

A Doctor Knows what is best for any Stomach

Well-known authorities, famous in the medical world, have learned the certain relief for gas, "sour stomach" and similar troubles. They say:

"Calcium Carbonate, 2½ times as effective as soda, properly compounded, is the ideal anti-acid. It has no disturbing effect on the system, and is utterly safe in the hands of the patient. It is best used in the form of tablets."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—just the right compound of Calcium Carbonate and other soothing substances, provide swift and certain relief from sour stomach and attendant ills. Nothing equals them, and they are safe and harmless to use.

STORY OF RAPED GIRL'S DEATH IS BEGUN BY STATE

Jury Trying Gary Youth Hears Evidence.

"Did you examine her, doctor?" Deputy Prosecutor Edmund Freund inquired.

"I listened for a heart beat with a stethoscope," the physician answered.

"I looked at the pupils of her eyes, which were dilated, and I felt her pulse. It was obvious that she was dead."

"What did the defendant do, doctor?"

"I said, 'Boys, she is dead and I'll have to notify the police and coroner.'

"Kirkland pressed his hands to his forehead and said, 'My God!' Then he and the others started for the door, and I asked them where they were going.

"Kirkland, I believe, said he was going for the girl's coat.

Fired at Fleeing Boys.

"I forbade all of them to leave the house. 'This girl is dead and there's a crime here,' I said. I had started for the phone when my wife called that they were running out.

"She and I both called them to stop. Then I got my pistol and called for them to stop or I would shoot. They climbed into the car, and as they started off I fired twice at a point about fifteen feet from the car. Then I telephoned the police."

"Take the witness," said Mr. Freund.

Mr. O'Hara began gently.

"This call you received at 3 o'clock in the morning—it was just such a call as a doctor might receive from a relative or loving friend of a sick girl?" the attorney suggested.

"Perhaps so," the witness answered shortly.

Didn't Smell Breaths.

"Doctor," the lawyer went on, "I have heard that you are the brother of a prominent Presbyterian clergyman of this town. Isn't it a fact that you smelled liquor on the breaths of those boys and that you don't approve of young people drinking and on that account might have a prejudice in this case?"

"I didn't go around smelling their breaths," said Dr. Wharton. "About drinking, I feel that such a habit a the individual's own private business. I don't use liquor myself."

"Now, doctor, why did you fire those shots?" O'Hara asked in a sharper tone.

"I felt they had no right to leave the scene of a crime," came the answer.

"Now assume that this boy was running from your home to tell the parents of the girl of her death—would you then have fired the shots?" O'Hara wanted to know.

"I can't assume that," the witness objected. "If the boys had told me that, I would have suggested they use my telephone."

Second Medical Witness.

The second medical witness, Dr. Baitinger, said he had been summoned to the Draves home that night to attend Arlene's prostrated sister. He added that, during nine or ten years, he had treated Arlene for slight ailments such as tonsillitis, and that her health was good.

The defense raised a question as to whether, in view of Dr. Baitinger being a voluntary witness, they might recall him to the stand without a subpoena.

"If it's to have him testify as to Arlene's morality, we will ask him the question right now," Mr. Freund challenged.

"Not that, not that," interposed one of the defense counsel, "we are not going to raise a question of that poor little girl's morals."

A battle over introduction of the state exhibits began when the deputy coroner was called to testify. Handing Deputy Owens the cushion cover, Prosecutor Underwood asked him where he had found it.

"On the back seat of Paul Barton's car," the witness said. [Barton, Leon Tanford, Henry Shirk, and David Thompson are under indictment with Kirkland, but obtained separate trials.]

"What was the condition of the cover when you found it?" the prosecutor asked, holding up the red stained fabric.

Fight Over Stained Shirt.

With the seat cover introduced as exhibit 1, the defense interposed the same futile objections to introduction of Kirkland's stained shirt and a button that had been torn from it prior to his arrest.

Detective Harm, the first officer to reach Dr. Wharton's home after Arlene's death and one of the squad that arrested Kirkland, was asked in what condition he found the girl.

The detective was asked if he had questioned Kirkland regarding the bloodstains and bruises.

"I did," he asserted. "Kirkland said he hadn't struck her, excepting to slap her face to bring her out of the daze. I asked him if he had attacked her. He answered that he had, but later said he didn't have to fight her."

FORMER CITY EMPLOYE KILLED.

Injuries incurred in a fall on the front steps of his home at 5440 Kimbark avenue caused the death yesterday of Daniel Connolly, 65 years old, who was formerly an engineer for the board of education.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

4 DIE, MANY HURT IN DAY OF RIOT BY GERMAN JOBLESS

Rest of Europe Ignores Moscow's Orders.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—While the observance of "international jobless day," ordered by Moscow, passed rather quietly in the rest of the world, communists of Germany got out of hand in several cities. Four were killed and many injured in fights between the Reds and police.

The most severe clashes were in Leipzig, where communists gathered in the suburb of Volksmarsdorf. Police who attempted to disperse the mob were met with volleys of revolver shots and briquettes taken from passing coal trucks. One policeman was wounded. The police returned the fire and three demonstrators were killed and eight seriously wounded, including a 13 year old boy.

100 Arrested in Berlin.

In Berlin 100 persons were arrested after organized gangs of Reds raided fourteen food shops. The shops in the effected areas closed.

Near the Gormannstrasse labor bureau a police patrol was showered with beer bottles and chairs. One officer was injured and shots were exchanged. In Reinickendorferstrasse Reds clashed with mounted police.

At Augsburg unemployed workers started a "hunger march." Police tried to halt them and a battle ensued. About a dozen persons were injured.

Quiet in Other Capitals.

LONDON, Feb. 25. — (AP) — Heralded as a world-wide protest against unemployment, this "international unemployment day" passed in reasonable quiet throughout Europe save for demonstrations in scattered cities. The jobless generally confined their activities to speech making.

Vienna, where the most serious trouble had been expected, was without any major disturbance, perhaps because the police previously had rounded up a number of suspected communists. There was no disorder at Prague. Bucharest was quiet, and so was Belgrade.

In Paris police guarded the principal streets leading to the square where a massmeeting was to have been held and there was no serious disorder.

Moscow Rips Capitalism.

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—(AP)—International unemployment day was observed here with various factory meetings and lectures at which workers told of unemployment abroad and criticized the capitalist system.

A. Lozovsky, secretary general of the All Russian Trades unions, summed up the communist idea in a special article published in the newspaper Rabochaya Moskva.

"The imperialist countries," the article read, "after twelve years of success have now reached a great crisis. Banks have crashed and today millions are unemployed and hungry.

"While no exact figures are obtainable, it is estimated that more than 30,000,000 are without work in capitalist states, with an equal number in colonial countries. In Russia there is no unemployment, which should demonstrate to the world the superiority of the socialist system."

ACTION IN COURT CONCLUDES BULL VS. SIDLEY SUIT

Court action yesterday concluded the settlement of the $250,000 damage suit brought against W. Perkins Bull, K. C., by Dr. John S. Sidley, divorced husband of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley and son-in-law of Col. William Horlick Sr., head of the Horlick Malted Milk company.

At the conclusion of proceedings before Circuit Court Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, Attorney John H. Kehoe, representing Mrs. Sidley, stated that in consideration for the withdrawal of the suit Mrs. Sidley had established a "comfortable annuity" for Dr. Sidley in consideration for his "years of devotion to the Horlick interests and the Horlick family."

That Bull, the principal defendant in the suit, did not figure in the payment of money to Dr. Sidley was made plain by the lawyer.

"Nothing ever was or ever will be paid by my father or on his behalf."

Dr. Sidley's suit was directed against Bull and J. J. Harrison, head of the Harrison Detective agency, who were charged with harassing the complainant for the last three years. The reported settlement was $325,000.

FORD WORKERS IN BRAZIL REVOLT AT FANCY FOODS

Laborers Win Right to Eat Plain Victuals.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELEM, Brazil, Feb. 25.—Discovery that the rich cuisine of dainty viands and fat puddings which Henry Ford provided for the native workers had much to do with the recent labor mutinies on his vast rubber plantation concession at Boa Vista in the Tapajos valley, has been a factor in bringing about a reorganization of the management of the concession.

Following wholesale walkouts from the ranks of 3,000 plantation workers last December, threatening a general stoppage of the project which was started in September, 1928, and continued under an investment reputed to be $4,500,000, investigation showed that misunderstanding of local conditions was responsible.

Name New Manager.

Accordingly John Rogge, assistant manager, was made manager at Boa Vista and Archibald Johnston, an engineer, was brought from Detroit to manage a newly opened office in Belem in order to keep in constant touch with the state government.

This last appointment was to conciliate the new Brazilian revolutionary government, which demands an understanding of the definite goal of every foreign concession in Brazil.

Chief among the misunderstood elements at the Ford plantation were the "Cabocios," native laborers, who are quite docile and willing to work for a mere pittance, provided other conditions are to their liking. Their stomachs are accustomed to simple, coarse victuals and the Ford company had been feeding them at a community board laden with fancy morsels which resulted in gastric irritation and general dissatisfaction.

Feeding System Changed.

The company decided to lease the plantation restaurant and permit the workers to feed where they please. Under the new system the workers have come back to their jobs and the work of clearing thousands of acres of jungle land, laying railroad branches and building laborers' homes is booming again.

People in the state of Para look upon the Ford project as a great factor to improve the conditions brought on by the economic depression, since the plantation pay roll averages $80,000 per month and $60,000 worth of supplies are purchased in Belem annually.

After a meeting between Capt. J. Magalhaes Barata, federal interventor in the state of Para, and W. E. Carnegie, V. J. Perini, and Mr. Johnston, officers of the Ford company, it was announced that a complete understanding had been reached between the federal government and the Ford company.

Plan to Build City.

Under the program of the company, Boa Vista will become an independent city with its own police, judges, market, schools, churches, restaurants, cafés, and amusement places for the Ford laborers. Most of these already exist as part of the plantation development. Although only two and a half years old, Boa Vista is already the second town in size in the state of Para, while in sewers, portable water, and sanitary installation, it surpasses Belem, capital of the state. The Boa Vista hospital is capable of accommodating 1,000 patients.

More than 6,000 people live in Boa Vista in houses built by the Ford company. The laborers' wages vary from 50 cents to $5 per day, the highest scale of any industry in Brazil.

KRAFT TELLS HIS SERVICE RECORD AT THEFT TRIAL

Illinois National Guard Officials Testify.

Col. Charles J. Kraft, former commander of the 202d Coast Artillery, Illinois National Guard, took the stand in his own defense late yesterday after the government had rested its case. Kraft is being tried in Federal Judge Lindley's court on charges of embezzling $100,000 in federal funds.

Kraft was still on the stand when court adjourned and most of his testimoney related to his military experience, including service with the marine corps in the Boxer rebellion, at St. Mihiel and the Argonne in France, and on the Mexican border. He said he was wounded and decorated a number of times.

Court Questions Gen. Black.

The defense attempted to bring out through Kraft's testimony that Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black of the guard, authorized the defendant to disburse his allotment of state funds [about $24,000 a year] as he saw fit. A letter purportin gto show that was offered in evidence, and an argument between counsel ensued in the absence of the jury.

Adjt. Gen. Black was questioned by the court and declared the authorization did not apply to the disbursement of federal funds.

Col. Richings J. Shand, United States property and disbursing officer for the guard, testified for the government that prior to September, 1926, Kraft received his allotment for battery mechanics' pay in a lump sum, and that a change in the regulations made payment in individual checks drawn by himself (Shand) after that.

Tell of Blank Pay Rolls.

The government had introduced testimony of battery mechanics that prior to this ruling Kraft paid them out of a special fund, drawn on by himself, and that whereas their names were carried on the vouchers as receiving $150 a month, they only received $125.

Capt. Herbert Muehlhausen testified that Kraft ordered him to sign all pay vouchers for battery mechanics, with the amounts left blank.

The government contends that Kraft not only defrauded the battery mechanics of part of their pay, but forced them to work on his private enterprises.

James J. Davis Recognizes Sugar Tariff Lobbying Charges So He Can Deny Them

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], former secretary of labor, appeared before the senate lobby investigating committee today in the rôle of the "unnamed senator" charged with receiving $100,000 from the president of a domestic sugar company in return for his services in lobbying for a high sugar tariff.

In a voice raised to political pitch his knuckles rapping the edge of the long committee table, Senator Davis read the following statement denying the charges, which relate to a time when he was still in the cabinet:

"If the charges which were read into the Congressional Record yesterday from a metropolitan newspaper refer to me, I must emphatically state that I never lobbied for or against any sugar tariff measure; that I have never spoken to anybody or any one in government service about putting a duty on sugar; that I never received any money or anything of value for any such alleged service.

A Contemptible Lie.

"It is a contemptible lie, and I am glad that it is out in the open so that the matter can be thoroughly investigated and the falsehood killed once for all.

"The charge is a serious one. The senate and the public are entitled promptly to know all the facts; to condemn if true, to absolve if untrue.

"Congress will soon adjourn. I earnestly urge you in behalf of the citizens of the state of Pennsylvania, our nation, my family, and myself to fully inquire into the accusation and make your conclusions public before adjournment of this congress."

Time Out for Pictures.

Before the committee settled down to work, Senator Davis had been all smiles. A newspaper photographer asked permission to take a picture Senator Davis, for his part, was ready to oblige.

"A lie travels around the world while truth is putting on its boots," he ventured.

"While truth is putting on its boots," assented Senator Caraway with one of his mandarin nods, "the picture can be taken.'

The word got around that this session was to be only a beginning. It has been alleged that the "unnamed senator" got $100,000, and there was also mention of a personal note of his for the sum of $22,000, which somehow got into the hands of this same sugar company president.

"Do you know a man named Dahlberg?" Senator Caraway asked.

"Know him intimately?" Senator Caraway added.

The Dahlberg to whom he referred is Bror G. Dahlberg of Chicago, former president of the Dahlberg corporation, a holding company for the Celotex company, the Southern Sugar company, and other interests.

"I wouldn't say intimately, just in a business way," was Senator Davis' reply. Then he went on to explain that he had been a stockholder in the Celotex company since 1925 or 1926.

Interested in Sugar Industry.

"I subscribed for somewhere between eighty and a hundred thousand dollars' worth," said Senator Davis.

"Do you ever meet Mr. Johnson?"

Senator Davis wouldn't know Mr. Johnson if he saw him.

George G. Johnson was formerly a secretary to Dahlberg. It was in part through him, it is said, and in part through S. S. Eveland, former vice president of the Dahlberg corporation, that the story about the senator and the sugar money got started on its travels.

Dahlberg had called on him once, said Senator Davis. But when it came to a sugar tariff he was at a loss.

"I wouldn't know now what the rate on sugar was," he explained.

Senators Nye and Dale of the senatorial campaign committee had questioned Johnson in New York. Dahlberg had sent Senator Davis a transcript of that testimony, Senator Davis said.

"The Celotex company was interested in the sugar tariff, was it?" Senator Caraway inquired.

"It was," Senator Davis answered. "And it wanted a high tariff?"

Disclaims Knowledge of Wishes.

As to that Senator Davis really couldn't say. A high tariff or a low tariff—he didn't know what the wishes of the Celotex company had been.

"Then how [Senator Caraway's Arkansas drawl was especially soothing] did you come to know then that the Celotex company was interested in a sugar tariff at all?"

Senator Davis floundered.

"You said you knew it was interested," Senator Caraway prodded.

"But I didn't say that Dahlberg had told me," declared Senator Davis, and hastily hopped to a less disconcerting topic.

"This rumbling was running around last fall," he said, his voice regaining its old time assurance. "There was a story that the head of a sugar company had made a $10,000 contribution to my campaign. Of course, if he had made such a contribution I would have accepted it and reported it. I tried to run these rumblings down and finally I went to Senator Patterson of the campaign expenditures committee and urged him to look into it."

"And you want all the evidence to be disclosed?" inquired Senator Caraway.

Senator Davis certainly did.

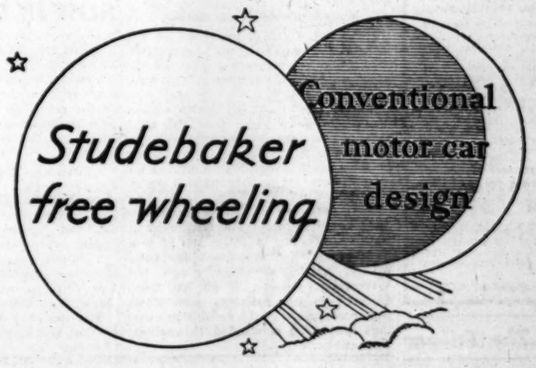
The great eclipse of 1931



To the motorist thinking of buying a new car now, the attention the entire industry is giving to Free Wheeling means a great deal. Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln, noted for engineering excellence and conservatism, have adopted—intact and unmodified—the same Free Wheeling mechanism that is built into Studebaker's three great Eights and brilliant new Six.

Free Wheeling has captured public interest as thoroughly as it has captured the hitherto wasted power of momentum.

In Free Wheeling, for the first time in the history of the automobile, Studebaker has released momentum from subjection to the engine that creates it and made it serve as an instrument of economy and power. Free Wheeling with positive gear control utilizes this long-lost overflow of propulsion, enabling the engine to do five miles of work with four miles of effort and one mile of rest!

You will do well if you make sure that your new car is a Free Wheeling Studebaker. It will save you substantial amounts on gasoline, oil, tires and repairs.

But you must actually drive a Free Wheeling Studebaker to know all the thrills, all the pleasure, all the satisfaction this great achievement can give you.

This is not the time to buy a new car on impulse or through habit. The cars of today that do not offer Free Wheeling are cars of the old order even though they may be spoken of as new.

Base your new car choice on first-hand knowledge—ask your Studebaker dealer to take you Free Wheeling. Highway commissioners and safety directors throughout the country have driven Free Wheeling Studebakers and then voiced approval of Free Wheeling with positive gear control as a new measure of safety to driver and public.

All Studebaker cars—the President, Commander and Dictator Eights, as well as the brilliant new low-priced Studebaker Six—have Free Wheeling with positive gear control. Studebaker cars are priced, f. o. b. factory, from $795 to $3600.

BILL PROPOSES TO REPEAL HOME CIDER AND WINE

Sheppard Hits at Fruit Concentrates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Section 29 of the Volstead act, the section which authorizes home cider and wine making, would be repealed under an amendment submitted to the senate today by its leading dry, Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], author of the eighteenth amendment.

Section 29 reads as follows:

"The penalties in this act against the manufacture of liquor without a permit shall not apply to a person for manufacturing nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in his home, but such cider and fruit juices shall not be sold or delivered except to persons having permits to manufacture vinegar."

"Removal of the anomalous provisions" of section 29 was one of the nine recommendations made by the Wickersham commission.

Hits Mrs. Willebrandt Client.

It is this section under which the Fruit Industries, Inc., of California, for which Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt is counsel, and other companies were able to sell grape concentrates for making wine in the home.

"It is my opinion," Senator Sheppard said, "that the sentence my bill seeks to eliminate does not permit, and cannot be properly construed to permit, the manufacture of intoxicating cider and fruit juices in the homes.

"Manufacturers of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices for use in their homes or elsewhere are not required by any part of the Volstead act to obtain permits, and this sentence has served only to create a conflict of opinion and widespread misunderstanding as to what it really means."

The amendment offered by the dry Texas senator was popularly accepted as a victory for the persistent Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], who has harassed the drys for what he asserted was a hypocritical effort on their part to keep the dry rural votes in line by granting the farmer the right to make all the hard cider and fruit wines he wanted.

Senator Tydings repeated the assertions he has made on the floor, that department of justice and prohibition bureau rulings and the decisions of courts, all have showed that wine and cider could be made in the home with impunity.

Comments on Clark Ruling.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, commenting today on the Supreme court's decision in the New Jersey case, said:

"The opinion of the court makes it all the more clear that the 18th amendment was never approved by the people, but was put over on us by a handful of legislators elected on other issues and frightened into doing what they did."

Representative L. C. Dyer [Rep., Mo.] today introduced a resolution in the house for an investigation of prohibition by the house judiciary committee, basing its inquiry on the Wickersham report, which had been referred to the judiciary committee. Under the terms of the resolution hearings would be conducted throughout the country.

Col. Anderson Warns U. S. of Dry Controversy Peril

New York, Feb. 25.—[S. dial.]—The immense revenues derived from prohibition by lawless men threaten our social peace and security and continued agitation of the question in a spirit of intolerance may lead to disastrous results, as did the slavery question, Col. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., warned today at a luncheon of the Merchants' association.

It was only the second time Col. Anderson has made a public address explaining his plan for government control of liquor since he drew up the proposal which has become known as the "Anderson plan" as a member of the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement.

"We have eliminated the legalized saloon," Col. Anderson said. "We must go further and eliminate the bootlegger and other agencies of this traffic by depriving them of their profits and bringing into action against them the irresistible forces of economic law.

Prompt Action Urged.

"It is essential that this be done promptly. The whole world is in a state of economic and social unrest. America cannot expect to escape these conditions. We are now facing the necessity of far reaching social and economical adjustments.

"At a former period in our history, when the strain upon our social and political structure was much less severe than it is today, the prolonged agitation of the inflammable question of slavery under intemperate leadership on both sides threw us into an unnecessary war. So today, in the face of more dangerous conditions, the continued agitation of this highly emotional question in a spirit of intolerance may lead to disastrous consequences."

Col. Anderson, telling of the work of the Wickersham commission, said that it appeared from the body's investigation that the immediate effect of the passage of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act was destruction of domestic sources and a marked decrease in consumption.

More Drinking, He Says.

This lasted until about 1922, and "from that time to the present," he said, "there has been an almost steady trend upward in drinking, with a corresponding upward trend in arrests and convictions for drunkenness and for violations of the law, in deaths from alcoholism, and other similar data."

In the beginning the supply of bootleg liquor came principally from bonded warehouses, diversion of industrial alcohol and smuggling, Col. Anderson said, but apparently since 1926 commercial production within the United States has become well organized and equipped.

The saloon has been eliminated, Col. Anderson said, but the speakeasy has succeeded it, and the bootlegger now goes into homes, offices, and college dormitories soliciting sales.

Three Quarts a Day.

The prohibition bureau, he continued, has estimated the consumption of liquor in the year ended June 30, 1930, at 376 million gallons, equal to three quarts a day for the head of every family in the country, and other statisticians give higher estimates.

"The profits derived by the lawless element from this illegal traffic are enormous," said Mr. Anderson. "A gallon of diverted alcohol can be made into gin and sold at a profit of 100 per cent. A still pays for itself in one week of operation. The information is that if the smuggler can land one boatland of liquor out of five he can make a profit. The aggregate revenues from this entire traffic have been estimated at from 2 billion 500 million to 4 billion dollars a year.

"These revenues are used not only to carry on this business in defiance of the government but for the organization of other lines of criminal activity, such as the opium traffic, the white slave traffic, and racketeering of various kinds, which are sources of additional revenue to the criminal element and of danger to social order. For the first time in the history of the world organized crime seems to be adequately financed."

Points to Corruption.

This, the speaker went on, has led to widespread and notorious corruption in the public service. Ultimately this must exert a strong demoralizing influence in our political life, he said.

The failure of prohibition has not been due to defects in organization and administration, Col. Anderson said, but through the sincere opposition of a large body of the public, a group which believes in temperance, but is opposed to federal intervention in matters of personal liberty.

The "Anderson plan" proposes a bipartisan commission to fix alcoholic content of liquor and selling price by the federal government. Liquor would be manufactured by private corporations under federal supervision and sold under state control in such states as elected to be wet. States that wished could continue prohibition.

PRINCE BUELOW'S MEMOIRS STIR UP ROW IN REICHSTAG

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—German anger against the late Prince Buelow for his "memoirs," which lay much of the war guilt on the ex-Kaiser, broke out in the reichstag today when nationalistic members demanded the removal of his picture from the federal council room.

"Through his memoirs, he has shown himself to be such a petty character that Germany can only be ashamed to have had such a chancellor," Dr. Strathmann Christian, a Socialist representative, declared.

"He put weapons into the hands of Germany's enemies," cried a Conservative. "They will use his words as war-guilt arguments against us."

The majority of opinion seemed to be that the matter is hardly an affair of state.

PRISONERS RAID SEIZED LIQUOR AND HAVE PARTY

Noblesville, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—All social privileges were taken from prisoners in the county jail here today. From now on lights will be turned off at 9:30 o'clock at night. There is to be no card playing, and "smokes" and newspapers are barred. The prisoners broke into a room where Sheriff Frank Hattery had some confiscated liquor stored. The ensuing saturnalia caused quite a stir in the community.

U.S. AGENTS BARE BIG PRESCRIPTION WHISKY SYSTEM

Involves 1,000 Doctors, 400 Druggists.

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—What was described as the largest liquor prescription syndicate ever uncovered in the United States was believed to have been broken up today when agents of Horace J. Simmons, special treasury department agent of this district, aided by 100 picked men of the staff of Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, arrested more than thirty persons in fourteen simultaneously conducted raids in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn.

The syndicate, which is said to have done a $3,000,000 a year business for the last six or eight years, diverting medicinal liquor by the illegal use of prescriptions, had been aided in its operations, according to Mr. Simmons, by about 1,000 physicians and at least 400 druggists.

No Physicians Arrested.

In the complaints on which warrants for the arrests were issued, forty-seven physicians in Manhattan and the Bronx are named as conspirators. None of the physicians was actually named a defendant in the present action, but Mr. Simmons, whose men found 1,432 signed prescriptions in one of the raids, said a federal grand jury would receive the names of 396 physicians who have already been involved, he said, in the conspiracy, as well as the names of druggists also said to be involved.

Twelve of the raids, in which as many prisoners were taken, were made on drug stores in the three boroughs. Agents said they seized anywhere from one to five cases of whisky in each store.

One of the prisoners, Morris Sweetwood, has served a term in Atlanta penitentiary with Emanuel [Mannie] H. Kessler, so-called "king of bootleggers." He was arrested at the Alba hotel.

Arrest Hotel Manager.

The officers also arrested Abe Miller, described as the manager of the hotel, and Dr. A. G. De Marco and Harry Gratske, after the discovery of a ten gallon barrel of spirits, five gallons of alcohol, and twelve one gallon jugs of liquor.

The head of the syndicate, it is charged, is Nathan Bernstein, who was arrested with John Golding, described as the syndicate's "outside man," after a raid on Bernstein's luxuriously appointed apartment at 140-142 West 176th street, where agents found the signed prescriptions, records, and bank books, and also arrested Bernstein's wife, Sadie. Agents said they found a case and a half of whisky and a case of ale in the apartment.

The syndicate, according to Mr. Simmons, has operated at 50 Union square for the last six or eight years. In a raid on room 1901 at this address eleven prisoners were taken.

PAID TO BUILD PRIVATE HOME BY U. OF IOWA CHECK

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Testimony before the legislative committee investigating conditions at the University of Iowa was concerned today chiefly with possible diversion of university funds into paying private bills.

The house which W. H. Bates, secretary of the university, had built for himself near the Iowa City campus, a pleasant home with terraced lawns and wide porches, was the subject of much examination.

E. J. Folda, who worked at the university carpenter shop at that time, testified that he built and installed kitchen cupboards for the Bates home and that two other university carpenters were working there. The cupboard job took him about a week.

"I never seen any checks from Bates," said the carpenter. "I got a check from the university."

It's very easy to catch cold when you are tired out

IT DOES not pay to go home "dead tired." Your system, in such a condition, has virtually no resistance. As a result you may get chilled—then comes a cold.

The "dead tired" feeling can be avoided by eating or drinking a wholesome sweet food such as a soda fountain beverage, ice cream, candy, or sweet cakes. These are quickly digested and the energy in the sugar is quickly available to renew vigor.

At this time of the year diet plays an important part in the maintenance of health. Foods should be chosen for vitamins, minerals and roughage. For quick fuel and palatability, sweet foods should be included. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

says Dorothy Dix

DOROTHY DIX, famous writer on women's problems

"EVER since Eve discovered fig leaves, the best tonic for a woman's self-confidence has been—pretty CLOTHES!

"A colorful new frock—my, how it sets a girl up! But—and here is what some girls forget—it takes more than a new frock to give you real poise.

"Others may not know whether your LINGERIE is pretty and colorful and fresh, but YOU do. When it is—when you know that underneath, as well as on the surface, you're exquisite—you FEEL charming . . . Confident . . . Ready to conquer the world!

"Why not try these 2 simple rules:

1. Buy the loveliest lingerie you can.
2. Never let it get faded and drab looking.

"I wish I could make you feel how important this is! It's one of the secrets of every truly fascinating woman.

"Yet it's easy to manage even on small salaries. You know about LUX, I'm sure—I find that delicate pastel lingerie wears so long washed in Lux that it's not a bit extravagant. By 'long' I mean literally for YEARS. Lux—unlike the ordinary 'good' soaps—is made to preserve COLOR and CHARM.

"YOUR SURROUNDINGS, too, can help give you poise! When everything in your home—from pretty curtains to the colorful linens on your dinner table—is dainty and new looking, you feel confident, at ease. Here, too, Lux is your invaluable aid."

BRITAIN TO OFFER GANDHI ITS TERMS FOR PEACE TODAY

Final Decision Is Put Up to MacDonald.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW DELHI, Feb. 25.—Just how far the British government is prepared to go to meet the demands of Mahatma Gandhi for a truce is expected to be communicated to the holy man tomorrow. His decision, either to accept the peace terms and call off the civil disobedience movement or to continue with renewed energy, will probably be announced almost immediately afterwards.

Though both sides maintain a pledge of secrecy about the negotiations, it was learned today that the final word is now up to Prime Minister MacDonald in London and his decision is expected here tonight or tomorrow.

The government of India has already forwarded Gandhi's demands, with its recommendations as to their treatment, and London's delay in replying has puzzled both the Indian officials and Gandhi.

Will Accept Gandhi's Decision.

Although several members of the Indian congress working committee, including Jawharalal Nehru, its president, are personally anxious to hold out for complete independence from Great Britain, it is learned that at a secret committee meeting it was agreed to abide by any decision Gandhi makes. Meantime, the "holy man" squats all day on his veranda, working at his spinning wheel and receiving deputations from all over India to ascertain Indian opinion. He is being beseiged by opulent Indian business leaders from Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, who have swung behind him during the last few weeks and are now urging him to support their demands for "India for Indian business men."

Moslems Swing to Gandhi.

Secret negotiations with important Moslems have been going on during the last few days. Two prominent Mohammedans from Gandhi's home town, who last summer openly opposed him and his movement, tonight announced that they are anxious for a Hindu-Moslem agreement, if it means self-government.

The holy man conferred with these men until 7 o'clock. He then stopped the interview to lead the evening prayers which are attended by thousands each night on the lawn of Dr. Ansaris' residence.

The Calcutta Statesman, leading British organ, violently attacked Gandhi today and accused him of leading a revolutionary movement "costing ten million pounds while every budget in India was showing diminished revenues side by side with largely increased expenditures for the maintenance of order."

Employes Ask for Chance to Buy World Newspapers

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Employés of the New York World—3,000 of them, their spokesman said—raised a united protest in Surrogate's court today against sale to the Scripps-Howard interests of the newspaper on which they earn their livelihood.

So Paul Block, publisher of seven newspapers from Brooklyn to Los Angeles, made what he called "a better offer" than that of Roy Howard and his group, and announced that if the three sons of Joseph Pulitzer would sell the New York World to him he would give the employés 45 days in which to buy it from him at the same terms.

And Surrogate James A. Foley deferred until tomorrow morning or later his decision as to whether it is legally possible, under the rigid Pulitzer will, for the sons to dispose of the Morning, Evening, and Sunday World.

Plead for Chance to Buy.

What began late yesterday as a perfunctory action to merge the World papers with the New York Telegram and supposedly to unite all in one evening newspaper to be called the World-Telegram, became today an impassioned hearing at which the men who work on the World pleaded for a chance to continue on a coöperative basis a newspaper "with traditions worth preserving—the traditions of Joseph Pulitzer."

It culminated in a written offer by Mr. Block to Herbert, Joseph, and Ralph Pulitzer, as trustees of their father's estate, in which he proposed that he buy the paper, pay cash for it, and give the employés a month and a half to acquire it from him.

The brothers may consider the offer if Judge Foley rules that the paper is saleable. If they decide to accept it they may submit a contract of sale to the surrogate for his approval.

One Offer of $5,000,000.

Block and his attorney, Max D. Steuer, did not say how much they offered for the World papers. The Scripps-Howard papers had offered $5,000,000—two million of it conditional on profits to be earned by the World-Telegram.

It was deemed possible that disposal of the Worlds, if approved by the surrogate, might develop into a bidding scramble in which new figures might appear, for Herbert Bayard Swope, former executive editor of the World, indicated today that a group which he heads would be interested in the papers.

The employés' uprising began at midnight this morning and gained rapidly a momentum which carried it into court and into the forefront of the negotiations.

Reported Losing Money.

Rumors that the World was losing money and was on the market have pervaded newspaper circles in New York for some months, but the first intimation of action came to employés of the paper, their counsel told Surrogate Foley today, in a City News association bulletin Tuesday afternoon.

At midnight they gathered, elected City Editor James Barrett of the Morning World as their spokesman, and drew up a petition to Surrogate Foley, asking him not to allow the sale of the World.

In their ranks were some names famous along Park Row. Three of them—Lindsay Denison, George Buchanan Fife, and Martin Green—are veterans of the most famous rewrite quartet that ever ground out glistening copy for a newspaper. Their fourth comrade, long since graduated from their ranks, was Irvin S. Cobb.

Employés Pledge $600,000.

The employés worked out a plan of their own to take over the World papers, and sold hypothetical stock at $200 a share. Purchase of one share in the name of every employé was pledged—and that made, on paper, $600,000.

Men who had pounded beats and covered page one stories for years for the World rustled around town and got substantial citizens out of bed to enlist their support. The employés committee gathered again this morning, totaled the fruits of their skirmishing, and calculated pledges of $2,000,000. One public spirited citizen, they said, had put down his name for $250,000 "to keep alive the spirit of the World." Merchants and bankers had offered to aid, they said.

Early this afternoon there paraded across Park Row and upstairs to Judge Foley's chambers in the hall of records a dozen veterans of the World. They bore the petition, signed by themselves and two dozen more ranking colleagues, asking the surrogate not to let the World be sold.

Circulation Gain Claimed.

At their heels came newsboys bearing armsful of the 1:30 edition of the World, on page one of which was a two column box inserted by the employés showing a greater circulation for the Morning World, and greater advertising volume for both the Morning and Evening Worlds today than on this day a year ago.

The newspapers were distributed free in the crowded courtroom, and when the hearing was called to order Gustave A. Rogers, hastily pressed into service as counsel for the employés, asked the surrogate for a week's delay in the case, so the employés might shape and present their plan to take over the papers.

"In the interests of these faithful employés and of the public itself," Rogers said, "we ask a chance. We believe we could bring in a plan which would meet with your approval—a plan consistent with the spirit of Joseph Pulitzer's will."

Block Makes Written Offer.

The surrogate called all the attorneys to his bench and there was a long and whispered conference. In the course of it counsel for Block divulged he had presented a written offer to the Pulitzers. Block made known to his lawyer his willingness to sell the paper to the employés.

Over on Park row editions of the Evening World poured forth as usual—the two column box elided now that it had served its purpose in the courtroom. The staff of the Morning World, many of whom had been in the courtroom, reported for duty—with renewed hope that the World wouldn't come to an end.

Policeman with Broken Arm Catches a Burglar

Although handicapped by a broken arm, Policeman Thomas Cleary last evening pursued and captured a burglar who was leaving the Cleary home at 2315 Ainslie street. Cleary, who was injured in an automobile accident, has been absent from active duty for three weeks. He was entering his home when he saw the man fleeing. After a chase of two blocks he overtook the fugitive, Frank Wollert, 39 years old, 543 North Dearborn street, who has a burglary record dating back to 1915.

DROUGHT STILL KEEPS GRIP ON THE CORN BELT

The closing days of the year's shortest month hold little hope of releasing Chicagoland from the drought's prolonged grip. Already 433 degrees of excess temperature and a shortage of 2.52 inches of rainfall since Jan. 1 have been added to the all time record of dryness in 1930, according to weather bureau records here.

No precipitation was in sight last night for at least two more days, Federal Forecaster C. A. Donnel said. During recent weeks, while city and countryside basked in mild, springlike weather, however, the Ohio valley and the southwest, particularly arid Arkansas, have experienced heavy rains that revived streams and dried up wells.

Farmers have been foraging their live stock in the open, and yesterday many of them were in the fields plowing in readiness to catch every drop of snow or rain that might replenish the soil for spring planting.

Gardeners reported bulbs and early spring plants breaking green shoots through straw or leaf mulches, causing a warning to be issued here that they must be protected from possible later freezing.

Winter wheat in the northwest and southwest, as well as in Illinois and nearby states.

Nearly 3 Million Total

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Drought relief loans from the $45,000,000 seed and feed emergency appropriation were reported today by the agriculture department to have totaled $2,984,659 to 17,644 farmers.

The Memphis, Tenn., field office led with 13,300 loans totaling $2,136,903; others included the Washington, D. C., office, 2,397 loans, amounting to $405,489, and the Grand Forks, N. D., office, 486 loans, amounting to $299,279.

The most recent report from the St. Louis field office, as of Feb. 18, showed 961 loans totaling $142,938.

THERE IS NO CRUISE to equal Raymond-Whitcomb's Spring Cruise to the Mediterranean. And these are a few of the reasons. First: the Mediterranean is loveliest in the Spring; the weather is not treacherous. Second: the itinerary is not cut-and-dried.

For instance, it includes the Crimea and the Black Sea. Here is the Russian Riviera, gem of the whole country, beloved in the old days by Czars and nobles. Here, too, are Sevastopol, Balaclava ("The Charge of the Light Brigade"), Odessa and Bakhtchisarai, once the Tartar capital. No cruise has ever taken in this part of Russia. Nor has any cruise enlarged, as this one does, its Grecian itinerary by visiting Epidaurus and cities Homer wrote of, Mycenae and Tiryns. These features "sweeten" a route embracing some thirty points between the Azores and Istanbul.

Finally: ask some friend if Raymond-Whitcomb runs cruises well. You will find that our paramount experience enables us to run cruises as smoothly and expertly as is humanly possible.

Briefly: the Cruise leaves New York, April 14, on the 20,000 ton Cunarder "Carinthia". It ends at Cherbourg or Southampton (in Europe), May 19. New York about May 30. $725 up.

CANADIAN TARIFFS.

The new Canadian tariff, Senator George of Georgia said a few days ago, has resulted in cutting off the exports of high priced cars from this country to Canada. This is merely one item in a long series which have been or will be affected by the latest American tariff and the Canadian retaliation against it. The result is a loss of business on both sides of the border amounting in all to many millions of dollars.

It is difficult and perhaps impossible as yet to estimate the losses with any precision. The world-wide business depression, together with the lowering of price levels, has resulted in reduced exports and imports in virtually every country on the globe. Even without any tariff complications our trade with Canada must have suffered in the last fifteen or eighteen months. It would be absurd to contend that all or nearly all of our trade losses with Canada have resulted from the tariffs, but it would be no less absurd to overlook the tariffs as a cause of a part and no doubt a considerable part of the losses.

Hard times make good business men and should make for sound economic statesmanship. It is amply apparent now that both countries are suffering from a senseless and mutually injurious tariff policy. Business recovery in both countries would be hastened by a lowering of the tariff walls to permit trade to flow as it formerly did.

The basic fact is this: North America comes close to being self-sufficing economically. Canada has raw materials and some manufactures which we lack and we have manufacturing facilities geared to the needs of our population of 120 millions which Canada cannot hope to duplicate. If Canada does not import these items from us she must get them somewhere else. The substitute will be more costly to Canadian consumers and will not be as satisfactory, for North Americans, whether they live north or south of the international boundary, lead much the same kind of lives. There are, to be sure, marked differences in taste and habit as between the two countries, but these differences are negligible when compared with the differences between North Americans and Europeans. A Canadian, for example, will find himself much more at home in a sleeping car, hotel or hospital in this country than he will in England or in France. Here, too, he will find familiar menus, familiar automobiles, familiar magazines and newspapers. Our houses have much the same plumbing and heating devices. Canadians will not get what they want from European manufacturers if our goods are shut off, and of course we have suffered and will suffer if our imports from Canada are cut off or raised in price. It is no accident that Canada is our best customer, and vice versa. Each country wants what the other has to sell.

Congress is about to adjourn. There is no possibility of attacking the tariff problem at this session, but in the months which will elapse before congress convenes again the administrations in the two countries have plenty of time in which to explore the tariff question. If the subject is approached in the hope of achieving a business advantage for both countries, without rancor, it may be possible to lower the tariff walls which never should have been raised.

In this connection it is well to remember that the principal justification for our tariffs, the desire to protect our standard of living, does not apply so far as Canada is concerned. We do not need protection against cheaper Canadian labor and Canada does not need protection against cheap labor here.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN MINNESOTA.

It has been reported from Minneapolis that the bill to repeal the Minnesota press gag law may die in committee.

That would be a significant defeat of the protest against this statute, a protest which no less a person than the present governor has supported. In fact, it is chiefly upon Gov. Olson's initiative that the repeal bill was introduced, and this fact is the more impressive as Gov. Olson had argued before the Minnesota Supreme court the constitutionality of the law. Although the court held with him in sustaining the act as valid constitutionally, the governor, on assuming his present executive office, took the position that the act, though constitutional, is so susceptible of abuse that it is bad from the viewpoint of public policy and ought to be repealed.

Nevertheless repeal seems to be meeting with legislative obstruction. The political forces which brought about the passage of the gag law are, of course, indisposed to give up so powerful a means of shutting off criticism and disclosure and do not accept the broader and more disinterested view of Gov. Olson. But the most significant and ominous aspect of the situation is that there seems to be no such public sentiment in favor of repeal as would compel the politicians to give way.

A certain public indifference in this case, as in some others in other states involving invasions of civil rights, may be accounted for by the fact that this generation of Americans have not suffered from the oppressions which the bill of rights was adopted to protect us from. Not having to fight for our guaranties, we have lost a proper sense of their value or even their meaning.

In the case of the people of Minnesota, perhaps an additional reason for their indifference to freedom of the press may be found in the fact that a large proportion of them derive from countries in which no long struggle for this and other civil guaranties has implanted in their political consciousness and hereditary philosophy a strong instinct for these essentials of political liberty. Americans deriving from British stock inherit this instinct from their ancestors' struggle for civil and political rights through centuries in England and colonial America. Although individuals and even communities of this stock have shown in this generation a deterioration in this respect, still it is there and in the long run may be depended upon.

Americans of other national strains perhaps are not to be expected to be more watchful, but it is certainly a matter of serious moment if through lack of the racial experience or tradition or of American education and leadership they fail to safeguard the American heritage of civil liberty.

ANOTHER BOTTLENECK BROKEN.

The approval of the south park bond issues for the extension of the lake front park and the improvement of Southeastern boulevard and Yates avenue should be of almost as much interest to motorists outside Chicago as to those within the city. The two boulevards, and eventually the outer drive as well, will serve as the connection into Chicago of roads in Michigan and Indiana. At present the lack of arteries southward and southeastward from Chicago is striking. In consequence Chicago motorists are seriously inconvenienced in reaching one of the most desirable vacation areas in the central states, the southern and eastern shores of Lake Michigan; and travel to and beyond Chicago from the northeast, east, and southeast is similarly hampered.

The south park board will now undertake to do Chicago's part in establishing adequate highway facilities in its area. It remains for the states of Michigan and Indiana to do their share in improving the extensions of the new boulevards in their jurisdictions.

WELL DONE AT JOLIET.

The promptness and effectiveness with which the latest jail break was defeated at the state penitentiary is in pleasing contrast to conditions under the régime of Len Small. The incident indicates that efficiency and morale have been restored at Joliet as they have been in other state institutions and activities after a long period of demoralization under Mr. Emmerson's predecessor. The improvement in the administration of state affairs comes at a time when there is much to discourage and depress thoughtful citizens of Illinois.

A PRACTICAL MAN IN VOLSTEAD.

Something can be said for Mr. Vlamynck's point of view. Possibly he is a shade too literal in his interpretation of a situation, but evidently he is a practical man, and when he pays his money he expects a return on it. He was arrested the other day by two investigators from the state's attorney's office in his own place of business in the Englewood police district. Mr. Vlamynck's business was the sale of intoxicating beverages. He was actively engaged in it when the investigators approached him.

He was indignant when informed that the evidence exposed about the place would require his arrest. He endeavored to reason with the state's attorney's men, but found them unreasonable. He then endeavored to throw them out of the place, but was overpowered and taken to a police station.

The victim's contention was that he paid regularly for his protection and that the police were bound not to molest him. In the curious American fashion he had complied with the law and had satisfied its requirements. In an orderly fashion he was conducting his business and interference with it was an outrage.

Mr. Vlamynck, as has been suggested, may be too literal in his interpretation of the noble experiment, but he could appeal to the Wickersham report on that experiment as justification for his conclusions. He had conformed, as he understood it, to the legal requirements and was authorized to sell alcoholic beverages in the manner in which Americans preferred to buy them. It was, admittedly, a curious manner, but undoubtedly the prevalent one, and a practical man did not waste his time in profitless speculation, but adjusted himself to conditions as he found them.

CORN PONE AND POTLICKER.

[New York World.]

Having no immediate political controversy at hand to engage his superabundant energies, Gov. Long of Louisiana has revived a dispute of long standing as to the proper etiquette to be observed in the eating of corn pone and potlicker. There are those who say that the pone should be crumbled into the liquid, but the governor insists that it should be "dunked," and he has taken the Atlanta Constitution to task for its assertion that corn bread which can be "dunked" is not the genuine pone but some inferior substitute.

To many eastern city dwellers all this is just so much jargon, but those who have lived close to the soil in that wide area below the Potomac and Ohio rivers will appreciate the importance of the discussion. Potlicker is something for which no ordinary definition is adequate. Marse Henry Watterson undertook many years ago to tell what it is, after he had been angered by some tourist's slighting description of it as "houn' dawg's ambrosia," and he needed a column of his newspaper for the purpose. When one says that it is the by-product of a mess of greens boiled with a piece of pork or a hog jowl, one does not define it at all, for no definition can portray the subtle flavor imparted to the already savory juices by the smoke of slowly burning hickory sticks piled under the pot. Potlicker is to be tasted and enjoyed, but not to be defined.

Of course, the only fit accompaniment for such a treat is corn pone. Corn meal dumplings, boiled in the pot with the licker, are sometimes offered for the sake of variety, but they are too heavy for a constant diet. But how shall the pone be eaten—crumbled into the licker or "dunked" in whole? That point, it seems to us, is as immaterial as the dispute over the proper way to eat asparagus which keeps cropping up from time to time outside the potlicker belt. Both ways do very well; it all depends on one's disposition.

CURE WORSE THAN DISEASE.

A READER writes: Will you write on how to prevent snoring? What causes it? It not only disturbs sleeper, but others.

REPLY.

That is a large order, rather too large for your humble servant. I can tell what causes it and not raise much discussion, but when it comes to how to overcome it I am not certain of my ground, and I am sure more than one reader will disagree with what is written. Finally, if we should find a cure it would not be easy to get it universally applied.

We might start by asking the Pullman company to supply the remedy with each ticket for a night's lodging and then follow up by requiring the porters to awaken the snorers and keep them awake by singing to them.

One difficulty would be in convincing snorers that they were nuisances. Recently I heard some snorers discussing this phase of the subject. One said he was never convinced until he waked himself by snoring. The other combatant said that not even that convinced him, because he charged his wife with the crime of awakening him by snoring and thus cleared himself before the jury hearing that case. A third combatant said snoring was no crime; that he could never go to sleep on a car until the chorus soothed him to slumber. Can't this correspondent see the trouble he has brought on?

Snoring is caused by the breath taking two routes simultaneously, the nose route and the mouth route. The soft palate lies at the fork of the road and, being a piece of membrane, the air currents make it into a musical instrument. But why the use of the second air route, the mouth? Partly because the nose route is too narrow to supply all the need and partly because when an adult sleeps on his back his mouth takes on the arrangement of a fly trap.

And then, what is the cure or preventive? The only absolutely satisfactory preventives fall in two groups. One is to ream out the nose until it becomes a more commodious highway. This reaming process goes by several surgical names. It is sometimes justified, as when a child snores because of tonsils and adenoids. However, as a rule, the punishment does not fit the crime. The cure is worse than the disease.

The other group includes measures to build up such a high degree of muscle tone that the mouth is held tightly shut even during deep sleep. That it remains shut during waking hours does not mean that it stays shut from 12 to 3 a. m. To know whether 'silent Cal snores might help us on this point. There are various minor devices that might help somewhat. A head stall, properly adjusted, may hold the lips together. There is a simple method of sealing the lips with adhesive. The wearing of a knotted belt may prevent one from sleeping on his back. The arrangement of two pillows may promote sleeping on the side.

KEEP SCALP CLEAN.

L. E. R. writes: I am a young man of 22, apparently in good health, and am rapidly losing my hair.

REPLY.

The best policy for you to follow is to wash your scalp often enough to keep it clean. You may need to grease the hair after washing it.

NOT APPENDICITIS.

G. R. writes:

1. Is there a form of chronic appendicitis that affects the back and shoulder blades?
2. Would it be possible to have this ailment and still retain a normal blood count?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Yes.

CURE FOR ATHLETE'S FEET.

Miss D. L. writes: 1. What is good for athlete's feet, simple ringworm of the toes and feet?

2. How long does it take to cure it?

REPLY.

1. Nearly every one of the manufacturing pharmacists now makes one or more effective remedies for athletic foot. Properly used, these will keep the feet free from symptoms.
2. Cure, in the sense that symptoms disappear, can be accomplished in a few weeks. Cure that will not be followed by recurrence requires more time and treatment.

JOINT CHECKING ACCOUNT.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If two people have a joint checking account, and a judgment is entered against one of the parties, 1. Can the account be attached? 2. What defense could the other party take? 3. Could the party claim exemption?
M. F.

1. Yes.
2. He would have to show that a part of the account belonged to him.
3. No.

WIFE'S CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—About twelve or thirteen years ago in the year 1918 or 1919 in Massachusetts my father took out his first paper. Up to the year 1925 he had neglected to obtain final papers. We live in Chicago since 1925. In 1925 he took out his second and last papers which authorized his citizenship. About three years later my parents were divorced. Is my mother a citizen?
R. S.

By the naturalization of the father and husband in 1925 his wife did not become a citizen, but if she desires to become a citizen she may apply for final papers without a declaration of intention and by proving but one year's residence in the United States. Children under the age of twenty-one years, if dwelling in the United States at the time of the father's naturalization, became citizens with him.

THIS CHANGING WORLD!

And now the New York World is taken by the grim reaper. Or, at least, the Morning World fades from sight and the Evening World, according to present prospects, is to be merged into the Evening Telegram. Sic transit gloria mundi. And years and years ago when we sought a job in that great building with the gorgeous golden dome we thought the World was a combination of the Bank of England, the Rock of Gibraltar, and the everlasting Alps. Pulitzer, the editor of the World, was an uncrowned king; Choey Poolesteer, the envious used to call him, and they love to describe the way he would rush into the World office, shrieking: "Who vas it der horrible front page story wrote? Fire 'im! Fire 'im! Fire 'im! Who ist der boss of der Vurruld? Me, Choey Poolesteer! Reeduse selerees! Reeduse selerees! Reeduse selerees!"

And now the World passes! What did it—depression, radio, movie news reels, the growth of chain newspapers—or what? This question referred to the Schools of Journalism, with power to act.

L'ENVOI.

In the night our love was new
We lingered, you and I,
And the summer breezes blew
And the stars grew dim in the sky;
The stars grew dim in the sky
And the trees came close above,
Shutting us in with a sigh,
Shutting us in with love.

When our last low fire shall burn
To an ember in the dark,
And the wind in the chimney turn
To breathe on the final spark,
Death will be passing by,
Spreading his wings above—
Shutting us in with a sigh,
Shutting us in with love.

Of life when our life is past
Little it is we know,
But if all things perish at last
Love will be last to go;
Till the faintest star in the sky
Shall fade, will the winds above
Pause, and remember, and sigh,
Shutting us in with love.

ARKANSAS struck a hard blow at one of the basic industries of Nevada by passing a bill which is now before the governor for approval making ninety days' residence sufficient to obtain a divorce. But Nevada counters by promptly introducing a bill in the legislature shortening the present residence requirement of three months to six weeks. And if Arkansas gets gay and makes another cut in the time schedule Nevada will probably come down to a month. We deplore this cutthroat competition, because the divorce seekers should be compelled to stay a while in order to run up hotel bills and spend a little money, or else the divorce business will not remain a basic industry.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 26, 1915.

LONDON.—The bombardment by the allied British and French fleets has reduced all the Turkish outer forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles. These are the fortresses of Sedd-ul-Bahr on the European side and Koum Kaleh on the Asiatic side of the channel and facing the entrance from the Ægean sea.

PARIS.—French aviators played an important part in the repulse of German troops who attempted to retake lost ground in the Champagne region, it was announced in official dispatches. The airmen rained more than sixty bombs upon a railway station where the kaiser's forces were concentrating. They shelled trains loaded with troops and threw the Germans into confusion, preventing a successful attack. An allies' aviator bombarded a German military train near Ostend, killing thirty German soldiers and wounding fifty, according to a dispatch from Zeebrugge.

CHICAGO.—A censored family conference between the Rev. James Morrison Darnell, "the marrying parson"; Ruth Soper of Owatonna, Minn., Darnell's "Kenosha wife"; her 7 months old baby, and other relatives was held in the office of Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief of the federal investigation bureau, who signed the Mann act complaint against the minister. At its conclusion Darnell was handcuffed and taken back to the county jail. No words concerning the white slave charge and the reported marriage were allowed to pass between the principals.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 26, 1901.

CHICAGO.—With the formal closing of the sale of his large holdings of elevated railroad stocks and bonds yesterday Charles T. Yerkes severs finally his business connection with Chicago. The control of the Northwestern elevated, the Lake street elevated, Union elevated [loop], and also Mr. Yerkes' stock in the Chicago Union Traction company have been taken over by a New York syndicate. The transaction involves a cash outlay of about $5,000,000. Blair & Co. of New York and John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank; Marshall Field and Norman B. Ream of Chicago are represented in the deal.

CHICAGO.—Frederic Harrison of London officiated at the Positivist ceremony of "Presenting to Humanity" William Sahud, the 2 year old son of Dr. M. Sahud, 1017 Milwaukee avenue. The ceremony corresponds to that of baptism in Christian churches. It is called by Positivists "the first sacrament." It was performed at the Auditorium Annex, and was the first of the kind ever conducted in Chicago.

CHICAGO.—A new system of street lighting has been installed in Dearborn street, which, if extended, will make the city independent of gas companies. The lamps are operated with gasoline.

DENVER.—Al Corwan, a crazy woman hater from Virginia, was caught after midnight with a blood stained revolver and a bar of steel wrapped in leather, prowling around Capitol hill. Evidence proves him guilty of the murders and mysterious assaults that have paralyzed Denver.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 26, 1881.

NEW YORK.—The stock exchange was the scene of intense excitement and the speculation was on a scale of magnitude which has been rarely if ever equaled. Seldom has the market been subject to a strain so severe. In the early hours there were anxious frightened faces by the score, and everybody was uneasy. In brokerage offices the tape recording the quotations was picked up by trembling hands and each tick of the indicator seemed like a knell. In the afternoon there was a veritable panic such as has not been equaled since 1873. Under consequent pressure to sell stock prices tumbled from 1 to 17 per cent and foreign exchange became demoralized, bringing export business to a complete standstill.

SPRINGFIELD.—The house galleries were moderately filled with the gentle sex, attracted by the prospect of a deliberate circus over Chafee's joint resolution to submit a prohibitory amendment to the constitution.

GOOD FRIDAY.

West Chicago, Ill., Feb. 24.—Every year as Good Friday draws near I cannot help but think of how this country of ours, which professes to be Christian, lets one of the greatest days in the history of the Christian world pass by just like an ordinary day. We observe Armistice day and Memorial day and hold services in honor of those who gave their lives for us and our country. All well and good; that is but a small portion of the debt of gratitude we owe them. But what do we do as followers of Christ to show our gratitude to Him who gave us His life and thereby reopened the gates of heaven for us? What do we do? Many of us, not a thing; many do not know just what Good Friday really means.

Don't you think it would be fitting for us who call ourselves Christians to make a move to make Good Friday a national day of atonement and recognition to Him who has given this country His loving care and protection through these trying years, when there are strong foes all around us trying to destroy our faith in even an Almighty Being?

EYE COLORING.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—According to a professor and the Mendelian law, brown eyed children are never born to blue eyed parents. My father and mother both had blue eyes. I am the fourth youngest of fourteen children. To my knowledge all of my sisters and brothers had and have blue eyes, and I have brown eyes. Asking my father from whom I got my brown eyes, he said, "From my mother, your grandmother." Doesn't this put a kink in the Mendelian law and the testimony of this professor?
LOUISE C. ELFELD.

NATURE'S LAW.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 23.—Your correspondent who noted the case of the brown eyed child of blue eyed parents might be interested to know that in many cases the complete dominance which Mendel observed has been shown to be the exception rather than the rule.
LOUISE L. MCLEAN.

COOLIDGE.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Answering Andrew Griesemer, whose letter appeared in the Voice of the People today, I should like to ask him on what he bases his opinion that Calvin Coolidge is one of the greatest men of all time. What big piece of legislation or anything else can be coupled with the name of Coolidge? Certainly his silence and inactivity while President were no proof that he was a genius.
HARRY MORTON.

SHORT SKIRTS.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—I suggest to all 100 per cent American women that we let the Parisiennes wear their silly freak styles. Why should we intelligent American women be governed by some French galoot? If the dear fat sisters of America could but view themselves from all angles as others see them I think they would recoil with horror at the bumps and curves and would rebel and go back to the long waist lines and short skirts which gave them youth and slenderness.

I am not fat, but give me the lovely, chic styles of yesterday.
MISS ERLA WESTOVER.

THE INCOME TAX PARADOX.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—In the Voice of the People of Feb. 22 Milton J. Drake solves F. E. F.'s income tax paradox, and makes some assertions which would seem to indicate that he is not familiar with the regulations regarding income tax procedure. If Mr. Drake will read section 144 of the revenue act of 1928 he will see how F. E. F. arrived at the solution which he submitted.

The individual will not pay as much tax himself directly, but indirectly he has paid the tax by having 1½ per cent withheld and paid at the source. The tax on $5,000, of which $2,500 is interest on bonds, amounts to $39.38. Less 1½ per cent of the $2,500 withheld and paid at the source leaves a tax of $1.88 due.
BILL I. BARDY.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 20.—Since everything except a job can be insured in this country, why is it not possible to insure that, also? New Zealand has solved the problem successfully. There all workers over 21 are required to make regular payments into an unemployment insurance fund. The government matches it dollar for dollar. When a man loses his job, through no fault of his own, he draws an allowance from the fund of $5.25 weekly for himself, $4.36 for his wife, if he is married, and $1 weekly for each child. During the present depression the fund is said to be proving a godsend.

Some way must be found in this country to protect its workers and to insure them enough to keep themselves in case of enforced idleness. This is not the first time an unemployment wave has swept the United States, and it will not be the last time. Sooner or later it must again be faced. Then why isn't it the part of wisdom for our public men and industrial leaders to get together now and devise some way of alleviating suffering in the future, without resorting to charity or doles when overproduction, or any other cause, creates a similar employment slump?
B. J. KINGSTON.

A WATCH DOG.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—It seems to me that something could be done about an old hunting dog kept by a neighbor of ours. There are a good many dogs in the same neighborhood, but this particular one is the only one ever heard. He is supposedly a watch dog, but if anybody enters the yard he runs and hides and not a whimper out of him, but he will start at seven in the morning and bark for three hours continually without a pause. It happens that I work quite late at night and have to sleep until eight o'clock at least in order to acquire eight hours' sleep.
WINIFRED MCNULTY.

QUESTIONS FOR PARENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—May I ask the parents of unmarried daughters, who actively campaign against the married workers, a few questions?

Are you ready to see your daughter denied the right to marry in order to become an office worker or teacher?

Are you going to be pleased to see her forced to give up that work if she decides to marry anyway?

How many young men does she know who could (and would) marry her under present conditions and maintain a home without a little aid?

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

State, U. S. Co-operate to Rush Project.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The dirt is now flying again on the Illinois waterway, and federal authorities predicted yesterday that by the time the World's Fair of 1933 opens barges from New Orleans, Memphis, and St. Louis will be moving into the port of Chicago.

A race is now on for the state to finish building the bridges over the canal by the time the government engineers finish their job of completing the Illinois link in the lakes to gulf water route. Col. W. C. Weeks, United States army engineer, in a conference yesterday with Henry H. Evans, state director of purchases and construction, formally imparted the news that the war department this week approved the designs for bridges at Ruby street and Jackson street in Joliet. Informal word came, too, that Washington approved yesterday the plans for the McDonough street span at Joliet. The bridges are to have a clearance of 161½ feet above pool level. State officials said the call for bids for two of the spans will be advertised within the next few weeks. Five bridges are to be built by the state at Joliet at a cost of $1,500,000, the other two being at Jefferson and Cass streets, and they are to be constructed two at a time.

Build Other Bridges.

Other bridges are to be built at Brandon's road, Smith's highway, Romeoville, and Ottawa at an estimated cost of a million dollars. The state division of highways is to build bridges at Seneca and Morris. The state has about $2,700,000 left of the $20,000,000 waterway bond issue authorized by the constitutional amendment of 1908. State officials say it is ample for the bridge building.

The state selected four prominent Chicago architects to design the Joliet bridges, and after the competitive designs were received Director Kohn named a board of judges to choose the type of span best adapted to location, low cost of maintenance, and operation.

Open Construction Camps.

Meanwhile in recent days construction camps have been opened at Brandon road, below Joliet, and at Dresden island, near Morris. The Congress construction company, low bidder, was given the masonry contract for Dresden island lock and dam, a mile below the confluence of the Des Plaines and Kankakee rivers. The company was the contractor for the dam on the same job before congress stepped over the completion of the waterway. Col. Weeks snipped a bit of red tape with the approval of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and the informal approval of the contract ahead of action at Washington, in order to start the work going.

The Conway Construction company is now working two crews to complete the masonry of the lock and dam at Brandon road, the cost being $3,350,

"Our objective," said Col. Weeks yesterday, "is to have the waterway completed for the navigation season of 1933 on the government's part of the work. The outlook is that everything will be finished by April, 1933, and our hope is that by the time the World's Fair opens barges from New Orleans and other southern points will be running into this harbor and Chicago will realize it is on a real lakes to gulf waterway."

Rush Work on Walls.

Col. Weeks says the Dresden island sector of the waterway will be completed within a year. At Joliet construction work on the retaining walls by the government is to go on apace with the bridge building by the state. The engineers are desirous of getting the walls at Joliet raised to full height by the time the Brandon road dam, just below the city, is finished. Sixteen gates, each 15 feet wide and 20 high, are to control the pool, their estimated capacity being sufficient to take care of much more than the maximum volume in any flood time. The business section of Joliet is below pool level, and the pool will be filled slowly enough to take care of any springs that might form due to the pressure.

As it stands today, the engineers report that the entire waterway project, including bridges, is 68 per cent complete. The full cost is placed at $25,000,000 on the original plans, and the state has already spent $17,000,000. Without the bridges, the Illinois waterway as a whole is now placed as 77 per cent complete.

W. M'CORMICK BLAIR NAMED AS TRUSTEE OF THE U. OF CHICAGO

W. McCormick Blair has been elected a member of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago, according to an announcement made yesterday by Harold H. Swift, president of the board. Mr. Blair is a partner in the investment banking house of Lee, Higginson & Co. and is a veteran of more than twenty years in the investment field.

W. McCORMICK BLAIR.

The new trustee is a graduate of Yale university and Groton school. He has been president of the Industrial Club of Chicago, a trustee of the Fourth Presbyterian church and of the Chicago Historical society, and a director of the United Charities and the James C. King Home for Old Men. For several years he has been treasurer and a director of the Chicago club.

LATE GIFTS FILL 5 MILLION QUOTA OF RELIEF FUND

Workers Tired but Happy as Drive Ends.

The relief fund campaign of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief ended at 5 o'clock last night with the $5,000,000 quota collected or pledged. The final day of the drive furnished $24,000, a record excelled only by the first few days of the campaign. Approximately $13,000 of the amount was raised in a few short hours in the afternoon by an intensive telephone and telegraph campaign.

As soon as the last pledge had been received, assuring the success of the drive, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the fund raising committee, declared the books closed and the drive finished. A few scattered donations, promised but not yet received, and remaining answers to be received from the home appeal through franked mail, will probably enable the committee to pass the quota by $10,000, according to Mr. Clarke.

Late Gifts Are Received.

Among gifts received late yesterday which helped insure the success of the campaign were: Samuel Insull Jr., $5,000; Edison General Electric company, $1,000; National Broadcasting company, $1,000; Lincoln Printing company, $1,000; Oak Park women's division, $1,016; Union Tank Car company, $500; H. M. Byllesby & Co., $500; Washington Park, $500; Lincoln Fields, $500.

Other gifts included $500 from Mary M. Ryerson; employés of Lyon & Healy, $426; Wilson Western Sporting Goods company, $250; Chicago Stock Exchange, $200; Stebbins Hardware company, $200; Arthur L. Leonard, $250, and Ernest S. Bazley, $230. Returns from the home mail appeal were $3,887. One of the last donations received was 1¢ cents, given to Mr. Clarke personally by a woman who sells pencils on a street corner to support herself and her unemployed husband.

Workers Tired But Happy.

"It has been a long trying campaign," Mr. Clarke said, "and we are all tired but happy. To bring the drive to a successful conclusion we had to beg and plead, and at times even scold, but we can say in all seriousness that the people of Chicago have responded creditably to an unusual situation."

The relief fund campaign was launched in early November to support destitute families. Under Mr. Clarke, who headed the $75,000,000 tax warrant drive for the local governments, twenty-eight trade division teams were formed to canvass the industries and professions. Personal solicitations from individuals was handled by a special committee headed by Joseph M. Cudahy, and the women's division was under the direction of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-four men were arrested in a raid on a reputed gambling establishment here by deputy sheriffs early today. The deputies said at least fifteen patrons escaped through windows and exits. A man registered as Joseph Marin was booked on charges of operating the establishment. Others Sheriff M. P. Lehman said, would be charged with gambling or vagrancy.

Hold Up Couple in Shop; Get $1,925 Rings and $145

Samuel Holtzman and his wife, Estelle, were in the Holtzman tire shop at 2559 South State street last night when two strangers entered. There was $145 in the cash register, a $600 ring on one of Mr. Holtzman's fingers, and another valued at $1,325 on one of Mrs. Holtzman's. Now the cash drawer is empty and the fingers are bare. The strangers were robbers.

GOOD FELLOWS' FUND NEARING $100,000 MARK

With the arrival yesterday of $385.94 from Good Fellows who for months have been contributing toward the support of needy families, the Good Fellow fund passed the $97,000 mark. With good luck and a continued support from the Good Fellows, the fund should reach $100,000 the first of next week.

This fund is providing the necessities of life for 305 families who otherwise would have had to turn to charities that already are taxed to the limit. All contributors to the Good Fellow fund can be certain that the families they support are worthy, because all have been investigated by the United Charities, the Salvation Army, the Central Charities bureau [Catholic], and the Jewish Social Service bureau.

PRINCE OF WALES GAMBLES; WINS 'LOTS OF MONEY'

VALPARAISO, Chile, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Friends of the prince of Wales said today that his royal highness had taken a little flyer in bacearat at the Vina del Mara casino and had, as one of them put it, "won a large amount of money."

Chileans were greatly pleased, for they recalled that when the prince was here five years ago he had had a bad run of luck at roulette, losing about 10,000 pesos ($1,200), according to a government official who was present.

His winnings were the topic today of conversations in the hotels and clubs, and estimates by the few friends who witnessed the coup ran all the way from 5,000 pesos ($600) to 20,000 pesos ($2,400). Only a few persons were present in the casino when the prince arrived after attending a dinner dance.

JURY EXONERATES GIRL OF 18 WHO KILLED FATHER

Miss Harriet Schneider, 18 years old, who on Monday shot and killed her father, Albert, because the latter was abusing his wife, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. Assistant State's Attorney Leonard Steiger said that Miss Schneider would be arraigned in the Felony court this morning despite the jury verdict.

Miss Schneider told the coroner's jury that her father came home intoxicated and abused her mother. She said she resorted to use of the revolver when her father refused to heed her warnings to desist or be shot.

Little Lips must be protected

Little bodies, little heads and hands and feet are carefully protected from wind and cold, but little lips—the most thinly skinned of all—are forgotten. Nature left off the granular layer from the skin of the lips—only the most gossamer-like membrane covers the tissues. Exposure to cold, wind, heat or light quickly dries it to the breaking point—painful, chapped or cracked lips result and open spots are danger spots of infection.

Spread a thin film of the Roger & Gallet Lip Pomade on the lips—adults as well as children—and keep them whole and healthy. Pure, bland, colorless, pleasant to taste—it is safe enough to eat. Physicians order it for chapped or fevered lips, or during sun-ray treatment. In convenient stick form—for 25 cents. Get one today.

A Clever Woman Can Learn to Be Her Own Manicurist

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Following a compliment on her lovely hands, a woman volunteered that to date she'd never had a professional manicure. Which statement, when spoken by a person noted for her excellent grooming, inspires surprise, to say the least. One expects that every fastidious girl or woman today sees her manicurist at least semi-monthly, if not weekly. Obviously, though, from the hands of the woman mentioned and from those of other women known, one can maintain a high standard of hand appearance with simple home administrations.

The particular woman referred to, among other things, said that her mother had taught her, as a young girl, never to wash her hands in water that was more than moderately warm. Hot water, she was told rightly, dries out the natural oils of the skin and makes the nails susceptible to easy breaking.

Then this woman's mother had started her in early using a hand lotion which first appeared on the market years ago. Also the mother thought her the simple trick of coaxing the cuticle down while the lotion was in use. She has perfectly formed nails, clearly defined and distinctly separated from the surrounding cuticle. Lovely hands, really, and that's about all that's been done to keep them so.

Housework difficulties, it is true, this woman has not had to contend with. But then lots of other women without household duties have not hands they're as proud to show. Besides, for housework there are protective gloves for the darker duties and there is the accessibility of the hand lotion at all hours of work completion.

There are awfully good hand lotions on the market with just those softening oils the average useful hand needs. And then there is always cream in the cold cream jar that, if good enough for the face, certainly is good enough for the hands, and for the same skin preservative reasons. Use your cream if a lotion is not handy. And when you use it coax back and down that crowding cuticle that so often mars a nail tip.

There are cigaret stain removers on the market, or you may scrub off these stains with pumice or a combination of powdered pumice and peroxide.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. C.: THE STANDARD WEIGHT for a girl of eighteen, 5 feet 9 inches is 140 pounds. A young man of 21, 6 feet 1 inch, should weigh 168 pounds.

E. R. M.: IT MIGHT BE WELL for you to wear your glasses all the time. However, the safe thing to do is to have your eyes examined by an eye specialist, who will then advise the proper procedure.

Light Topped Suit Is Fashion's Favorite

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The light topped, dark skirted suit is the most popular type of tailored costume being worn in the south by smart women right now. It's an ideal hot weather tailored suit for it's so fresh and cool looking and it often is cool feeling, too, for the matching blouse and jacket may be of lighter fabric than the skirt. A cotton serge jacket and batiste blouse, for example, is chic with a wool serge skirt of contrasting color. All flanned suits are also much worn. A pale gray flannel skirt with a pale green flannel jacket and a thin jersey blouse of the same green tint, is sponsored by Maggy Rouff.

Vionnet makes the bi-colored tailored suit, sketched here, with skirt of dark brown, fine wool twill. The short-sleeved blouse is of pale sky-blue silk and the plain tailored packet is in the identical shade of sky blue but in the same fine twill as the skirt. The straight classic jacket with its slit pockets and buttoned sleeves is an interesting style point.

The skirt is cut in Vionnet's inimitable manner with circular fullness thrown toward the left side of the front. It buttons diagonally at the top with brown buttons covered with the twill. There's a tailored belt of the brown twill.

The Agnes hat is of dark brown tricot with a rolled toreador brim. A bow of sky-blue ribbon recalls the blouse and jacket.

Food Talk.

An adequate supply of calcium, phosphorus, and iron is provided in tomorrow's menu. The orange juice, cheese sauce, and milk contribute the largest amount of calcium. The whole wheat cereal supplies not only phosphorus, but also iron. The green beans furnish both iron and phosphorus and so does the liver. Liver and egg yolk are especially rich in iron.

So far as the diet itself goes, it is nutritious. But there are other things that are just as important as nutriment and that is careful preparation and service. And good preparation means to preserve and improve, if possible, the flavor of all foods which are on the menu.

Take, for example, the orange juice. It should be cold, not necessarily chilled. Some cooks have the habit of squeezing the juice the night before to save time in the morning. This should never be done. Orange juice absorbs odors easily and it also oxidizes. Juice that stands in a refrigerator with other foods does not have a true orange flavor. It is far better to squeeze the juice out of oranges that have been kept in a clean, cold place. Oranges in the skin even absorb foul odors, and that is why they should be stored in a cool place. For every day service orange juice should never be strained. Straining removes some of the fine flavor and considerable of the food value.

Now a word about the canned peas that are suggested for the evening meal. Some cooks rob peas of all their inherent good flavor by draining off all the liquid in the can. But this liquid contains sugar and the minerals that give the peas their delightful flavor. The reason for draining off the liquid is a belief that it is poisonous. The liquid is just as wholesome as the peas. So to preserve the flavor, cook the peas in the liquid in which they are canned for about 20 minutes. Then season with butter or cream. If peas seem to lack sweetness, a little sugar may be added, but no other flavor can atone for what the peas lack.

BRAISED LIVER.

Fat salt pork
¼ cup carrot diced
¼ cup onion, diced
¼ cup celery, diced.
¼ tsp. peppercorns
2 cloves
Bit of bay leaf
2 cups brown stock or water
1½ tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour

Prepare liver, skewer, and tie in shape. Lard upper side with salt pork. Put in deep pan with trimmings from lardoons, carrot, onion, celery, peppercorns, cloves, bay leaf, and stock or water. Cover closely and bake two hours in slow oven [300 degrees F.], uncovering the last 20 minutes. Remove from pan, strain liquor and thicken with butter and flour, browned together. Serve around liver.

ORANGE REFRIGERATOR PUDDING.

Mix ¼ cup sugar and 2 teaspoons flour with 2 well beaten egg yolks. Then add slowly ½ cup scalded milk, 1 tablespoon butter and a few grains salt and cook over hot water until thick and smooth. Add the grated rind of ½ orange and the juice of 1 large orange [⅓ cup]. Cool slightly and add 2 egg whites beaten stiff. Split lady fingers. Place a layer in a brick mold lined with heavy paraffin paper, cover with orange mixture. Put in another layer of the lady fingers and continue until the mixture is used. Let stand 24 hours in the refrigerator. Turn out on a serving dish and decorate with whipped cream. Yield: Five servings.

What! GRAPEFRUIT Curb Colds?

By Ask your doctor!

WHY do you get more colds in winter than summer? Because you lack the sunshine and the garden vegetables and fruits of the warmer months.

Your system contains too much acid (acidosis)—your resistance is lowered—you fall an easier victim to germs.

Grapefruit corrects acidosis, for it is alkaline in its effect. Grapefruit gives you—in generous measure—the mineral salts and vitamins, so sadly needed this time of year.

Be a modern—prevent and combat colds with grapefruit—luscious "Seald-Sweet" Grapefruit—the choicest of the crop. Eat this luscious fruit or drink the health-giving juice, two or three times a day. Each fruit wears the name "Seald-Sweet" on its skin.

POOR Alice! As old-fashioned as her mother. In mother's day there was no help for the girl who suffered every month. But this is 1931!

A million modern women have ended their monthly martyrdom to pain. They make engagements — and keep them — without a thought to the time of month.

And so can you.

If you want your periods to be painless, take Midol—a medicine made for the purpose. Take it in time, and the pain won't even start. If the pains have started, they will subside in from five to seven minutes. No matter how hard a time you've always experienced, Midol never fails.

How can anything so harmless—for Midol is not a narcotic—be so effective, and act so quickly?

Only the specialists who found this wonderful antidote for pain can answer that. But any woman who has tried it can tell you that Midol will remove your last excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains, headaches, etc.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, is annoyed to find Hilary Revel, the author of travel books, in the space he'd reserved on deck. They both desired seclusion. Hilary had just lost her invalid brother, Hugh. John, while a soldier, had an affair with a young café singer.

INSTALLMENT IV.

UNDYING DEVOTION.

Gertrude, through some of her friends, heard of the attachment and peremptorally demanded the girl's name and antecedents of her brother. Giving neither, he walked out of her house, called for Jenny at the theater, and took her into the country for the week-end. "You are going to marry me," he said. "O, well . . . perhaps after the war," she had answered gaily. Nothing would move her from that attitude, though she allowed him to buy her a ring at last, and when he was recalled to the front saw him off with tears. He had wanted to leave money for her but she would not hear of it, and he, inadequate as usual (he thought bitterly, now) had not known how to insist. In the months that followed, when no word of any kind came in reply to his eager letters, he had gone through every torturing emotion, disappointment, fear, anger, and at last the humiliating conviction that he had meant nothing to her after all, had been no doubt one fool among many.

He was moved to another front and it was early in 1919 before he saw England again. He made inquiries, but could hear nothing of Jenny. The show, after a long run, had gone on tour and was now in Canada, Jenny presumably with the rest. Falconer, getting back more readily than most men into professional life and soon absorbed in it, put her out of his mind.

Four years later he had learned for the first time of Judith. He would have indignantly repudiated the whole story, had not the man Harris, sitting in his office, embarrassed and in grief, been so evidently a decent fellow. An engineer by trade, Harris had married Jenny soon after demobilization and now, having lost her, wished to emigrate, but naturally could not take Jenny's child.

"She was perfectly straight with me from the start, he said. "'Judy's

"O, Sylvia, how good of you! And now she will be Judith Falconer."

father was an officer and a gentleman, and there's not many I'd call that,' she'd say. 'He asked me to marry him and I said no because I'm not a fool.' Jenny'd seen a bit of the world, sir, and she had a lot of independence . . . wasn't one to take advantage of the war to push herself where she wasn't wanted, if you know what I mean. She wouldn't have been happy married to a man whose friends would look down on her. Of course when she found the baby was coming that was rather a facer, because she had to leave the show, but Jenny was always plucky; and afterwards she got a job in a boarding house where they let her keep the little girl. That's where I met her, as a matter of fact, and being anxious to settle down I put my bit of war gratuity into a garage and we were married right away. I shouldn't have known your name until this day if Jenny hadn't happened to see your wedding picture in the Mirror, and then thinking as both you and she were married it couldn't matter she pointed you out. Rather proud to show me Judy's father, for she'd always said the little girl was like you. Jenny was that careful of her, you wouldn't find anything to be ashamed of in Judy either; and now the truth is I've no one to give her the care she ought to have. What with business being so bad and nothing before me but emigration I'm at my wits' end."

Harris had brought a photograph of the little girl. Falconer, sitting on the deck of the "Pericles," with Miss Revel forgotten beside him, could recall across the years between the sharp pang, half pain, half pleasure, with which he had first looked upon his daughter's face.

Nothing of Jenny was in the picture. Jenny had been vivid and fair and full of mischievous life. Judith at 6, with her thin cheeks and pointed chin chin, was redeemed from plainness only by the bright intelligence of her eyes. Falconer, with a sense of unreality, had remembered a photograph of his own childhood which Gertrude had unearthed and given to Sylvia. No wonder when the moment of revelation came Sylvia had had no doubt.

But he had not intended there should be any revelation; to protect Sylvia was his one coherent thought. Sending Harris away with a promise to see him next day he had shut himself in his office, frantically seeking a plan of campaign. He could not of course deny the obligation, nor did he care to put the matter into the hands of any intermediary. He could trust no one but himself where Sylvia's happiness and peace of mind were concerned. She was his world, his love for her so deep that the old attraction to poor Jenny seemed a fantastic dream.

At length he had thought of Mrs. Bowen. Bowen, his batman for two years in France, had been killed beside him. Later he had helped the widow to open a little business in her native village. Perhaps she might be glad to take the little girl. His assistance to her in the past would make the explanation credible. Judith was the daughter of a man of his regiment who wished to emigrate. He had promised to see to the child until the father could send for her. In a year or two, when she was a little older, Judith must be sent to school . . . a convent, perhaps, in France. The plan had worked, there seemed no flaw in it; Judith went to live with Mrs. Bowen, and Harris to New Zealand. Twelve months later the woman's sudden illness while Falconer was in Edinburgh on business had defeated his careful scheming and Sylvia had brought Judith home.

He could not tell how much she had believed of his halting explanation. She had swept protestations and objections smilingly aside, and even the fugitive likeness did not seem to trouble her. To friends she explained gaily: "I've adopted a little girl behind my husband's back, and he doesn't quite know what to do about it, do you, John? Her father was in his regiment and now the poor mite's mother is dead and her step-father has gone to the colonies, so she's mine. Her name is Judith Harris. Isn't it quaint?"

"O, Sylvia, how good of you! And now she will be Judith Falconer?" exclaimed an admiring voice.

"My dear, of course not. She is 7 years old, quite a big girl, and I wouldn't ask her to forget her own people. We are to be Aunt Sylvia and Uncle John."

Who but Sylvia would have thought of that? In the face of her perfection Falconer had felt for the first time a sense of guilt, he could feel it still and wondered wistfully if she had ever guessed.

Judith's presence had made little difference in their lives, outwardly at least. A nursery was installed at the top of the house, and Tracy, who had been Sylvia's maid, took charge there. Later there was a morning governess, and between them all Falconer saw little of the child. Sylvia entertained as of old, exquisitely and often, played golf with him on Saturday and Sunday, and in the summer joined his holiday while Tracy took Judith to the sea. Had Sylvia, guessing his embarrassment, kept the little girl out of his way? He could never be sure, but at least he knew she had been good to her. Whenever he thought of that desolate night of Sylvia's death it was not his own stunned grief he remembered, but the still house, rain lashing the windows, and Judith forgotten crouched on the Chesterfield crying dread fully and silently. It was the last and greatest testimony to the beauty of what his wife had done.

GASOLINE ALLEY—UNDRESS REHEARSAL

AND MY FRIENDS, WE MUST WORK TOGETHER. COOPERATION IS THE WATCHWORD WHICH WILL STEER OUR SHIP OF PROGRESS THROUGH THE QUAGMIRES OF COMPETITION.
SUCCESS DEPENDS ON THE EFFORT—NOT OF A FEW OF US—BUT OF EVERY LAST ONE OF US. WE MUST PUT OUR SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL.
WE MUST NOT THINK THAT THE NEXT MAN'S TERRITORY IS SOFTER THAN OUR OWN. WE MUST REALIZE THAT OPPORTUNITY LIES WITHIN OURSELVES—AND IS NOT HAMPERED BY GEOGRAPHY.
WHAT DID YOU SAY, WALT?
YOU'RE TOO LATE, PHYLLIS. I WAS JUST REHEARSING MY SPEECH FOR THE SALESMEN'S DINNER.

Chaplin, Shaw Talk on World Economic Crisis

So Movie Comedian Finds Writer Delightful.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin met George Bernard Shaw today, but the film comedian was "very nervous" at the prospect of being introduced to the writer.

After the meeting, which took place at the town house of Lady Astor, Chaplin confessed he had felt uneasy. At the luncheon they discussed world economics.

"I was frightened on my way to the luncheon," he said. "But as soon as I got there the warmth of Shaw's personality put me perfectly at ease. I've always been interested in Shaw and read most of his plays, but he is quite different from what I had supposed.

"We talked about pictures and then the conversation drifted to world economics."

Potassium Salt Baths Aid to T.B. Treatment, Polish Doctor Declares

Dr. Frans von Groer, noted Polish authority on tuberculosis, announced at a joint meeting of the Chicago Medical society and the Chicago Tuberculosis institute last night a new form of treatment for childhood tuberculosis which he has used "with excellent results" in his native country. The meeting was held in the Medical and Dental Arts building.

This treatment, the specialist said, is the use of baths in a solution of potassium salts which acts as a stimulant to the body's natural resistance to tuberculosis. This treatment is added to the usual measures of good food, fresh air and sunshine.

Dr. von Groer told of using "langbeinite," a potassium mineral found in Poland, since 1922. So satisfied is he with the results that he is now publishing the data obtained by use of the treatment at the children's clinic in the hospital of the University of Lemberg, where he is director of pediatrics.

"The fundamentals of treatment for tuberculosis in children are of course, fresh air, sunshine and good food," Dr. von Groer said. "I am also emphasizing quiet. Added to these requisites of general hygiene is a second type of remedy consisting of a very careful stimulation of the body."

Talks Tonight

DAME RACHEL CROWDY.

The English Speaking union and the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations are to give a dinner this evening for Dame Rachel Crowdy at the Blackstone hotel crystal ballroom at 7 o'clock. Following the dinner the guest will speak on "International Aspects of Social Reform."

Ralph Modjeski Wins New Honors for His Career as Engineer

The Washington award for preeminent service in advancing human progress was conferred on Ralph Modjeski, designer of bridges, at a dinner of the Western Society of Engineers, held last evening in the Palmer house. Elmer T. Howson, chairman of the committee from five leading engineering associations which selected Mr. Modjeski for the honor, made the presentation of the bronze tablet.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railroad, declared that Modjeski had been a pioneer in demonstrating that beauty could be built into utilitarian structures like railroad bridges and that he had effectively refuted the charge that modern engineering works were marked by offensive ugliness.

School Heads Argue Today Over Dry Law

Resolutions Group Gives O. K. to Prohibition.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Prohibition, the world court, educational use of radio broadcasting, and federal aid for education were endorsed today by the resolutions committee of the department of superintendence of the National Education association.

The resolutions, approved unanimously by the committee's 17 members, will be presented to the association tomorrow.

Without a dissenting vote, the committee rejected the anti-prohibition resolution proposed by the association's second vice president, Dr. Daniel S. Kealey of Hoboken, N. J. In its place the committee presented one asking the school superintendents to "reaffirm" their "belief in the eighteenth amendment as the most effective means yet devised to curtail the distribution and use of alcohol."

Concerning the world court the resolutions urged "prompt adherence" by the United States as a "step toward the substitution of law for war in the settlement of international disputes and the stabilization of world relationships."

The committee's report condemned "all false advertising and other pernicious attempts to mislead the youth in relation to the use of cigarets and narcotics."

CANDY THE PRICE OF EACH PAGE DONE BY ANATOLE FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 25.—The late Anatole France got a piece of candy each time he had written a page, so says Jean-Jacques Brousson, at one time the author's secretary. Brousson, also author of two books on Anatole France, told an interested audience in Brussels how that author wrote. Mme. Armand de Caillavet, whom Brousson called "Anatole France's Aegeria," locked the great writer up in a room of her house every afternoon at three o'clock, putting sheets of paper and a pen in front of him. It was she who gave him the piece of candy after he had done a page.

American and other admirers of Anatole France who think they have an autograph of his should tone down a bit: The odds are that France's secretary wrote it.

Anatole France, that was a pen name, was half Belgian, Brousson revealed. The author's mother was born either in Bruges or Ghent. Anatole France, whose real last name was Thibault, got his peculiar philosophy of disillusion, pity and irony from his mother, according to Brousson. One story is that workers for his father, François Thibault, contracted the Francois to "France," and that appealed to the son, who adopted that as a nom de plume.

Women Influenced Anatole France all through his life. First his mother, then the "Aegeria," who handed him candy for every page of writing and largely because of whom he became estranged from his first wife; and last his cook, who became his second wife and nursed and tyrannized over the great man until his death. Then so famous was his "alias" that few would have identified Jacques Anatole Thibault with him.

South's Methodists Cheer Bishop Cannon; Rap Atheists, Reds

New Orleans, La., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The spread of "communistic and atheistic propaganda at home and abroad" was stressed today before the annual sessions of the general missionary council of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as a prime reason for the continuation of active missionary programs by the church in both the domestic and foreign fields.

The relation between economic depressions and contributions to missions came in for prolonged discussion at an open forum at which Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Washington presided, as his first official act since his exoneration of secret charges by a clerical committee in Washington.

He appeared on crutches, as a result of recent illness, and was given an ovation by the delegates. The subject of communism was brought before the council by Dr. W. G. Cram of Nashville, general secretary of missions, who charged that "communism is attempting to liquidate the faith of Christianity, both in foreign missionary fields and at home."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"TORCH SONG," a drama by the author of "The Barker," which was a dramatic critics' hit in New York last fall, is now on view at the Blackstone theater. It is not burning brilliantly, but at least it is manifesting an ardent glow.

Comparison of this play with "Rain" is almost inevitable, since it also deals with the hysterical breaking point between religious emotionalism and the sex instinct; and if the late Jeanne Eagels were now acting the heroine of "Torch Song"—a night club singer who joins the Salvation Army—we might be talking about this play as one of the most stirring events of the season.

Kenyon Nicholson, a realist who has a way of finding vivid dramatic themes in commonplace segments of the "American scene," has chosen his types and his background from the Ohio river valley. After a prologue in a quiet corner of a Cincinnati roadhouse he proceeds to a hotel lobby and a traveling salesman's bedroom in Pomeroy, O.

I have never been in Pomeroy, but I feel confident that the ambassadors of commerce who visit that section of the country, order books in hand, will find that "Torch Song" is an excellent job of local color. If you seek for naturalism in the American drama, here you have an authentic picture of Pomeroy, or some such town, as viewed by weary, wayworn drummers from Cleveland and Toledo.

The local color of "Torch Song," however, is merely incidental. The story of an emotional girl named Ivy Stevens is the main thing. She had loved a certain salesman who visited the women's wear trade in Ohio—loved him with more than a cabaret sincerity. But one night he left her a message, written on a menu card, which bluntly informed her that their affair had ended because he was getting married.

Pomeroy brings them together again. She is the tambourine girl of the Salvation Army outpost; and he is about to assuage his loneliness with "white mule" and the town's wildest flapper.

She speaks to him as a sincere tambourine girl should, and rescues him from sin. At any rate, being a young fellow of fairly decent impulses, he changes his mind and goes to his room. But later that night the simple hearted Ivy has an impulse to "save" her former lover in real, religious earnest, and calls upon him with missionary ardor. At this point in the report a few asterisks are in order, because Ivy permitted her yearning for the man to outwit her zeal for the salvation of his soul.

Then she is ravaged with remorse. In her bitterness she snaps back into her cabaret self; she takes to cigarets, drink, and Spanish dances in a fit of mild hysteria. Every one is highly unhappy; even the seductive salesman hangs his head in shame and tries to coax her back into a religious state of mind.

Well, having fallen from grace and been badly hurt, Ivy finds some peace of mind in the last act. Her "Army" comrade, an upstanding missionary man, contrives to persuade her that she may be down, but not out. One suspects that eventually they will get married. And thus ends a fair sort of play that handles its psychological problem with persuasiveness. "Torch Song" makes you believe in the actuality of Ivy and her paramour, and causes you to feel rather sorry for both of them.

Joan Blair plays the girl capably; Buford Armitage is credible as the lover; and Arthur Shaw, as the leader of the incidental drummers, qualifies humorously for honorary membership in every Elks lodge in the land.

To Test 2,000 Pairs of Shoes to Find Best Cobbler

An examination of 2,000 pairs of shoes is to be made at the Hotel Sherman next week to determine who will hold the title of champion cobbler of North America. The National Shoe Repairmen's and Dealers' association is sponsoring the contest in connection with its annual convention. Each contestant is expected to take charge of the most wornout pair he can find, rejuvenate one to the extent of his ability and to forward both the worn and the restored.

Milder Days Hint of Spring Cleaning, Too

It's Good Time to Phone Sally Joy Brown.

Yesterday's balmy spring weather inspired many a good housewife with the idea of spring housecleaning, with the result that a number of jobs for painters, calciminers, window washers, floor varnishers, cleaning women, and handy men were offered to unemployed persons.

Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE, who aids persons in finding jobs by turning over to the Illinois Free Employment agency, 116 North Dearborn street, all jobs offered by readers of THE TRIBUNE, is full of ideas for other jobs.

"Now that spring is here women will be ready to put their houses in order from garret to basement," Miss Brown said.

"The better off housewife perhaps will want some papering and painting done. And what mother is there who doesn't want spring ginghams and linens made into children's dresses? Lots of seamstresses want jobs.

"In the suburbs, householders can begin to think of their gardens to be planted, their lawns to be seeded perhaps, shrubs set out, and so on. Just think of all this spring sunshine may do for these families out of work!"

Apparently lots of women were of that housecleaning frame of mind yesterday. For instance, Mrs. W. S., in the 4900 block on Milwaukee avenue, wanted some painting done, and J. S., in the 5800 block on Ridge avenue, wanted the floors scraped.

Mrs. G. D., in the 8900 block on Chappell avenue, decided she'd have her spring sewing for the children done, and asked for a seamstress to help her with children's dresses.

Mrs. A. E., in Wilmette, is to have a clean basement in a day or two. She asked for a man to give it a good cleaning.

And Mrs. J. H., in the 1300 block on Albion avenue, is going to have some paperhanging done. Mrs. A. B., in the 7400 block on Harvard avenue, prefers calcimined walls to paper, which means a job for a calciminer.

Mrs. T. L., in the 1100 block on West Sixty-second street, needed help in her varnishing, and W. W., in the 900 block on South Michigan avenue, was so inspired by the spring weather that he is to have a man clean rugs this week.

I. N., in the 8800 block on North Central Park avenue, is having her windows washed. M. M., in the 8000 block on Langley avenue, wants a bricklayer to repair the family chimney.

Lent Day by Day

"SURELY"

The Rev. Dr. Joshua Oden, [Pastor Irving Park Lutheran church.]

"Surely he hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows."—Isaiah.

Spanning centuries of time, Isaiah beheld the coming of Christ. He saw him as having no form nor comeliness, one in whom there was no beauty that any one should desire. He saw him despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. What a picture of the suffering Lamb of God! Christ's suffering and death were vicarious. It was our grief that he bore; it was our sorrow that he carried. Today his invitation is, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Surely he promises to take our griefs and sorrows from us and substitute joy and happiness, with eternal peace. "Therefore, being justified by faith, we have peace with God through Our Lord Jesus Christ." What a landing field for faith is this day of up-in-the-air uncertainties.

PRAYER.

We thank thee, our Heavenly Father, for the certainty with which our faith may embrace the Christ who has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows. Help us gratefully to receive the joy and happiness which he gives in exchange, so that the peace of God which passes man's understanding may be ours in full measure.

NOONDAY SERVICES.

Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior streets, low mass at 12:10.

St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets, low mass at 12:10.

STATIC!

Corot's Portrait of Annette Is Show Feature

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

WORK representative of a century of French painting has just been placed on view in the Knoedler galleries. The exhibit is of value in itself and in its character of retrospective summary. Twenty-two painters are included, with, for the most part, but one painting each, and their names sound the striking differences the craft has undergone during the past hundred years.

The loveliest of the canvases in its dignified and exquisite perfection is beyond doubt the "Portrait de Mme. Sennegon, nee Annette Corot," by Corot, who comes to most of us in more familiar guise as a painter of landscape. This little portrait is a gem of the first water. Another fascinating painting of woman is the vivacious and picturesque "Deux Danseuses Derriere un Portant," by Edgar Degas. The colors in the costumes are ravishing.

Modigliana is shown at his sanest and gayest with the red-haired "Femme au Collier." Renoir is represented by a virginal, tender and delicious "Half-Length Nude of a Girl," an exquisite portrayal of flesh which one would go far to duplicate. With a flight from the sublime to the more matter of fact we find a decorative canvas of monkeys in the jungle by Henri Rousseau, and we find a characteristic, splendid array of types by Daumier with his audience from the Theatre Français.

There are several admirable still life compositions in the exhibit. "Asters," by Latour, is very lovely, small but perfect. The "Lilacs et Roses," by Manet is charming. A yellow rose and a pink rose are in company with plumes of white lilac. It is a fragrant, glowing touch of color that would be entrancing in the right place. Redon offers a "Vase of Flowers" and the flowers are, as is usual with Redon's blossoms, sheer beauty.

Among the other names which give distinction to the group are Braque, Cezanne, Marie Laurencin, Vincent Van Gogh, Derain, Dufresne, Picasso, Monet and Matisse. The exhibition will continue to March 14.

HERE ARE STYLES TO BE WORN AT COURT THIS YEAR

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—This year's debutantes at royal courts will wear long skirts. This was revealed today, with announcement by the king and queen of approved designs for the four presentations to take place at Buckingham palace.

The skirt terminates just above the ankle and trains will not be more than two yards long. The approved designs, besides those for debutantes, include one for chaperons, another for matrons, and another for "grand dames."

The debutante design is carried out all in white, with a full flaring skirt hanging in three folds, and a bodice of the fashionable sheathlike shape.

The gown is cut low in front with rounded décolletage. The shoulder straps are ornamented with laced ruff effects. The debutante shown in the design wears white gloves reaching above the elbow and carries a little Victorian posie.

One of the designs for older women is carried out in a green material ornamented with a flower design in diamente. This skirt fits closely, continuing the sheath effect of the bodice. The belt is at the natural waistline and the bodice falls below it in four long points.

For older women there is a gown of blue material with a sash of diamente running across the shoulder. For married women being presented there is a design of flowered material in the fashionable pinkish brown, with square cut bodice and full skirt with a gold lined train.

All skirts fall to about the same length, just revealing the feet. The season's first presentation takes place May 19. The others are on May 20 and June 9.

Parents Urged to Try a "Hands Off" Day Occasionally

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Book on the care of babies by Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom can be had at the Tribune Public Service office for 50 cents or by mail for 65 cents.

Mosquitoes—and flies—and gnats are annoying. They keep at you so.

One mosquito bite isn't so bad. A fly alighting on you once or twice isn't so annoying. But let them come back and sing in your ear and nip you, and you're quite distracted.

Did it ever occur to you that the advice and suggestions, the "dos and the donts," the "come heres and go there" that we let fly at our children in the course of every day may affect them the way mosquitoes and flies affect us? It has occurred to me occasionally, when I've stepped back and looked on at an ordinary day in the life of a child in a home with grownups.

There are things children have to be told to do, and ways they have to be told to do them, and other things they have to be told not to do so many times that it's surprising that they take it all as well as they do.

Now, some of those directions and admonitions are quite necessary, but some of them are not. We parents get into the habit of inserting ourselves into every situation the children find themselves in, or to use a very old but graphic bit of slang, we butt in.

Here's an experiment to try every once in a while—one I have used successfully. Adopt a "hands off" mental attitude. That is, hold back—just for one whole day—every direction, reproof, reminder, or hurrying word that isn't absolutely necessary. Let them alone as much as is humanly possible for one whole day. Bite your lips, choke back the words—that is, disobey that impulse to interfere.

It's an interesting game to play with yourself—this checking of your impulse to stage manage your child every step of the way. And it will surprise you to find how much you usually clutter up the children's experience with your own superfluous advice. A certain kind of peace and quiet will pervade the scene, which the children, too, must feel as well as you.

Most Chicagoans in Houses, Small Flats, City Survey Shows

In spite of the prevalent idea that Chicagoans are an apartment dwelling race, a survey just completed by the business research bureau of the Association of Commerce shows that more than three-fourths of the city's population resides in buildings containing three apartments or less.

There were on Jan. 1, 1931, according to this count, 125,055 single residences in the city limits, 73,951 apartments over stores, 141,059 two flat buildings, 50,613 three flats, and only 27,332 multi-apartment structures. Significance is attached to the fact that 1,100,000 persons live in two flat buildings, as against only 800,000 who reside in the 249,800 flats in the big apartment houses.

The estimate that only 4 per cent of accommodations for families are unoccupied demonstrates, the survey holds, that a housing shortage may not be far off.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Impromptu Stage Role.

No Broadway star in the latest stage success ever took herself more seriously than I when I played the star rôle in our high school play. Dreams of success haunted me at night. I spent endless hours practicing graceful entrances and exits.

On the eventful night, dressed and awaiting my cue, I wandered into the wings. Climbing on a folded stepladder which was leaned against the wall, I sat, elbows on my knees, watching the actors. Without warning the stepladder collapsed with a terrible clatter and sent me sprawling onto the stage in a most undignified manner. My carefully planned entrance had failed, and my exit was much too hasty to be graceful!

The audience howled and rocked with mirth. Perhaps, I did my best work in getting them in such a happy frame of mind.

My poor attempts at acting have long been forgotten, but I shall never be able to live down that embarrassing moment. C. J. T.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

CLUBS STUDY GARDENING.

Gardening information to be disseminated later to clubs in all sections of Illinois will be furnished visitors at Urbana when the third annual garden week program is held March 4, 5, and 6 at the request of the Garden clubs of Illinois at the University of Illinois.

The three day program has been designed to give special instruction in general design, planting and care of gardens as well as including other topics of general interest.

"Developing Illinois Landscapes" is the subject of the first talk, to be presented Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by J. C. Blair, head of the university college of agriculture's department of horticulture. He will be followed by K. B. Lohmann, professor of landscape architecture, who will discuss "Modernizing the Home Town." The college landscape extension program will be outlined by Miss Edith Murch, extension specialist.

In the evening, Wednesday, subjects scheduled include "Landscape Architecture and Leisure Time," O. G. Schaffer, and "Important Contributors to American Landscape Art," I. L. Peterson, both of the division of landscape architecture.

Thursday morning's program includes the subject of landscape planting design, by Miss Florence B. Robinson; new plants for the garden, H. B. Dorner; and transplanting and pruning, S. W. Decker. Mr. Dorner and Mr. Decker are of the college division of floriculture. The afternoon of the same day will be devoted to modern garden design by S. H. White; an address by Mrs. W. L. Karcher, president of the Illinois Garden club; and a talk on bulbs for the garden by S. W. Hall of the college staff.

C. F. Hottes, head of the department of botany, will give the principal address Thursday evening on "Our National Parks." Friday's program starts with F. F. Weinard's discussion of some garden troubles.

Man Claims Customs Are Fair for a Woman, Unfair for a Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why is it that when a woman becomes engaged to a man and finds out she would rather break the engagement, all she has to do is to walk o and nothing is said? But if the same thing happens to her and the man has any money, she sues him?

"The same condition exists in marriage when a woman, healthy, childless, can be so miserable a wife that her husband has to leave her and he can't get a five cent piece from her—not that he would want it—but when the story is the other way around she can collect alimony.

"I like women as well as any one else, but at 30 I find myself scared to take a chance with these modern femmes. JOHN BOYLE."

The two weak spots in our laws, John! If I'm not mistaken, man-made laws they were, too, thought up and passed in the days of chivalry when it was man's noble concern to protect the little woman. Not so applicable to our day, any right-thinking woman will admit with you, John.

But why don't you men do something about it? Why don't you bring pressure to bear for the institution of new rulings? You'd have more women enrolled in your cause than you believe, perhaps. For two reasons: First, your truly decent, self-respecting woman hates the reflection on her sex involved in every breach of promise suit and every unfair alimony granted. Secondly, because all this cheap racketeering on woman's part is affecting marriage. It's increasing bachelor numbers. And that comes too close to home, with the great majority of women, to make them indifferent on the subject.

However, there's no sense in or need of becoming pessimistic, John, nor in letting any more good years pass over your head. In spite of the increasing numbers of alimony and breach of promise racketeers, there are just scads and scads of women not to be classified at all with your interpretation of "modern femmes."

Don't pattern your opinions after newspaper headlines, for there are millions among the decent element of the sex who never make headlines and never will.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Speech vs. Action.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend says he loves me but doesn't go out with me. Please advise. RITA."

When in love a young man is anxious to be seen with his best girl.

She's Not Interested.

"Dear Miss Blake: I asked the girl I like for a date, but she refused. What shall I do? NICHOLAS."

It's not encouraging. When a girl refuses a date it means she isn't interested.

HOW dare Dorothy Gray Cleansing Cream find so much dirt hidden in your face and neck and throat? This liquefying cream gently removes every bit of the clogging dust and grime that settle on lovely faces.

And dangerous dirt has another enemy in Dorothy Gray Texture Lotion, a thorough liquid cleanser which will not dry your skin. Use it in the morning, or for a hasty midday cleansing. It keeps your skin fine in texture, and reduces enlarged pores.

Cleansing Cream . . . $1.00, $1.75, $2.75

Mrs. Lathrop Gaining After Critical Illness

BY THALIA

GOOD NEWS! Mrs. Bryan Lathrop is going to get well. She's definitely on the road to recovery now, having made an almost miraculous comeback after her life had been despaired of. Of course, it will be a good long time before she'll be feeling entirely fit again, but her many friends here will be relieved to know that the latest cable messages about her are so positively encouraging.

Mrs. Lathrop's nephew, Graham Aldis, sailed for Europe last week as soon as he could after the first distressing word about her critical illness arrived, and last night, the Arthur Aldises sailed on the Bremen to go to Florence and be with the invalid at the Villa Torriginia until such time as she is up and about again. And meanwhile, Mrs. Graham Aldis has gone to California for a visit with her brother-in-law and sister, the Obet Browns, leaving the quartet of Aldis youngsters to the indulgent care of their Grandfather Keeley.

Some Florida Trips and a Dash of Anthropology.

Snatches of news—Chicagoans arriving recently at Nassau in the Bahamas include Mrs. Albert Hayes Wetten, who stayed for a few days in Florida on her way down; Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews, the Joseph C. Beldens and Joseph Belden Jr. [they motored to Florida a few weeks ago], and Dr. and Mrs. Berthold Laufer [he's an anthropologist]. . . . The Robert J. Dunhams will be passengers on the Chief on Saturday morning heading for Los Angeles . . . Mrs. Augustus Eddy departs on Saturday to visit her father, Lansing Warner, at his winter place in Charleston, S. C. . . . The Philip D. Armours III. will be home from their southern trip on Sunday. [They were with the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors for some quail hunting in Mississippi and also visited the Jay Morse Elys at Thomasville, Ga.] . . . Robert F. Carr, having visited his daughter, Florence, who is at Miss Risser's in Charleston, S. C. . . . The Philip D. Armours III. will be home from their southern trip on Sunday. [They were with the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors for some quail hunting in Mississippi and also visited the Jay Morse Elys at Thomasville, Ga.] . . . Robert F. Carr, having visited his daughter, Florence, who is at Miss Risser's in Rome, is now on his way to Paris.

More—Dr. and Mrs. Lewis L. McArthur were recently at St. Petersburg, Fla. . . . The Grand Duchess Marie of Russia arrives this morning to speak at the University club this evening . . . The Henry M. Daweses of Evanston have been at Asheville, N. C. . . . Mr. Silas Strawn spoke at the annual banquet of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce . . . Mrs. James C. Ames, chairman of the music committee of the Three Arts club, will preside at the musical and tea to be given at the club on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock [Fannie Cole Sample is to sing], and assisting her, among other members of the board, will be Miss Harriet Stuart, Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. James A. Cathcart, Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mrs. John Paul Welling.

BETROTHED

MISS ILDA LORING POPE.
[Root Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic S. Pope of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Ilda Loring, to George Cranston Giles, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Giles of La Grange.

Agua Caliente Crawl New American Border Diversion.

A Chicagoan returned from southern California brings back the engaging description of Americans crossing and recrossing the border, going to and from Agua Caliente after 6 o'clock at night. At that hour the gate is closed for the night, but all through the evening parties of people are to be seen crawling through holes in the wire fencing. If there is no hole available there is invariably a small boy with a large pair of pliers to make an opening. Sounds sort of like crawling up the fire escape of a boarding school after hours, but everybody does it, my informant says.

Relative to sociabilities — The Arts club announces an exhibition of paintings by Edouard Goerg to be on view from March 2 to 11, but there is no tea to open the showing. . . . South Shore Country club Follies tryouts and first rehearsal are to be on March 4; the Heigh-Ho club is to give a tea-dramatique, a variety program of singing, dancing, and comedy, at the Goodman on March 22, and the Tavern's April Fooleries are to be the last week in April. . . . Mrs. Louis Boysen, Mrs. Robert Ritchie, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, and Mrs. Clyde Day will pour at the Drama league lecture by Vachel Lindsay at the Stevens next Monday afternoon, and the league is arranging a theater party to see Otis Skinner in "Marius" on next Tuesday evening.

Bright Colored Houses Latest Scheme Before the Ceramic Society

Cleveland, O., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Streets with houses that look like bright colored tea sets are some of the things the American Ceramic society has in store for the American public.

Your lavender house may have to fight the orange and yellow combinations, for it was revealed at the convention and exposition of the society here today that glazed building bricks are being given chinaware colors.

Bricks also are being made porous and light to keep homes warm and to make them noiseproof, H. E. Nold, secretary of the society, said.

To screen out impure iron substances which discolor some of the clays, and to make some of the finer ceramic ware, screens have been produced so fine that they hold water, C. T. Bingham of Cleveland told the convention.

"The fine screens, made of bronze, have 40,000 holes to the square inch and wire finer than hairs," he said. "The same screens that won't let water through will pass 33 per cent of a cement mixture.

"The screens can be used to tell how fine your pottery clay is. We can measure particles as fine as seventeen-ten-thousandths of an inch."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who were in Florida on their yacht, Ara, the early part of the winter, recently went abroad and now are in Paris. They went over to see the completion of the new Vanderbilt yacht, the Alva, which was launched at Kiel, Germany, last November.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt will start soon for California to join her daughter, Mrs. Vanderbilt Church, who went to the coast shortly after the first of the year to enter her horses in the coast shows.

Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field has gone to Havana, Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Maxwell have gone to West Lake Wales, Fla.

ENGAGED

MISS DOROTHY BUTTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Butts of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to A. C. Siemers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Siemers, also of Oak Park.

Historical Society Lecture Set for Saturday Morning

Dr. William H. Johnson will give the fifth talk in the series of historical lectures at the headquarters of the Chicago Historical society, 632 North Dearborn street, next Saturday morning. Dr. Johnson's talk is entitled: "Protection of Life and Property."

'Let's Pretend' Keynote of Royal Romance of Count and Princess

BRUSSELS, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Another royal romance became known today with the announcement of the engagement of the count of Paris, only son of the duke of Guise, pretender to the French throne, to the Princess Isabella of Orleans-Braganza. The date for the wedding was not made known.

The duke of Guise succeeded his cousin, the duke of Orleans, as pretender to the French throne in 1926 and therefore under French law neither he nor his son may live in France. Their "court" is kept at the Chateau D'Anjou at Woluwe, near Brussels.

The Princess Isabella, born in 1911, is the daughter of Prince Louis Philippe of Orleans-Braganza, who was born near Rio de Janeiro and was pretender to the Brazilian throne until he renounced his rights in 1908.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The attorney general and Mrs. William De Witt Mitchell were entertained at dinner tonight by the Austrian minister and Mme. Prochnik.

Mrs. Dwight L. Wilbur, daughter-in-law of the secretary of the interior, was given a luncheon today by Mrs. Charles J. Rhoads.

The duchess de Chaulnes, formerly Miss Marguerite Shonts, daughter of the late Theodore P. Shonts, who has spent the greater part of the winter here with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford T. Bingham, has gone to New York to visit Mrs. Harry S. Black, daughter of the late Col. Henry May.

SOCIETY AT PALM BEACH

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The S. R. O. sign was hung in front of the Paramount theater tonight as society attended en masse the annual Kiwanis club benefit for underprivileged children.

Among the theatrical favorites who appeared in this revue were Phil Baker, Norma Terris, Helen Morgan, Bobbie Arnst, W. C. Field, and Lina Basquette. Primo Carnera and W. L. [Young] Stribling were introduced from the stage.

Among those who attended the benefit were Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich, Mrs. John R. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Miss Muriel McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore, Col. E. R. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Merrill.

I. Newton Perry and Dr. H. W. White, who have been the house guests of Vincent Bendix, left for Chicago this morning. They are making the trip overland. Howard F. Gillette, who was also a member of the Bendix house party, left for Chicago yesterday.

Mr. Bendix and his house guests, Caleb S. Bragg and James I. Bush, went to Miami tonight to attend the Walker-Risko fight.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy were expected to arrive in Palm Beach today and will occupy their home here.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Bobbie, age 5, had been going to kindergarten for nearly two weeks when he came home one day and said, "Mother, I'm the smartest boy in school."

I asked him how he knew and he answered, "Because the kids all call me Smart Aleck." T. V.

SOUTH SECTION PICKS GOLDEN GLOVES TEAM

MICKEY WAITS; THEN WALLOPS AS HE PLEASES

Spots Akron Boy 30 Pounds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25.—Mickey Walker, little fighting man from Rumson, N. J., who rules the middleweight class, tonight demonstrated his right to mingle with the present crop of heavyweights by winning a ten round decision over Johnny Risko, the puncture Ohio rubber man, before a crowd of 20,000. The gate of $53,000 represented a neat profit for Pa Stribling, father of Willie Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, who promoted the bout.

Walker, weighing 165, conceded 30 pounds to his opponent and won going away. He started easily and let the rushing Johnny take the first round; Mickey took the next two, the fourth and fifth were even, and thereafter Walker won about as he pleased.

No Knockdowns Scored.

There were no knockdowns. Risko was never in serious trouble, but the superiority of the smaller man grew more convincing with each round. Risko had only his ancient plan of battle—to whale away with both arms flailing. While he was strong he bore down upon Walker with sheer power of weight. Mickey took it easy until Johnny tired—and then clouted the bigger man at will.

Tactics were those of a bull fight. Risko was the bull, charging, swinging careless of punishment. Walker was the toreador, clever, using speed to defeat power, stepping in and out, striking, wounding relentlessly, waiting for the coupe de grace that must sure come had the bout been longer.

Brains, Speed vs. Power.

There was science in the fight. Walker pitted his brains and speed against the rushing power of the charging, heavier foeman. Mickey did not finish off his adversary but he had him ready for the kill. It would have only been a matter of rounds. The Ohioan is not the Johnny Risko of old but he is still a fighting heavyweight who is hard to stop.

Walker demonstrated that he is entitled to whatever chances there are available for a fighting man—even a great one—in the heavyweight division.

Max Schmeling and Young Stribling, who are to fight later for the championship, appeared in exhibitions on the card against inferior sparring partners. Max was received without much emotion by the crowd which applauded politely except for a few scattered boos and cries of foul.

Schmeling, attired in a light purple silk suit, worked hard and dropped Pedro Lopez for a count with the big punch.

Stribling Goes Three Rounds.

Stribling, introduced as the next heavyweight champion, boxed three rounds with each of three sparring partners, also using the big gloves. The last round was against an Indian chief who would have been more at home with a bow and arrow.

Gene Stanton, Cleveland, 204, won a technical knockout over Jeff Carroll, 197, Biloxi, Miss., in the second round of a post-feature bout.

George Pavelick, Cleveland, 173, knocked out James Russell, Detroit, 168, in the first round of one preliminary, and Whitey Goraline, Detroit, 178, and Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., 176, drew in a six rounder.

See Chicagoland's Champions Fight!

The time for the Tournament of Champions draws nearer! The best young fighters in Chicago and the central states will bring their skill and courage to the Coliseum ring next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

You can see these youthful champions—120 of them from fifteen cities throughout Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin and 48 from the north, west, and south sides of Chicago—battle for Golden Gloves if you act now. Tickets for the Coliseum bouts are $1, $1.50, or $2.

And you can watch the winners of the Coliseum tournament fight at the Chicago Stadium March 11 for places on the team which will meet New York's champions. You can see this great show—boxing's biggest—for $1, $2, or $3.

Tickets are on sale at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, or you can mail in your order together with a certified check or money order. Address it to the Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves Tournament, The Tribune, Chicago.

TILDEN SHOWS WHY HE'S CALLED 'THE OLD MASTER'

Beats Kozeluh with Ease in Pro Debut Here.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Tatem Tilden II., whom Chicagoans remember as the crotchety old master of tennis, came back at the Stadium last night to prove that he is now just a long limbed guy named Bill Tilden who can still play a lot of tennis, more than enough to toy with the world's professional champion, Karel Kozeluh. He had no trouble in defeating the Czech in his first Chicago appearance as a professional, 7-5, 2-6, and 6-3.

More than 9,000, many of whom apparently didn't know a default from a placement, gathered to see the 38 year old trouper show them why he is called the world's greatest tennis player. He evinced none of the temperament that made him what he was during his amateur career, except once when he chided a tardy ball boy for failing to recover a loose ball which prevented him from taking a point. He drew the crowd's applause throughout the match, particularly those few times when he was forced to summon his famous cannonball service.

Kozeluh Unable to Go On.

The match between Tilden and Kozeluh was scheduled as three sets out of five, but at the intermission following the third set, officials announced that due to Kozeluh's exhausted condition, he would be unable to continue the match.

Kozeluh also attracted considerable attention from the crowd, largely from those hidden in the upper reaches of the Stadium. It was suspected before he withdrew from the match that he was stealing Bill's old temperament act, for he punctuated practically every shot he missed with grimaces and strange noises. During the fourth game of the last set, he stood within ten feet of the net for an easy return with Tilden caught flatfooted, and dubbed the shot. He addressed a long wail to the roof, and returned to the back court with much muttering and shaking of the head.

Kozeluh Off Form.

It was obvious, however, that there was something amiss with Karel shortly after the beginning of the match, for he was continually clutching at his belt, as though he had come down with a severe case of the colic. By the end of the second set he resembled a football player whose quarter back has made him carry the ball nine out of ten times.

Tilden spent most of the evening in the back court, relying on his peculiar assortment of services to harry the Czech. Karel made several remarkable returns, but usually the end of a rally found him in the crowd along the sidelines, with one group of which he grew particularly chummy before the evening was over.

Mr. Jack Curley, who has been identified with the grand old game of wrestling for a number of years, but is now dabbling in the refinements of tennis, appeared early in the evening to witness two of the lesser characters of his troupe, Frank Hunter and Emmett Pare, perform. Mr. Curley appears to have his head trained to a fine one-two twist to follow the path of a tennis ball.

Hunter experienced a little difficulty in disposing of Pare for the fifth time in six matches on the current tour, 4-6, 6-1, and 6-3. Last night's match was a home town appearance for the Pare boy, who has grown considerably since he played basketball over at St. Mel's High school.

Emmerson Quintet Whips Horace Mann in Gary Series

Gary, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Emmerson defeated Horace Mann, 18 to 15, tonight in the final game of the annual city high school basketball series. The victory evened the score between the two teams this season and earned Emmerson second place behind Froebel, city champion.

Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells! Pegler Takes a Sleigh Ride

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 25.—Your correspondent has just returned from a daring tour of exploration in the Adirondack country in a two horse sleigh, in the course of which he discovered and took possession of Little Broadway and 47th street in the name of the City of New York and his honor, the mayor. As soon as your correspondent has assembled his notes he will write a book about the expedition under the title, "Cracked Ice."

Just at present the notes are in a rather haphazard state. There is a Pullman stub for room E, car 98, a document in a foreign language entitled "Commission Des Liquers De Quebec; Liste de Prix, Decembre, 1930; sujette a etre modifiee sans avis," and a penciled memorandum reading, "Write article about bob sledding."

Needs Those Royalties.

No time will be lost in the preparation of the book, as royalties are urgently needed to defray the costs of porterage, tippage, and rummage, which run quite high in the land of the snow.

Arriving at the end of the railroad at 7 a. m., your correspondent was introduced to a lady by the name of Bill who was wearing long trousers stuffed into her shoes, a sweater, and no hat. This lady said she was just about to qualify as a bobsled pilot, explaining that in order to obtain a license the candidate must steer a bob down the course eight times. This all seemed somewhat elaborate and absurd as your correspondent used to steer a bob down Galpin's hill onto Mud lake many years ago and there were no such formalities about it. One aimed the bob down hill, hopped on, and steering either with the foot or with ropes, slid.

However, when Bill asked, "Do you like the bob?" some warning sense prompted your correspondent to say, "No, it's too effeminate."

"Well, you might like it," Bill said. "This run goes down the side of Mount Van Hoovenberg, a run of about a mile and a half, and some of the turns are banked to an angle of 90 degrees. They have an electrical timing device and some of the bobs have been clocked at about 80 miles an hour going into the turns. The state of New York built it for the Olympic bob run next year. It seems much faster than St. Moritz. You have handled a bob on St. Moritz, I suppose?"

Good Old Galpin's.

"No," your correspondent said, "never on St. Moritz but on Galpin's hill at Mud lake in the old days we used to . . ."

"Well," Bill said, "maybe that spoiled you for these mountain runs. No kick left, probably. The synthetic run can't be anything like Galpin's h'll. This one was laid out by engineers.

"There goes Godfrey; he isn't limping so badly today."

"Rheumatism?" your correspondent suggested. "He ought to go to some warm climate. This north country is only for the well and strong."

"No," Bill explained. "Godfrey's bob went over the top on one of the turns in the championship races last week and he hurt his ankle. Some other people landed head first among the trees in another spill and I heard they were pretty thoroughly hurt.

Can't Keep Sled Off Turns.

"My trouble seems to me to keep the bob away from the top of the turns and if you would only show me how you used to do it on Galpin's Hill at Mud Lake, I am sure it would be very helpful indeed.

"But maybe you would prefer something on the order of the dogs. I suppose you are interested in dogs."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ANOTHER DRYDEN STORY.

DEAR WAKE: Reading Irving Vaughan's story on Charlie Dryden in THE TRIBUNE took me back to the days of the famous round table in Mangler's restaurant on La Salle street. Charlie Hachem was manager, and "Bill," "Little Heinie," and "Fat Eddie" were waiters when Dryden, Sy Sanborn, Pete Vroom, Charlie Dunkley, Sam Hall, Drury Underwood, myself, and others used to foregather for dinner every evening during the baseball season.

Among all the Dryden stories I have not seen published his favorite. "It was many years ago in 'Frisco," as Dryden used to tell it, "when I was doing baseball days and covering the morgue at night. One of my friends was a fat copper with big feet who walked with a shuffle because it was too much trouble for him to lift them from the ground.

"One night we were standing across the street from a great big hotel built of clapboards and shingles, a long, low, two story ramshackle affair inhabited solely by miners and Chinamen. My friend, the copper, was standing right on the edge of the sidewalk with his feet spread out at right angles, overhanging the curb.

"It was right after supper and my copper friend and I were standing there enjoying the breeze from up the bay. He was picking his teeth and commenting on things in general when suddenly there was a terrific roar. Dust, clapboards, miners, and Chinamen came rolling out of the side of the hotel and PLOP—something had struck the curbing right between the copper's feet. We looked down and there was the despondent miner's liver, still quivering."

Morris B. Aleshire.

Old Songs.

The unusual response to requests for the words of "Granny's Chair," previously told about in this column, suggests there may be many Wake readers who would be interested in the words of other old-time songs of say 40 and 50 years ago. So if Helpers care to send them, giving year, composer, and in what locality popular, we will undertake from time to time to reproduce a few of these old favorites.

I. A. C. CAPTURES TRACK TITLE AS 2 MARKS FALL

Beard Whips Sentman to Set Hurdles Record.

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Two world records were broken tonight in the American national indoor track and field championships, one the medley relay record, a mark that had stood for eight years.

The Illinois A. C., with 16 points, won the team title. Pennsylvania was second with 15 points. Ray Conger, Harold Osborn, and Anton Burg gave the Chicago club its victory with victories in the 1,000 yards, the running high jump, the standing high jump, and a fourth in the running high jump.

Beard Sets Hurdles Mark.

Percy Beard, long striding youngster from Alabama Poly, broke the first record in the 70 yard high hurdles, running them in 8 and 5-10 and clipping a tenth of a second from the mark held jointly by Lee Sentman of the University of Illinois, Monty Wells of the Boston A. A., and C. H. Moore. Sentman was second tonight.

The University of Pennsylvania's medley relay team, anchored by this country's leading miler, Carl Coan, smashed a record that had stood since 1923 when Joie Ray, Ray Watson, S. Rose, and W. A. Dowding ran the one and seven-eighths miles in 7 minutes 35 and 2-5 seconds. The Red and Blue team tonight stepped it in exactly five and one-fifth seconds faster. Coan ran his mile leg in 4 minutes 17 seconds, cutting down a lead of 25 yards Russell Chapman of Bates college had given Wallace Viles.

Chapman Runs 1:55 Half-Mile.

Chapman, running the half-mile leg, turned in a 1:55 four furlongs in an attempt to pull his slower mates up to victory, overcoming Pennsylvania's 10 yard lead and going on to give his man 25, but little Viles was no match for little Coan.

It was a two team race almost from the start, with Harvard and New York university failing to keep within hailing distance of the leaders.

France's two entries in the meet failed of their ambition to take American titles home with them. Sera Martin finished second to Phil Edwards of Canada in the 600, and Paul Keller fourth to Conger's 1,000 yard victory.

BRUINS TAKE LEAD; DEFEAT TOLEDO, 22 TO 18

Toledo, O., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Chicago Bruins went into the lead for the American league basketball championship here tonight by whipping Toledo, 22 to 18.

The Bruins completely sewed up the Toledoans in the rough battle, and the locals failed to score a single field goal. All of Toledo's tallies were recorded from the charity line. The score at the half was 9 to 6, in favor of Chicago. Lineup:

| TOLEDO (18) | B | F | P | CHICAGO (22) | B | F | P |
| Banks, f | 0 | 2 | 2 | Borgmann, f | 1 | 5 | 7 |
| Brandes, f | 0 | 0 | 0 | Miller, f | 1 | 2 | 4 |
| Spindell, f | 0 | 0 | 0 | Bramwell, f | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| Lapchick, f | 0 | 0 | 0 | Murphy, c | 0 | 1 | 1 |
| Cunningham, c | 0 | 4 | 4 | Kennedy, g | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Barry, g | 0 | 6 | 6 | Kintzing, g | 4 | 0 | 8 |
| Dehnert, g | 0 | 0 | 0 | | | | |

Referee—Sugarman.

Victory tonight for Fort Wayne over Toledo in the league's final game, will throw Fort Wayne and Chicago into a tie. If Fort Wayne wins, the playoff for the league championship will begin at the Broadway armory Sunday night. Standing:

| | W. | L. | Pct. | | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| CHICAGO | 11 | 5 | .688 | Toledo | 4 | 9 | .308 |
| Ft. Wayne | 10 | 5 | .667 | Rochester | 4 | 10 | .286 |
| Brooklyn | 8 | 8 | .500 | | | | |

Little Change Shown in Ban Johnson's Condition

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Little change in the condition of Ban Johnson, former head of the American league, was found by his physician today. The illness of the former baseball czar continued serious.

A STEP UP THE TITLE LADDER

*One of the most furious fights of the south side Golden Gloves tournament at White City last night occurred when Ken Disch of Cleveland outpointed Willie Walcott, colored battler from Coulon's gym. ### 1,500 to Honor Bobby Jones at Banquet Tonight

More than 1,500 leaders in Chicago's civic and sports affairs will see Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, present Bobby with the James E. Sullivan memorial medal, awarded to him by a nationwide tribunal of authorities on athletics.

The medal will hereafter be awarded annually to the amateur athlete or sportsman who, by his example and his achievements, does most to further the spirit of amateurism during the year in which the award is given. Jones arrived in Chicago yesterday. He will leave for Hollywood tomorrow.

Among speakers at the dinner will be Herbert H. Ramsay of New York, president of the United States Golf association, and Mr. Brundage. Members of the reception committee who greeted Jones yesterday will also be present.

O'CONNER TAKES, LEAD IN FLORIDA OPEN WITH 145

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—John O'Conner, Lake George, N. Y., professional, today added a 72 to his score of 73 yesterday for 145 to lead the field at the halfway mark in the 72 hole Florida open gold championship.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, shot a par 71 to card a 146 for the two rounds and stand in second place.

Three golfers tied for third place with 149s. George Christ, Rochester, N. Y., had a 72—77—149; Whitty Cox, Brooklyn, yesterday's leader, a 71—78—149, and Ed Fernety, Jacksonville, a 75—74—149.

White Defeats Natalie in Cue Match, 123-100

Maj. White, Chicago billiard player, last night defeated Pasquale Natalie, 123 to 100, in the second block of their 750 point pocket billiard match at the Woods Billiard Academy. White now is leading in the meet, 255 to 192. The third and fourth blocks will be played this afternoon and tonight.

Here's a Boy Who Doesn't Know Defeat

BY ARCH WARD.

This is the story of a boy who does not know the meaning of defeat. His name is Scotty Sylvano, an Italian lightweight from Coulon's gym, who battled his way to the Tournament of Champions at the Coliseum by whipping Louis Jallos of Cleveland in the south side trials at White City last night.

He had come—worried and arm weary—to the fourth round of a bout that threatened time and again to end in disaster, but always he was Scotty, the gamecock, the indomitable, the never say die. Outclassed in the first round, he fought his way back until the judges were unable to reach a decision at the end of the regulation three rounds.

Explodes Right to Stomach.

Suddenly from out the maneuvering and sparring that began the last stand the Italian shot a right mitt freighted with a vision of a pair of Golden Gloves. It landed on Jallos' stomach with a smoldering crack like a firecracker exploding under a can. The Cleveland boy's knees sagged. He did not stagger back as he might from a less deadly wallop. His eyes no longer sparkled with keen sprightliness. He slowly sank to the canvas.

Through all this, the fleeting action of a second, a low rumble had started the distant thunder of bleacher fans heralding a storm. It came on, swelling into a roar as tier after tier caught it up, until it broke in all its fury over the gleaming square where a tense drama of the ring was unfolding.

Thirty-nine hundred—the largest crowd that has seen Golden Gloves preliminaries—were mad with excitement, all shouting cheer to the attacking Chicagoan or encouragement to the fallen invader. It was bedlam, nothing less. Here were a couple of lads with courage in their hearts fighting the battle of their lives. For what? A place on the Chicago team that will face New York. It doesn't take the lure of gold to bring out the fighting qualities of Chicagoland's youth.

The boy from Cleveland arose at the count of three and set himself for another attack. His grim face darkened in a vicious scowl. Sylvano traded glower for glower and what's

[SUMMARIES ON FOLLOWING PAGE.]

Seven days of Golden Gloves qualifying trials ended last night when 3,900 packed the White City arena to see Chicago's south sectional team chosen. This throng established an all time attendance record—the fourth time the mark has been battered since the north side trials started a week ago.

The south side, last of the three metropolitan sections, concluded seven nights of fighting such as Chicago never has seen before. The roaring thousands last night, many of whom were lined up at the ticket windows two hours before the first bout at 7 o'clock, attested to a program of amateur bouts unequalled heretofore.

Consider this summary of Golden Gloves:

Chicago's three sectionals attracted an entry of 736. Fifty per cent of these boys reported for first round trials.

Integrity Bouts Begin Monday.

The tournament of champions opens Monday at the Coliseum. Chicago's 48 qualifiers, six in each class, meet 120 other fighters. Fifteen cities in five states have entered their winners. From these boys will come champions of the west. They face New York's victors in Madison Square Garden on March 30.

What a night of fighting. There were only 38 bouts, seemingly a short program after the 56 of the night previous, but the boxers, particularly in the featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight classes, were so closely matched they carried the crowd to sustained enthusiasm never seen at professional shows.

The south side had many who might have defended Chicago's boxing reputation with honor at the Coliseum, but there were a few just a bit better than the rest.

Crain, 1930 Champion, Beaten.

Chancey Crain, 1930 Golden Glove lightweight champion, went down to defeat last night. Fighting for a chance in the 147 pound class of the Coliseum tournament, Crain bumped into George Keenan of Coulon's gymnasium. Perhaps the colored lad was not in the best of physical condition. At any rate, his superb punching ability, which has won him many tough scraps, failed to keen Keenan at a distance, and George came through with a three round decision. Keenan never has been defeated.

And Joe Roman, another of the 1930 Chicago team, was outpointed in a four round bout which was as nearly even as any match ever can be. It was Don Gonzales, southpaw featherweight from Cleveland, O., who whipped the Golden Gloves lad. Gonzales' left to the body was a deciding factor in the last round. But Roman never paused. When the bell rang he still was boring in, trying for a punch which would put his opponent on the canvas.

Caserio Whips Phillips.

And don't forget Freddie Caserio. Last night's crowd won't for a long time. He faced another of Cleveland's team, Ralph Phillips, a smashing, hammering middleweight. Four rounds [this also was decided in an added session] Freddie jabbed and countered, dodging Phillips' powerful blows, to win a battle that was either's until the last half minute.

Caserio followed with a victory over Gus Lidquist, Lawndale gym, which put him on the south side team.

Nick Scillaba! Here's a bantamweight who had the crowd on its feet. Nick pounded out a three round victory over Fred Gravel of Kankakee. Then he came back to stop Oliver Frenbug in one round.

Olsen Pulls Comeback.

Courage and skill. These are the keynotes of Golden Gloves fights. And Irving Olsen of Cicero demonstrated both in his battle for a chance in the light heavyweight class next week. Dan Lamarre punched Olsen groggy in the first round, battered his nose, and had him reeling, nearly helpless, along the ropes. But the second round, Olsen came out, tore into Lamarre, and in less than a minute knocked his opponent unconscious.

ANSWERING BELL JUST ROUTINE TO BELL BOY, PORTER

But Ring Gong Monday—That's Different!

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 25.—There are bells and bells, but Van Jenkins and Billy Edwards have answered 'em all. In case you don't know them yet, these two colored boys are members of the Golden Gloves team which Fort Wayne will send to the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Coliseum next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Van, or rather Mister Van Jenkins of Mobile, Ala., Jackson, Mich., and Fort Wayne, Ind., just naturally fell into the habit of answering bells while he was working in a hotel. It was a dainty, tinkly little affair upon which the room clerk would tap whenever a guest arrived, thereby notifying Van that business had begun to boom and that a young man should be up and doing.

And Billy Edwards is accustomed to respond to another bell—the one connected with the telephone in the Wheatley Social center over on Douglas street in Fort Wayne, where he is employed as general factotum. It has a jangling note which makes him spring into action at the first jangle.

Await Another Bell Monday.

But the bell they like to answer best of all will sound next Monday night. It will be mounted beside the ring at the Coliseum and it will strike with an electrifying clank which will send each in turn bounding out of his corner to battle for a place on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves team.

It won't be the first time that Billy Edwards has thrilled throngs in Chicago, for on the final night last year he brought cheers thundering from ringside to gallery by his game comeback after being knocked out by Paul Leberto in the fight for the championship. He took a half hour's rest and again entered the ring to win a decision from another opponent, a runner-up person on the Chicago Golden Gloves team. He was unable to return to the city, however, to compete in the fights with New York.

Wants to Go to New York.

Billy is determined to go all the way because he's improved a lot. Then, too, he has an added incentive because he's just a natural born traveler and is all set to make that trip to New York. He started his wanderings during summer vacations while he was in grammar school at Akron, O. The route of a trucking company led right through town and there was no resisting the temptation to flip one of the machines and start off for Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and all points east. Somehow or other Billy never got quite as far as New York, so he's made up his mind to go there next month with the Golden Gloves team.

Last spring Jenkins finished his education at Central High school, where he was an excellent all around athlete. He was a star on the football team and went in for just about everything, including baseball, basketball, and track. He's a rangey, powerful young fellow, and fights in the middleweight division.

Edwards is still attending Central High school and is almost as much athlete as Van, though he doesn't play football. His specialties are basketball and baseball.

more important, blow for blow. That knockdown wallop settled the issue.

There was another entrant at White City last night who deserves a place in print although he lost his bout. He is Tony Schaffer of Ratibos, Germany, who entered the quest for Golden Gloves for no other reason than his love for battle.

Schaffer's First Ring Try.

Schaffer never had fought a bout with gloves until he first entered the White City ring. But he knew how to fight. He got his schooling on the battlefields of Europe. Schaffer fought in the Austrian army throughout the world war. He was bayoneted in the body in hand to hand fighting and still carries the scar. He twice was wounded by shrapnel and rifle fire.

Schaffer is 31, married, and the father of two children. He lives at 5224 North Mansfield avenue. He weighed in at 161, only a pound over the middleweight limit, but rules of the meet required him to fight in the 175 pound ranks.

He had a fighting heart and a terrific punch in his right hand, but it took more than that to get anywhere as a candidate for Golden Gloves.

You may read more about Schaffer a year hence.

TONY CANZONERI STOPS KAUFMAN

Before they had been scrapping one minute, Canzoneri sent his bigger opponent to the floor for a count of 8 and after the fifth knockdown the referee stepped in and halted the bout.

Veenker Quits Michigan; Will Coach at Ames

Ames, Ia., Feb. 25.—(AP)—President R. M. Hughes and athletic officials of Iowa State college today announced the selection of George Veenker, University of Michigan basketball coach, as head football coach at Iowa State. Their recommendations still need the formal approval of the state board of education, which is expected to be granted soon.

Veenker will take over the coaching reins March 11, two days after the Wolverine basketball season closes. He succeeds Noel Workman, who resigned last fall after his eleven had lost every game.

PREFERS GRID SPORT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—George Veenker would rather be head coach of football than head coach of basketball. He will leave here at the end of the basketball season and will start work with the Iowa State football team at Ames next fall. Veenker will succeed Noel Workman, who experienced a disastrous year at the Iowa school.

Veenker has been here five years, having come from Emerson High school at Gary, Ind., where he coached for six years. Before going to Gary, Ind., he was at Hammond, where he coached for 18 months. He turned out eight football teams at the two schools, and six of them won state championships.

During his first year here, Veenker served as assistant coach of football, basketball and track. During his second year here his services as football coach in spring practice were required, and he was taken from the track squad. Since that time he has worked with the grid squad spring and fall and devoted the winter to basketball.

Succeeded Coach Mather.

Veenker took over the basketball reins during the second season here, when Coach Edwin E. Mather became ill. Mather died the following summer and Veenker was named to succeed him as head coach. His first team tied Wisconsin for the conference championship, winning ten games and losing two. Last year the team finished third with six wins and four losses.

Veenker was graduated from Sioux Falls, S. D., High school in 1912. The following term he went to St. Lawrence university. He dropped out at the close of one semester, and the next year enrolled at Hope college, Holland, Mich. He completed his work there in two and one-half years, thereby earning a degree in three years of college work.

First Job at Grand Prairie.

His first coaching position was at Grand Prairie seminary, Onarga, Ill. From there he went to Batavia, Ill., High school. During the war he went in the air service, but hostilities closed before he earned a commission. After the war he went to Hammond.

Veenker plans to go to Ames immediately after the close of the basketball season here to take charge of spring practice. He will return as soon as the spring drill is over, and will teach physical education during the summer term. He plans to establish his residence at Ames about Sept. 1.

Cochran Beats Hoppe to Take Lead in Cue Meet

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Walker Cochran of Hollywood, Cal., took the lead in the international 18.2 balkline billiards tournament tonight by defeating Willie Hoppe, former world's champion, 400 to 252, in eight innings. It was Cochran's third straight victory of the tournament and Hoppe's first defeat.

North Central Defeats Y. M. C. A. College, 39-16

5 MAROON TEAMS WILL SEE ACTION OVER WEEK-END

Gymnasts, fencers, and wrestlers will keep the home fires burning in Bartlett gymnasium this week-end while the swimmers are at Indiana and the track team meets Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

The undefeated gymnasts, who have scored three conference victories, will get their hardest test of the season when they meet Wisconsin and Michigan in a triangular engagement Friday evening. Wisconsin and Chicago fencers meet at the same time. The wrestlers, who have won all their conference meets this season, will have their hardest meet Saturday night when the Illini come to Bartlett gym. Michigan's fencers will also be in action against Chicago Saturday night.

Springfield's Happy Again; Doxey to Fight

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was great alarm in the camp of the Springfield State Register's Golden Gloves boxing team for a time yesterday.

For Frank Doxey, the flyweight, notified Frank Weir, the boss of the Springfield team, that business was so rushing in the tailor shop in which he works that he didn't know whether he could get away long enough to fight in the tournament of champions at the Coliseum on next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

To take little Mr. Hard Slugging Doxey off the Springfield team would be little short of a calamity for boxing followers in southern and western Illinois. For they expect to see several boys on the Springfield team win Golden Gloves in THE TRIBUNE'S big tournament in Chicago. They consider Doxey their strongest card.

Finds Substitute Tailor.

But finally, after a long search, an apprentice tailor who could replace Doxey while the tournament of champions is under way was uncovered and Mr. Doxey's presence on the Springfield team was assured.

It will be remembered that the Springfield team brought a flyweight—Johnny Emmerick—to the Golden Gloves tournament last year who fought his way through to a place on the Chicago team which clashed with New York. And in the intercity match he took on New York's flyweight champion and gave him a mauling in a thrilling battle.

Springfield fans haven't forgotten Emmerick. Neither have the Chicago people who watched him fight so gallantly in last year's tournament.

Say Doxey's Even Better.

But if you will believe the Springfield boxing followers this boy Doxey is a little bit better than Emmerick. "He can beat Emmerick doing anything," one of the veteran boxing followers in Springfield lamented when it appeared that Doxey would have to pass up the Golden Gloves struggle in order to stay on the job at the tailor shop.

Doxey has been fighting his amateur bouts, for the most part, down in Emmerick's territory around St. Louis and East St. Louis. He has never been beaten in close to 100 scraps, but did not hook up with Emmerick, although he was always anxious for such an engagement.

Emmerick and Doxey might have fought it out in the Springfield meet, but Emmerick was ill at the time.

But Doxey will carry on for him even though some easter coat and vest creations may suffer during his absence from the tailor shop.

LOYOLA WITHERS BEFORE DE PAUL'S QUINTET, 22 TO 15

Loyola withered last night before the accurate marksmanship of the De Paul basketball team, and when the game ended De Paul was out in front by a 22 to 15 score. It was a close battle the entire distance, and while De Paul was in possession of the lead most of the game at no time was the margin sufficiently great to assure victory.

Offensively, De Paul had a big edge, but Loyola's zone defense kept the Demons away from the basket and they were forced to depend on long shots to run up their score. Slicks Powers was the biz reason for the De Paul victory. He did not score, but his direction of the De Paul offense and his clever floor work were largely responsible for his team's points.

Lauritis was high point man for De Paul, scoring four goals and a free throw. Bud O'Connor scored six of De Paul's points.

Loyola's shooting was its downfall, the Ramblers being unable to hit the basket despite frequent scoring opportunities.

WISCONSIN GRID ACE, GOLDENBERG, LEAVES SCHOOL

Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Charles R. [Buckets] Goldenberg, University of Wisconsin sophomore half back star last fall, withdrew from the university at the end of the first semester because of financial difficulties, it was learned today. After remaining in Madison for several days with hopes of being able to continue he left today for his home in Milwaukee.

Glenn F. Thistlethwaite, head football coach, declared that Goldenberg was expected to return to Wisconsin for summer school, inasmuch as he must make up a condition in German, received last semester, before he is eligible to play again.

LONG HOURS FOR CUBS PROVE MILD FIRST DAY A HOAX

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 25.—The gentle character which Rogers Hornsby displayed yesterday when he permitted his second squad to rest after getting off the boat today proved to be the basis of a cruel hoax. Never in the history of present Cub attachés has a troupe of outfielders and infielders been given so much work on the first day of spring training.

The drill started at 11 o'clock, as per schedule, but it did not end at 2 o'clock as per mental estimates and hopes of artists involved. It was well on to 4 o'clock before the boys weighed out at the bath house.

Manager Hornsby's first order was to get the batting cage set up. He announced that the first work would be hitting at left hand pitching. This went on for an hour. Then there was hitting against right handers for an hour. In each series the outfielders were obliged to dash out and shag flies between their turns at bat.

When a fast grounder from the bat of Coach Charlie O'Leary took a bad hop, Clarence Blair, at second base, was knocked unconscious. He was taken to a hospital where it was said he would be unable to resume practice for several days until his left cheek bone returns to normal.

Slight Error in Time.

The players thought that the batting would just about fix things up for the first day, but goodness, how they erred! Coach Charley O'Leary presided with the fungo stick, while the first string infield, Grimm, Hornsby, English and Bell, worked at fielding ground balls and throwing. They were followed by the second string, Blair, Jurges, and Beck, with Cliff Heathcote filling in at first.

If this wasn't all, folks, Manager Hornsby called for volunteers on the soccer game, explaining to the infielders that they could duck the drill for one day if they desired. But the boys were too proud to stop on an optional proposition of this kind and all took a whirl. They didn't stick very long, however.

But returning to the hitting practice. All eyes were on Hack Wilson and the new ball. Hack busted quite a few with customary vigor, but the day's prize for long socking went to Vincent Barton, powerful outfielder obtained from Baltimore.

Barton Nears Record Drive.

Vince smacked one that was said to approach the all time record for long range hitting on Santa Catalina island. Barton hit .342 in the International league last year and this little talent makes him a leading candidate for one of the outfield jobs. Many think that Stevie will be specialized in swooping 'em in the pinches and will do only a limited amount of fielding this year. If this turns out to be the state of affairs it will be up to Barton, Danny Taylor, and Johnny Moore.

While pleased to have all his help assembled, Manager Hornsby didn't let the new arrivals sweep him off his feet. He still kept his eye on the pitchers, and, incidentally, Lon Warneke was moved up among the lads who will be given especial attention.

Rogers said that Lon had pleased him greatly with his work and if he keeps going he and Ed Baecht are assured of Chicago employment that will carry them through the regular season.

PROFS. LYONS AND FABER IN DEBATE ON NEW SPHEROID

But as Yet Neither Has Pitched It.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 25.—While the pitchers can't quite make up their minds about that new baseball which is going into use this season. They got their first glimpse of one of the new pellets with the raised seam during today's practice session and the consensus seemed to be that the difference between the old and the new was so slight as to afford the batting gentry only limited relief from the bombardment they have been receiving in recent years.

The vote of doubtfulness was based on how the new implement felt to the hand. None attempted to throw one, so the difference, as far as effect is concerned, can be noted only by trying to throw something on the order and none of the rounders is in enough advanced form to permit taking liberties with the speed and control arms. You don't see the wise old heads like Faber and Lyons getting reckless enough to experiment. All they do is to get on the batting end of a bunting game.

Lyons, whose 22 wins last season put a weak team are sufficient proof of his skill, was the only pale hose hurler who, after trying his grip on the two varieties of balls, admitted the newest edition offered greater possibilities. He seems to believe it will not only improve curving and fast sinking ball knuckle balls as well. He's an artist at the latter. His knuckle ball is thrown with a grip which has the fingernails driven into the seam. Urban Faber, whose experiences of 17 years of big league throwing guide him to an opinion, was one of number whose view is opposite that of Lyons. Faber says the ball being raised uniformly will not increase air resistance when the ball is thrown. Faber, of course, will take that view because he's a pitcher. The spitter breaks because of the seven resistance, caused by wetting one spot on the ball. Thomas refused to believe the ball no different until he could try it out with batting he could put on it.

Jingle Bells! Pegler Takes a Sleigh Ride

...plied brightly, "I have a dog of ...rs by the name of Annie. That ...le is more or less Scottie and her ...me is Annie Laurie but her in...ds call her by her first name."

"That I mean," Bill said, as a jingle sound came merrily over the snow and a strange procession was driving around the corner. "That I mean," Bill said, "is that...id dogs."

Florida More Attractive.

...r candidly, your correspondent is thinking of Miami Beach and in a mild vein, either, at this moment. Now there are various kinds of ...er sports and the Florida kind is much more attractive at this distance. There are sports for you. After ...ling down a synthetic hill on a sled with an automobile steering ...ear, or jumping off a mountain ...ere are but the thrills of the Coney ...land roller coaster scenes had dramatized and magnified. But to plop down ...outh of chips on this red and let ...e money ride for a second whirl—...at is a sport to test the nerve.

"But about a sleigh?" Bill suggested, "with two sparkling steeds to ...hich you owe the answer?"

"There to," your correspondent ...orted.

"Oh," Bill said, "the drivers are well acquainted around here. The ...ver would probably know where to."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Facing the Facts

BRITISH-ITALIAN NAVAL ENVOYS IN MYSTERY PARLEY

Text of New Scheme Is Kept Secret.

BY DAVID DARRAGH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 25.—If Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, and Albert V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, who arrived in Rome from Paris tonight, have any formulas in their pockets for making a naval limitation arrangement to which England, France and Italy can subscribe jointly and thus make the London naval treaty an effective five power pact there is no indication of it so far.

The two British statesmen were greeted on their arrival in Rome with diplomatic formality. They went to the British embassy. Where they stayed tonight, and at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning they will confer at the Chigi palace with Foreign Minister Dino Grandi.

May Present New Plan.

Presumably, the British are here to present the Italian government with new proposals as a result of conversations with the French government, but the nature of any new plan is in the dark, so far as it has been allowed to become known here. On the contrary, the Italian press has been warned to abstain from any kind of comment beyond expressions of cordiality to Mr. Henderson and Mr. Alexander.

That any solution of the Mediterranean problem is to be expected as a result of this visit, however, seems to be discounted here.

The two British delegates will have lunch with Dino Grandi tomorrow and at noon on Friday they will take a train back to Paris, spending only 48 hours in Italy.

It is gathered that Italy's position remains substantially the same as that set forth by Dino Grandi last winter in London. A subsidiary and temporizing agreement may be reached with regard to next year's program but the point on which Italy holds out without any sign of changing is that the construction of new tonnage, whatever the calibre of gun or type of ship, must be on a basis of parity.

French Body Condemns Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 25.—The first indication of trouble ahead for British-French-Italian naval accord now being negotiated broke out in the naval affairs committee of the chamber of deputies today when the Nationalist deputy, Jean Ybarnégaray, demanded the committee to turn down the pact, if it is successfully concluded, because it was negotiated without the chamber's participation or knowledge. The committee approved unanimously a resolution criticizing the manner of the negotiation.

Ybarnégaray sharply criticized Foreign Minister Briand and demanded that he appear personally and submit to questioning regarding his action. M. Briand refused tonight to appear before the committee, but declared his willingness to receive the chairman of the committee, Paul Boncour, to make whatever explanations were necessary.

COURT AMENDS RULES TO ACCEPT SURETY BONDS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Urchell, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Burke.

Orlandor Smith and Carl Wrenfree, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finneran.

The judges of the Criminal court yesterday amended the official rules to allow surety companies to act as bondsmen in the courts. Although surety bonds have been accepted by the judges for the last few months, no court rule authorized this procedure until yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, in charge of the bond department, said that the new rule ultimately will result in driving the professional bondsmen out of business.

Dies in Gas Filled Flat: Leaves Notes to Family

Fred Maechler, 38 years old, was found dead last evening in the kitchen of his flat at 1038 Loyola avenue. Death was caused by gas. Apparently Maechler had turned on the jets of the kitchen stove. The body was discovered by a bellboy. The Rogers Park police found three notes; one to Maechler's parents, another to his wife, Mrs. Catherine Maechler, who had left the apartment during the afternoon, and a third, without an address, which advised concerning the disposition to be made of his automobile. Maechler had been connected with Joyce North and company, an investment concern at 39 South La Salle street.

SEES 5 YEAR PLAN AS FATAL TO RED REGIME IN RUSSIA

Vandervelde Returns from Sovietland.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 25.—"Russia can only succeed with her five year industrialization plan if she manages to get enough skilled workmen and engineers," Emile Vandervelde, Belgian labor leader and president of the Second (Socialist) International, said today upon his return from Moscow and China. M. Vandervelde has been to Russia four times, in 1914, in 1917, in 1923, and now.

"The standard of life of the Russian workers is better today than in previous years of the revolution and no worse than their pre-war standard," M. Vandervelde said. "But it is far below anything other European workmen would accept. Hundreds of communist workers went from Germany and other countries to Russia, but most of them left because they could not adapt themselves.

How Money Is Raised.

"The five year plan is meant to result in the investment of 68 billion rubles in the productive machinery of Russia. The ruble, whose official exchange rate in Russia is 48 cents, can be had for 7 cents in Warsaw. Even so the amount the soviets want to invest is tremendous and would be unthinkable in any other European country.

"How do the soviets do it in their impoverished country? They use four methods: (1) They have a monopoly for the purchase of farm products which they buy at ridiculously low prices and sell much higher to the consumers; (2) they hold the monopoly of industrial production, selling all their merchandise at very high rates; (3) their tax system is intricate and heavy; (4) they dump all surplus production abroad. By those four means the state is able to set aside huge amounts of capital every year and invest it in the five year plan.

Sees Soviets Doomed.

"If the five year plan fails the soviet government will make way for the worst dictatorship the world has seen as yet. It would be a danger to peace all over the world. Second, if the five year plan brings prosperity to the Russian people they will stand no longer for communist dictatorship, but will gradually develop into a democracy.

Clothes are of bad quality in Russia, but food can be had, the labor leader said. He had taken a trunk full of food provisions with him on the Trans-Siberian train, but the dining car had a big menu every day, he said, and at every station peasants had eggs and chickens for sale.

"I did not eat in the dining car, though, because it smelled too badly," M. Vandervelde explained.

EX-KAISER'S SON JOINS FASCISTS; PRAISES HITLER

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The National Socialist newspaper, Angriff, asserted today that Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, had unequivocally accepted the leadership of Adolf Hitler, head of the National Socialist of Fascist party.

The paper printed an account of a speech by the prince before a meeting of Fascists at Chemnitz yesterday, in which he said he had completely subordinated himself to Hitler's leadership, in accordance with the German tradition, "When a real leader is recognized, then follow him."

Prince August Wilhelm was quoted as saying the nation should be grateful to the "brown shirts" for staking their lives on the future of Germany.

Mrs. Phillip Clements, 103, of Grundy County, Is Dead

Morris, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Phillip Clements, 103 years old, for many years a resident of Grundy county, died last night in the home of her daughter. She is survived by ten children, 14 great-grandchildren, and several great-great-grandchildren. At the last presidential election she made her way to the polls alone and voted for Herbert Hoover.

Storm Hits Naples: 6 Die; Heavy Damage Inflicted

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Storms which have swept Sicily for four days struck Naples this afternoon, inflicting heavy damage and causing the loss of an undetermined number of lives. Three unidentified bodies were recovered at Trapani, Sicily. A small fishing craft capsized off the shore of Catania, and three out of its crew of five were lost.

HIGH COURT RULES AGAINST FREE RIDES OF RAILWAY NABOBS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The practice once indulged in by railroad officials and their families of traveling free on other railroads' lines was halted for good today by a Supreme court decision, supporting a ruling of the interstate commerce commission that railroads shall not transport private cars belonging to another system except upon payment of the published tariff rates.

The majority opinion, handed down by Chief Justice Hughes, affirmed a decision of the District court of the western district of Kentucky. The lower court had dismissed a petition of the Louisville and Nashville, Illinois Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and other railroads asking that the commerce commission's orders in 1929 abolishing the free hauling practice be set aside.

SUSPECT SHOOTS TWO POLICEMEN AT JAIL IN PLANO

Lyle Selper, 40 years old, marshal of the village of Plano, and his assistant marshal, Clifford Abel, 40 years old, were both shot and wounded yesterday by Audre Seamon, 20 years old, of Sioux City, Ia., whom they had arrested in connection with a robbery at Rockford. Seamon escaped in an automobile. The marshals found Seamon at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Bert Campbell, in Plano, which is about twenty miles southwest of Aurora. He accompanied them to the Plano police station, but when they attempted to lock him in he drew a pistol and began firing. Selper was struck in the abdomen and Abel in the right arm. The condition of the former was reported to be serious. Abel followed the fugitive to the street and fired at him as he drove away.

"Pendulum Burglar" Dies in Fall of Five Stories

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The "pendulum burglar," sought by the police for a dozen recent upper story robberies in the Times square district, pulled his last "job" early today. He died in Bellevue hospital from injuries received when a rope on which he was lowering himself from a fifth floor window of the office of Dr. George McBride, a dentist, broke and he fell to a courtyard. He was identified as Victor Laurie, 31 years old, a seaman. A girl, Ella Warner, who said she was Laurie's sweetheart and accomplice, was found nursing his bruised head in her lap when the police arrived.

Man Who Helped Field Lay First Atlantic Cable Dies

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Henry F. Hoyt, 80 years old, died today. He was associated with Cyrus Field in the laying of the first Atlantic cable, and is reputed to have sent the first cable message. At one time he served as secretary to the late Jay Gould.

CHIEFS OF 33 DRY GROUPS WARN PARTIES ON RUM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Leaders of 33 national dry organizations today served notice upon both political parties that they would exert all the pressure at their command to obtain dry planks and dry candidates for the 1932 presidential race.

After protracted debate, the national conference of organizations supporting the 18th amendment, at its final day of executive sessions, appointed a new "board of strategy" to attend both party conventions with this end in view.

The names of the dry leaders who will serve on the board of strategy were announced. They were: Dr. Ernest Cherrington, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the W. C. T. U.; E. L. Crawford, Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, national temperance bureau; Dr. Renwick Martin, National Reform federation; Dr. Clarence True Wilson; Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league; Mrs. Elizabeth Coltin, Unitarian board of temperance; Dr. J. W. Claudy, Presbyterian temperance agency; Col. P. H. Callahan, Catholic prohibitionist, and Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, International Christian Endeavor.

SOFTEN DRINK CHARGE AGAINST COLLEGE HEADS

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Charges against Dr. H. H. Cherry, president of Western Kentucky Teachers' college at Bowling Green, Ky., and W. M. Pearce, head of the college's extension department, were amended and the two men fined $3 each at a special session of police court yesterday afternoon.

Disposal of the cases did not become publicly known until tonight. A charge of driving while drunk against Dr. Cherry was amended to violation of the boulevard stop regulation, and a charge of intoxication against Mr. Pearce was amended to breach of peace.

Prosecutor Staly Briel said a bottle of prescription whisky found in Pearce's automobile would be returned to him. He said the whisky apparently was legally issued.

Gov. Roosevelt Sued by 4 Persons Hit by His Car

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was revealed today as a defendant in a Supreme court action for $20,000, brought by four plaintiffs, who assert the governor's automobile collided with a car in which they were passengers. Gov. Roosevelt was not in his car at the time of the accident. Jean Morris, an actress; Charles Ceili, a pugilist, and Frederick Rengeneschi, and Nina Rengeneschi, who has a restaurant in West 10th street, are the plaintiffs.

SHOT BY HIS SON-IN-LAW.

Green Thompson, colored, 41 years old, was shot yesterday by his son-in-law, David Jackson, in Thompson's home at 1338 Hastings street.

Vapex—in a new bottle—with many new features

Easier to use, more economical, handier than ever is this delightful inhalant

TURN it up-side-down, knock it over, try and make it leak—the new bottle of Vapex is non-spillable, non-evaporating, non-leakable. Here's the first economy and convenience of the new bottle.

But you have an even bigger surprise when you first use Vapex. How easy! Just twist off the cap—give a shake—and just the needed number of drops comes out on your handkerchief or pillow. A bottle now goes much farther. It is possible now to get almost a hundred full-strength applications for $1 with Vapex. It's the same reliable relief for colds in a greatly improved new package. Now an application of Vapex costs just about one cent.

Ask your druggist for the new bottle of Vapex. Use it for prompt relief for your colds. A few drops on your handkerchief—a few drops at each end of your pillow at night—and you can fight your cold asleep or awake. Remember V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant discovered during the war.

Aldermen Seek to Lengthen Council Term to 4 Years

A step toward increasing the term of aldermen from two years to four was taken by the city council yesterday at the request of Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. The brevity of the terms of office of the aldermen, Massen declared, militates against efficient public service and he had the council judiciary committee directed to prepare a bill to increase the term which will be submitted to the general assembly during the present session.

STEEL OUTPUT SHOWS GRADUAL UPWARD TREND

Orders from Motor Industry Rise.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another week of progress in industry is indicated by the midweek steel trade review. The gain has been slight and attended with irregularities, leading to the conclusion that business is feeling its way carefully, which may be disappointing to those wishing for boom times, but is satisfying to conservatives hoping for sustained improvement.

Steel ingot production this week is estimated at 52 per cent of capacity by the Iron Age, a gain of 1 per cent over last week. And Steel places the average around 53 per cent, a fractional gain. Both journals suggest further improvement.

"The upward trend of iron and steel demand has not been checked," Iron Age says, "although the rate of gain is still gradual. Business from the automobile industry has shown further improvement. Specifications for line pipe, tin plate and track materials continue to increase and releases from miscellaneous consuming lines are in larger volume.

Caution Dominates.

"Caution remains the dominating note with most buyers and current orders are notable for their greater frequency rather than for their size. Distribution of tonnage is uneven both as to products and mills, and there are wide divergencies in the operations of different companies and of different departments in the same organizations. But raw steel requirements continue to expand in the aggregate.

"Purchases of steel by the automobile industry are the largest since last September and in most cases the orders are to cover immediate production requirements. The same seasonal influences that are apparently stimulating automobile demand are also affecting other steel consuming lines in varying degree. Close to 200,000 tons of projected pipe line work has recently come into the market. The week's fabricated structural steel awards, at 55,000 tons, are the second largest this year."

Trend Is Downward.

The monthly trade reviews are less cheerful, although the conditions they set forth are largely "water over the dam." The Chicago Federal Reserve bank reported a further moderate decline in industrial employment and pay rolls in January.

"The downward trend was evident in practically all lines, as ten of the fourteen groups in the classification had fewer employés than were reported for December, and only one group, food products, showed any expansion in wage totals. Some firms have reported wage reduction, which have combined with reduced working hours to curtail total wage payments.

"Declines were reported in January from the preceding month in all reporting lines of wholesal trade except drugs. With the exception of groceries, declines were more than seasonal. Decreases continued to be recorded in business from a year ago."

Central Trust Survey.

"Business and financial operations for January were disappointing only to those who were expecting a sharp and sensational upturn at the beginning of the new year," the Central Trust Company of Illinois says in its survey. "Probably the most discouraging development was the continuing commodity price decline. As production, and therefore employment, for the ensuing months depends largely on present inventories, the most hopeful indicator which January produced was a further reduction of stocks, the most notable of which were lumber, copper, silk, cotton, fish, poultry, butter, cheese and eggs."

Storage stocks of gasoline again increased last week, as refiners took more crude oil and expanded operations somewhat. The refiners operated at 63.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 61.9 per cent in the preceding week. Gasoline increased 749,000 barrels to a total of 43,608,000 brls.

Senate Finance Committee Approves 8 Billion Bonds

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The house bill to authorise increasing by 8 billion dollars the bond issue of 22 billion dollars originally granted to finance the second liberty loan was approved today by the senate finance committee. The bill, which recently passed the house, would exempt any bonds issued under the measure from surtaxes, excess profits, and war profit taxes.

Compromise Agreement Is Sought on Oil Aid Proposals

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A compromise agreement on proposals to limit oil importations into the United States was sought tonight by a house subcommittee in an effort to obtain legislation this session.

Meanwhile, there appeared little likelihood of any action before adjournment on a measure to embargo the products of forced labor. The senate finance committee today voted 8 to 6 against it.

Groups opposing and favoring oil limitation legislation conferred today with Speaker Longworth. The result was the appointment of a house ways and means subcommittee to seek a compromise.

The first meeting of this group broke up without acting after a three hour session. It will resume tomorrow in a last minute drive to frame a satisfactory compromise that will permit house action this session.

Dissatisfied with Delay.

Meanwhile, dissatisfied with the delay, some representatives from oil territory started a canvass of interested states with the view of persuading a large block of Republicans to absent themselves from the party caucus tomorrow night as a protest.

A New England house delegation protested to Longworth against further consideration of measures aimed at foreign oil. Representatives of the mid-continental oil territory urged further consideration.

The sub-committee delegated to find a middle ground consists of Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee, Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, and Bacharach, of New Jersey, all Republicans. They will meet with experts of the tariff commission and bureau of mines.

Representative Hoch [Rep., Kas.], will serve as counsel for the independents and Representative Nelson [Rep., Me.], for the opposition. Particular attention will be given to drafting a compromise permitting the entry of fuel oil, the basis of New England opposition.

Charges Conspiracy.

Oklahoma City, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Petitions bearing 130,000 signatures and calling for abolishment of proration of oil production in Oklahoma were presented to a committee of the state house of representatives today by E. B. Howard of Tulsa, president of the Oklahoma Oil and Gas association.

Addressing the committee in favor of an anti-proration bill before it, Howard charged the Standard Oil and Dutch Shell companies had entered into a conspiracy to "starve out" the little producers by importing cheap oil from Venezuela and other countries.

Recalling the nation-wide conservation meeting at Colorado Springs, the speaker charged that "they gave Hoover the presidency and gave Wilbur a lifetime job for their betrayal of the people."

Advised by the attorney general of the United States that they could not put over their plans in the nation because of the anti-trust laws, the companies began looking to the states, Howard alleged. They were not permitted to install proration in Louisiana, Kansas, Arkansas and Texas, Howard continued, but "found a fertile field in Oklahoma."

LIFE INSURANCE DROPS IN STATE DURING JANUARY

An indication that funds are being used for investment purposes at the expense of the life insurance market is shown by a renewed interest in the financial world as compared to the January life insurance sales in Illinois, the total of $57,062,000 for the month being $12,602,000 less than for December, according to the research department of the Illinois chamber of commerce report on the state's insurance totals. Sales for January, 1930, were $67,740,000.

Exchange Reports Rise in Cotton Mill Sales

Many cotton mills in the country have sold such a large volume of cloth during the last few weeks that they are now in a stronger position as to stocks and orders than at any other time since the spring of 1927, the New York Cotton Exchange service reports. Total cloth sales during the last few weeks have been considerably in excess of total production during the same period, the service says, and on some lines of goods they have been the largest in any such period in several years, with contracts running into the summer.

France Cuts Defense Bond Interest; Seen as Gold Aid

PARIS, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The ministry of finance today approved an order reducing the interest on French national defense bonds from 3 to 2½ per cent. A communique said that the reduction was justified by the situation of the money market. In financial circles it was held that the order was largely a result of the scheme of cooperation between French and British treasury officials who recently discussed the flow of gold into France.

U. S. OF EUROPE GRAIN PARLEY WRECKED BY ABSENCE OF RUSSIA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 25.—The "United States of Europe" failed to show much unity when the "conference for the disposal of surplus stocks of cereals of 1930," loudly heralded as the first practical realization of Aristide Briand's pan-European plan, broke up today, with only 16 of the 23 nations participating signing a platonic resolution.

Failure to include Russia in the conference wrecked it. Russian dumping proved to be a specter which hung over the entire conference, dominating it from the beginning to the end.

It became evident that no agreement the conference could formulate would be worth the paper it was printed on with Russia dumping millions of tons of wheat on the European markets. Between Aug. 1, 1930, and Feb. 19, 1931, Russia exported to Europe more than 80,000,000 bushels of high grade wheat, representing one-fourth of all the wheat imported into Europe during that period. Russian exports, there is reason to believe, will materially increase this year and next year.

Great Britain, Ireland, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, the Netherlands, and Sweden declined to undertake the purchase of the wheat surplus of the Danubian countries. Even the signatories of the resolution are merely required to undertake "to reserve a certain portion of their imports of wheat for exports originating in the countries under consideration." The Danubian countries, for whose relief the conference was organized, are blamed partly for the failure of the conference. They are accused of trying to sell their surplus stocks to the European nations at excessive prices.

Farm Land Market Improves, Says National Realty Survey

BY AL CHASE.

Completion of a nation-wide survey of rural conditions by the farm land and country estates division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards shows that the farm land market is in better condition than it's been for some time. The survey also discloses the interesting fact that there is tendency toward farm buyers reared in rural districts; it also was discovered that middle aged buyers are more numerous than those in their twenties.

Still another significant development disclosed in the national survey made by the realtors was that forty-eight people in twenty communities actually bought farms as investments during the last few months.

More Farms Sold.

Realtor farm land brokers, located throughout the country, reported data on fifty-nine communities. Thirteen found business the same as a year ago; sixteen said conditions were worse, and thirty found a better demand for rural lands. In forty-two communities one hundred more farms were sold in 1930 than in 1929.

Analyzing the crop plans used by their buyers, farm land experts of the realty association found a tendency almost three to one for diversified farming as against one crop farms.

Investigating reasons why 193 farmers have sold their holdings in the last few months, it was found the necessity of settling estates accounted for the greatest number of these sales, with foreclosures third on the list of reasons, and six selling to buy larger farms.

Middle Aged Buyers Lead.

The survey gives data interesting to the farm land broker on farmers' history, ages, and family size. In 194 sales, greatest number of buyers were from 41 to 45 years of age, with only four in the 21 to 25 year class.

Native born farm buyers exceeded foreign born buyers nearly four to one in this survey and the greatest number of buyers were raised on farms. Fewest buyers were those who had been farm tenants. The greatest number of families among these buyers had four in the family.

MAY ACT TODAY ON RAIL HOLDING COMPANY PROBE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Whether the house interstate commerce committee may proceed during the congressional recess to investigate all holding companies operating in interstate commerce will be largely determined tomorrow by action of the house rules committee.

With the interstate commerce committee divided over the proposition, indications were the rules committee vote would be close. The commerce committee approved it, 8 to 5.

The proposal grows out of recommendations of the commerce committee after its twelve month investigation into railroad holding companies submitted to the house last week. It is designed to permit the committee to study, along with rail carriers, the feasibility of rewriting the transportation act of 1920 as sponsored by the interstate commerce commission.

Four Police Cars Guard 2 Trucks with $1,000,000

Accompanied by four automobiles loaded with heavily armed police, two armored trucks early yesterday carried $1,000,000—$60,000 in cash and the remainder in securities—from the Harbor State bank, 7851 Stony Island avenue, to the Chatfield Trust and Savings bank, 7936 Cottage Grove avenue. Acquisition of the Harbor State bank by the Chatfield Trust was announced on Tuesday by Arthur Tobias, president of the latter organization.

SENATE GROUP REFUSES CASH FOR OIL PROBE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The senate audit committee today refused to authorize any funds for senate investigations of the oil industry and of the administration of the post office department as proposed by Senators Nye [Rep., N. D.] and McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], respectively.

January Rail Earnings Show Decline of 36.3 Pct.

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The first eighteen railroads to report January earnings had net operating incomes aggregating $8,745,000, a decrease of 36.3 per cent from the $13,738,000 reported by the same carriers in January, 1930. The figure also showed a decrease of 51.9 per cent from the $18,211,000 reported for January, 1929. The same railroads had net operating incomes of $15,564,000 in December.

The latest roads to report, with comparative figures for January last year, included:

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Feb. 25.—The stock market took some punishment in the face of out of town selling orders and local profit taking today, but there were enough die-hards and rear guard rallies to prevent the reaction from getting out of hand at any stage. Closing prices averaged about 1 to 5 points below those of yesterday.

Trading was again brisk, the total being recorded around 4,300,000 shares, which was about a million below that of the preceding session.

Such news as developed was mainly of a constructive character, including the Steel report with its figures showing further improvement of conditions in that industry. However, the street seemed to feel that the recent advance of the market had outstripped the business "comeback" by a good margin and that a reaction of some sort was due if the market is to be kept in the "healthy state" about which the market sharps and others have been talking here of late.

Selling in Favor.

For that reason the selling side was in favor and the pivotals suffered with the more volatile specialties which have been providing fireworks for the runup almost since its inception. United States Steel dipped more than a point in spite of the favorable trade review, American Can slumped 2⅜, Eastman Kodak 5½, Western Union 5⅜, Johns-Manville 3¼, and New York Central nearly 2 points.

A few issues of more or less prominence ran counter to the general downward trend all day. Conspicuous among these were the big mail order issues, Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck, both of which ran ahead 3⅜ points—mainly on talk of revived negotiations looking to the merger of the two companies. Tentative proposals

How to remove the uncertainty of future years

. . . Will your wife be enjoying the comfort which you have planned for her ten or fifteen years from now? Will your daughter be completing the education you have in mind for her; and will your son be pushing ahead in business, able to grasp opportunities as they come because of the capital you are building for him?

Each year finds many men turning to trust companies for the answer to these questions. A trust company such as this one is never ill or out of the city on business or vacation, and will be operating as efficiently many years from now as today. It has the advantage of many minds trained for years in investing money, managing property, and the many other phases of administering estates.

Our more than forty-eight years of experience is at your disposal in this matter at any time without obligation. . . .

AUTO ACCESSORY SHARES LOWER IN CHICAGO TRADING

Continental Chicago Rises Against Trend.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Sellers ruled the market on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Several recent speculative favorites among the motor accessory shares were pulled off their price perches to finish the day with moderate net losses.

There were one or two outstanding exceptions to the dominant trend. Continental Chicago turned over in the heaviest volume in recent weeks while advancing to 9¾, the best price which the stock has commanded this year. There was little on the surface to account for the sudden burst of activity in the stock. As an investment trust issue it has been slow to reflect the recent general improvement in the market.

Borg-Warner Recedes.

The automotive shares which have supplied most of the leadership for the market's advance this year were in less demand. Borg-Warner receded to 28 on moderately heavy sales and Bendix broke to 23 before rallying a fraction. Cord eased to 10⅝ and Perfect Circle lost a point on light trade.

Majestic and Grigsby moved in opposite directions, but neither very far. Consolidation of these two companies and the ratification of the proposed refinancing program awaits final approval of stockholders, who are scheduled to act on the proposal at a special meeting March 10. While the Grigsby company is planning to increase production this week the Majestic plant is not now in operation. Officials of the latter state production will begin as soon as possible after the stockholders' meeting. The company reports that unfilled orders now total 82,000 units.

Will Resume Operations.

Gleaner Combine was firm as news dispatches indicated that production will be resumed by the company in the near future. W. J. Brace, operating receiver, said that the firm will probably resume operations next week.

A proposal for increasing the authorized common stock of the Central and Southwest Utilities company from 3,500,000 shades to 5,000,000 shares will be submitted to stockholders at the annual meeting March 31. The reason for the increase in stock of the Insull unit was not announced, but it is thought that the action is taken to enable the company to continue its policy of paying dividends in stock.

Announcement was made by the exchange yesterday that a membership has been sold for $20,000. This is the first increase in price for several weeks. The last purchase was made for $19,000, at which price several sales were made.

Will Honor Insull with Banquet at Palmer House

More than 700 executives of the Insull companies from all sections of the country will celebrate the 50th anniversary of Samuel Insull's arrival in the United States Saturday night with a banquet at the Palmer house. Insull came here on Feb. 28, 1881, soon after his graduation from Oxford university, to become secretary to Thomas A. Edison.

Insull had served in Edison's London office for a short while when he received the offer to come to America. Eight years after he had been in this county Edison placed him in charge of the Edison General Electric company, following the consolidation of the inventor's various subsidiaries.

Hogs yesterday, $9.00; average, $8.05.

Today's supply of 20,000 hogs swamped hands on an erratic market. Light and underweights ruled weak to 25c lower, while medium and heavy stock was 10@15c, bringing the price range to the narrowest point in almost six months.

The extreme top and general average prices were only 40c apart at $7.35 and $7.00, respectively, this "spread" comparing with 65c earlier in the week and with $1.00 nine days ago. For the first time since the middle of December light butchers are outselling underweights.

Trading in hog futures was more active yesterday at about steady prices. April light sold at $8.25, medium at $7.60, and heavy at $7.25, all for delivery during the first half of that month. May lights were offered at $8.75 and bid $8.25. On the "to arrive" market light and medium weights for today's delivery were bid $7.10 and heavy were bid $6.50.

Supplies Held Back.

The unsatisfactory condition of the hog trade on recent sessions has caused the country to hold back supplies. Yesterday's receipts at 6,000 were second smallest for Wednesday in May of last year and compared with 31,000 a week ago. The total at 20 leading markets for the first half of the week at 121,000 head shows a decrease of 13 per cent, compared with a week ago, and is 18 per cent lower than a year ago.

The market responded readily to abnormal receipts and salesmen were able to recover some of the recent heavy losses. Choice steers sold up to $10.50, the highest paid for cattle since the sale of last week. Cows and heifers sold at mostly steady prices. Calves were dull and lower.

Lambs Hold Steady.

Fat lambs held generally steady yesterday, although trading was slow and inactive as noted in some sales of choice and weighty stock late. Best sheep sold to outsiders at $9.00. Feeding packers took most medium and heavy lambs at $8.25@8.75.

Good sheep and yearlings were in good demand and steady. Feeding and shearing lambs held firm. Receipts at 21,000 were moderate for Wednesday, comparing with 4,125 a week ago, which was the smallest Wednesday run in more than a year.

RUSSIA OFFERS CANADA TRADE FOR RECOGNITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 25.—Soviet Russia is anxious for relations with Canada and, to that end, has made a definite offer to the Bennett government. The inducements which the Soviet authorities are offering consist of (1) $10,000,000 worth of orders for agricultural machinery to be placed with Canadian firms during the present year; and an agreement to enter a conference upon the broad question of wheat marketing, with a view to the elimination of dumping. The only condition attached to the offer is that Canada accept Russian wheat in part payment for its agricultural machinery upon a basis of one dollar's worth of coal for every one dollar's worth of machinery. In this would mean accepting approximately $3,500,000 worth of Russian coal. The balance of the $10,000,000 would be payable in gold.

The submission of the proposition to the Canadian authorities was disclosed to the Montreal Star today in an interview given by Lieut. Col. Herbert J. Mackie, former Conservative member of parliament for North Battleford, who is the intermediary of Soviet officials in the negotiations. The government still has the offer under consideration.

BUTTER FUTURES FIRM

Butter futures advanced sharply on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, gaining 1@1¼c on new buying and short covering, helped by improved statistical information. Prices closed ¾@1¼c higher. Eggs showed a firm undertone. Potatoes held unchanged, but supported most of the session. Receipts, 66 cars; eggs, 24 cars; potatoes, 55 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 3 cars.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders await a statement from farm board's subsidiaries regarding their disposition of their wheat holdings, which are expected today, or within a short time. Trade sentiment is bearish and the disposition is to sell futures on all bulges. Those who lean to the bull side, however, prefer buying of futures in Liverpool, which are considered low and under ordinary conditions a sale of Chicago futures would be considered a good spread.

Country holders of corn taking advantage of all strong spots to sell cash and at the same time speculators sell futures. The volume of trade in the pit, however, is said to be so small that the market easily becomes oversold on every break and it is difficult to turn large lines without sharp fluctuations.

Harvey Williams of Thomson & McKinnon, commenting on the uncertainty as to whether the farm board agencies are selling wheat for export, says: "If they are actually disposing of wheat, no matter what the price, it is an ultimate bullish influence on our market, but will undoubtedly stimulate Canadian selling and may result in some price cutting on their part. Canadian grades are bringing 10c premium over Australian and 20c over Argentine in the Liverpool spot market.

MOSER GRADUATES consistently... SUCCESSFUL!
Bigger and better business is always on the look-out for clear, well-trained young women. That's just one reason why so many Chicago women prefer attendance to the courses of the Moser Business College. They know the high standard of work this is capable of. They know that her training in typewriting, shorthand, accounting or filing is sound and efficient. They know that her education is excellent for ...

CONSOLIDATED GAS CO. REPORTS GAIN IN INCOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 25.—The Consolidated Gas company of New York today, showing an increase in gross and net earnings and indicating indirectly that a considerable amount of new financing is to be expected in the near future.

There was no direct reference to the pending financing, but the balance sheet showed that unfunded debt and accounts payable exceeded current assets at the end of the year by nearly $30,000,000. Unfunded debt on Dec. 31 totaled $79,274,552, against unfunded debt of $24,873,900 at the end of 1929.

While the balance sheet indicated that $30,000,000 could be used to good advantage, there is an additional item of $5,500,000 or $9,500,000 to be added as the result of the need for funds to subscribe to recently offered rights by the Brooklyn Edison company. It has been rumored that the financing may be as large as $100,000,000, but there is nothing to substantiate the belief that it will be of this size. The terms of the financing depends on the condition of the security markets during the next few weeks. The financing will have to be approved by the public service commission.

The report of the Consolidated Gas company and affiliated gas and electric companies for 1930 showed a substantial expansion in earnings with net income of $49,262,164, or $5.06 a share on 11,667,539 common shares, against $51,985,607, or $4.75 a share on 11,001,000 common shares, in 1929.

TURNS TO LIBERAL TARIFF.

That Europe is turning away from extreme protectionism in favor of more liberal tariff policies is indicated by recent trade and tariff agreements negotiated between various groups of European countries, according to a review issued by Dominick & Dominick.
